Poor Government Doctors "To Get Ready" for Death Lie Down Occasionally College Men Don't Pray

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

It used to be said that of all undertakings the least accurate was farming. That's a mistake. The least accurate is "government." This world is sick as a planet could be, and its government doctors are as helpless as an Alaskan medicine man when smallpox breaks out. They don't know how to do anything except lie down and die.

European money has gone to smash. Industry over here is sick and millions idle. Our money is too good, Europe's money is too bad. Europe wants to arrange some kind of agreement to stop fighting a d throat cutting and doesn't quite know how.

Modern surgeons cut into the patient and DO something; they do not sit around and talk.

If the world could suddenly develop a powerful dictator that would say to everybody, "You go to work, producing wealth, and I will distribute it," that would settle the present disease, but it would give the world a worse one.

John McHenry, aged twenty-four, killed two men. The judge gives him an extra week of life "to get ready." Rather painful subject, but if you were John McHenry, how would you "get ready" for execution? A majority of men would only get nervous. A great kindness is shown by Providence to animals. They all die without knowing of death. Man not only has to die, but also has to worry about it.

The best way to get ready for death, after thoroughly denouncing and despising yourself and confessing your unworthiness, might be to buy a first class book on astronomy, read it intelligently, and realize that, in a cosmos as big as this, what happens to you probably doesn't matter.

One chapter of the great nebula in Orion would make you say: "I don't amount to much." Into that nebulous space you could throw this earth and ten million more like it, and it would be like dropping a few grains of sugar into the Pacific Ocean.

Professor Courtiere of Paris, serious scientist, says we stand too much. That's evident in our build. We are quadrupeds that have learned to walk erect during the last few hundred thousand years, and haven't got used to it.

Everything inside of us sags down as we stand up. That's what gives men of fifty unpleasant, protruding abdomens. Old horses don't have them. But what would an old horse look like in a few years if he stood on his hind legs ten or twelve hours a day?

It may hurt William Jennings Bryan's feelings to say so, for he still believes that every human male skeleton has a rib missing on one side. Nevertheless, it's a fact that all our internal organs are arranged for a horizontal position of the spine. Liver and kidneys are not properly supported when you stand straight. Doctors advise women before childbirth to stand on their hands and knees a great deal.

While you are standing up straight your heart must pump blood from your feet all the way up. Lying down on all fours your heart would work one-tenth as much.

All this is theoretically useful, for our destiny is to stand up that we may look at the sky, and we must get used to it through evolution and adaptation. But, lie down whenever you can, especially as you get older, and let the heart catch up.

Dr. Ferry, head of Hamilton College, says students do not pray. "When you talk to him of a personal God, the college man does not understand." Dr. Ferry says, however, "Your present day college man talks of truth, honor and service to others." That's something.

College men should know that prayer often brings results, even when you pray to the wrong God. Pagan Mohammedans fight with fury and success after praying to Allah, who, as we enlightened know, was only Mohammed's invention. Prayer is a power in itself.

Dr. Ferry says we must go back "to the faith of our fathers." Even then you must select "the fathers." Thomas Jefferson and Franklin were none too religious.

In Paris a magnificent bathing establishment has been opened for pet dogs. That will amaze some older Parisians. This writer remembers when more than 99 per cent. of all bathers in Paris sent out for a bath and had it brought solemnly in a band wagon, hot water, tub and all.

At the magnificent Hotel De Russie at Nice, if you wanted a bath, an old lady led us down to the basement, lined the inside of the bathtub with a sheet, brought you towels, blazing hot, clasped her hands with tearful anxiety at what you were about to do, and left you to your fate.

Some Frenchmen would trade some of today's porcelain baths for the Hotel De Russie cooking of these days.

2 MEN ARE HURT BY FLYING STONES

Pickets in Pawtucket Are Dispersed by Police After Attack on Truck

Providence, March 11.—Two mill workers were so severely injured they were rushed to a hospital following an attack on an automobile truck load of strikebreakers at the Pawtucket and East Providence line today.

One thousand pickets showered the truck with stones.

The men injured were Alfred Tustasson of Rumford and George Rabitt of Riverside. They were taken to the Memorial Hospital, Pawtucket.

They were bound for the Dunnell plant, the Pawtucket branch of the United States Finishing Company, when the attack occurred.

Police charged the pickets and forced them to scatter.

The men were said to have bad scalp wounds and possible fractures of the skull.

MILL HEADS IN BREAK.

A break came in the ranks of the manufacturers today when managers of the Lonsdale Company of Ashton sent for strike leaders and offered to compromise.

They asked that a meeting of the employes of their plant be called and requested they accept a forty-eight-hour week, improvement in sanitary and housing conditions and return Monday.

They were asked to return under the 20 per cent. salary reduction.

The forty-eight-hour week is a concession, as the old time schedule was fifty-four hours.

The Crompton Mills at Crompton opened again today, but workers refused to return to their machines. One thousand stood outside and hooted before the open doors.

GOVERNOR IS DEFIED.

Defying Governor Emery J. San Souci and attorneys for the manufacturers, leaders of the Rhode Island textile strike today planned to begin next Monday mass picketing of all mills affected by the controversy.

Replying to the attorneys for the manufacturers who had complained to him against mass picketing of the plants, Governor San Souci intimated the mill men might seek redress in the courts.

"The matter of issuing an injunction to restrain unlawful acts depends upon the facts in each particular case," the Governor said, "and a decision on those facts has usually been left to the courts and not to the executive."

"Injunction or no injunction, we will picket," declared John H. Powers, member of the National Executive Board of the United Textile Workers of America, speaking for the Blackstone Valley strikers.

FIGHT FOR RIGHTS.

"We will fight to the limit any atempt to restrict the rights of the workers," said William H. Derrick, general organizer for the Amalgamated Textile Union, representing Pawtucket Valley workers.

"It would appear that all the functions of the State government are being used for strikebreaking purposes rather than functioning as a government for the people by the people and of the people.

"This latest attempt of the mill owners will be as futile as all other atempts to break the strike have been."

At meetings throughout the Blackstone and Pawtuxet Valleys leaders addressed the crowds and urged them to be out strong on the picket line Monday, when they expect the manufacturers will apply to Superior Court for an injunction restraining strikers from mass picketing.

The failure of the operatives to return to work at the Arctic and Crompton mills has strengthened confidence of the leaders that victory is near.

"We've got them beaten," Derrick asserted.

"Let's stand together and nothing can defeat us," urged Powers.

While the Senate Committee on Judiciary holds a hearing next Wednesday on two measures, one by Senator Barry, Central Falls, Democrat, and the other by Senator Noel, Republican, West Warwick, establishing the

Resign From the Force After Charges Have Been Filed Against Them

Charges involving women, it became known today, have caused the resignations of Patrolmen Louis Kramer and George H. Smith from the Boston police department. Details of the charges that led to their voluntary retirement from the force are being guarded with the utmost secrecy by superior officers. Both were attached to Station 12, South Boston. Captain George A. Rooney did not care to make any statement beyond confirming the report that the men had resigned.

Both are said to be World War veterans. They joined the force following the police strike. Smith lives in Dorchester and Kramer in Revere.

ARREST REVEALS END OF HECTIC ROMANCE

Towne's Bride of a Year Has Him in Court on Charge of Non-Support

A blighted romance, the start of which created a sensation in Newburyport, Everett and West Newbury just a little more than a year ago, was revealed when Sidney Towne of Lynn, Newburyport and Haverhill was haled into court at Haverhill by his beautiful young wife, formerly Miss Ethel Kendall of Everett.

The charge was non-support, but the case was continued to June 9 when Towne agreed to support his wife.

About two months ago Mrs. Towne was selected as "Miss Haverhill" at a dancing contest and was given a silver loving cup.

Towne and his wife were married under great difficulties and it was not known to friends that the romance had ended.

January 26, 1921, Towne and his fiancee appeared at the home of the Rev. A. M. Wright at Newburyport, to be married. They were met at the door by two policemen, and the prospective groom was arrested on the complaint of a seventeen-year-old Newburyport girl, Hortense Gould, who

Striking Miners Battle Police; Plans to Establish a Soviet Discovered

London, March 11.—Three officers and 19 constables were killed today in a battle between police and the striking miners at Benoni, South Africa, according to a dispatch to the Central News Agency.

The strikers had planned to seize strategic points and establish a system of soviet in the mining district, according to information received by the government's agents. The strikers shot down an airplane at Johannesburg today.

Total casualties are thirty-two killed and fifty-seven wounded. Fighting is continuing.

Bolshevist Plot Seen in Mutiny Disorders

By Associated Press

London March 11.—The general strike called by the miners' leaders at Johannesburg is in reality a revolutionary movement, according to the Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The strike issue has been eclipsed by the threat against the States, he says.

There was some speculation over Premier Smuts' delay in proclaiming martial law, but it is understood he was actuated by fear that such a step would precipitate a conflict, in which the strikers, who are mainly Dutch, might be reinforced from the Veldt.

The Johannesburg correspondent in the Boksburg and Benoni districts have joined the strikers and formed mounted commandos which attacked Benoni.

The Times' Johannesburg correspondent on the other hand ascribes the trouble to a widespread Bolshevist plot, and says the Fordsburg commando regards itself as a Red guard. He adds that fighting is in progress throughout the Rand, the most severe trouble being in the eastern section.

Johannesburg, South Africa, March 10.—Casualties in the fighting by striking miners and police have reached thirty-two killed and fifty-seven wounded.

The public has been forbidden use of the streets.

CIRCUSMAN SLAIN WITH SHOTGUN

John T. Brunen, Friend of William D. Taylor, Killed While Sitting at Window

By International News Service.

Riverside, N. J., March 11.—John Theodore Bruen, amusement promoter and circus owner, said to be a close friend of William Desmond Taylor, slain motion picture director, was murdered last night in his home here, under peculiar circumstances.

Brunen was sitting at a window on the first floor of his home reading an account of the Obenchain trial when someone outside fired point blank with a shotgun, the charge striking him behind the left ear, smashing the skull.

Mrs. Brunen, who was on the second floor, rushed down stairs to find her husband's body lying near the window.

ROBBERY IS RECALLED

Three men were seen by neighbors to park a car near the Brunen home shortly before the murder. Their description tallies with that of motor bandits who on July 15, 1920, broke into the Brunen home and forced Mrs. Brunen with threats of torture and death to show them the hiding place of the family valuables.

The robbers obtained about $5,000 in cash and jewelry at that time.

According to Sheriff W. T. Stetcher, who lives next door to the Brunens the first warning he had was the heavy report of the shotgun close at hand.

Running to the window, he saw light blazing from the splintered pane in the Brunen home.

Reaching there with several neighbors, he found Mrs. Brunen sobbing hysterically into the telephone summoning assistance.

FAINTS BESIDE BODY.

She fainted as they reached her, falling beside her husband's body.

Camden County detectives have sent out an alarm for a man with a nose of such peculiar shape as to attract immediate notice.

The fugitive is described as short and dark, well dressed, as probably travelling with two companions, also well-tailored, the ages of the trio being from twenty-five to twenty-eight.

Begin to Live This Spring

A man really begins to live when he buys his own home and begins to make a permanent place for himself in a substantial community.

On every side of Boston there are beautiful suburbs containing ideal homes and home sites.

Spring is the ideal season for making this permanent move. Many splendid values are now on the market which will later be unattainable.

It will pay you to investigate the offerings in the "Real Estate" columns of The Sunday Advertiser and The Boston American and make arrangements with the dealers to see those that interest you.

Buying a home is not only an investment in pleasure, comfort and happiness; it is a financial investment which pays in constantly increasing property values.

FORTUNE SWEPT AWAY

Friends Charge Ruthless Tactics Were Employed to Oust Head of Company

Andrew Adie, millionaire sportsman who was ousted from the presidency of the $16,000,000 United Worsted Company, is practically broke, the Boston American learned today.

According to his friends, Adie, whose fortune was estimated at between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000, was forced to relinquish control of the organization which he built up.

They declared that, while the mill man still holds considerable stock as a director, it is the intention of the financial group now in the saddle to force down the price of his holdings so that their value will become negligible.

This will be done, they maintain, through heavy assessments which will force the minority stockholders to throw their shares on the market to be gobbled up later by the bankers.

Friends of Adie were exceedingly bitter today at what they term the ruthless manner in which he was crowded out of the organization which has been his life.

Adie himself, secluded in his Chestnut Hill home, refused to make any statement. His friends declared, however, that he would have something

HIS HUGE FORTUNE GONE

DEFEND ADIE REGIME.

They asserted the history of what they called the swallowing of the worsted company was the same as those of a number of other large corporation which have been acquired by banking interests.

It was further pointed out that the implied charge that Adie was responsible for the losses of the company was unfounded, as a number of bankers served on the board with him. Had he been guilty of negligence or any other offence the other officials were equally responsible, it was declared.

Boston's social as well as financial circles are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the crisis in the affairs of the millionaire and the firm of which he has been the head for twenty years.

For more than a year it has been known that Adie has been experiencing financial difficulties but not until the stockholders' meeting at which Adie retired and Myron W. Wood, treasurer of the firm, was elected to succeed him did it become apparent that there was a prospect of his holdings being literally wiped out.

At the same time it was learned that for the past year a creditors' committee has been in control of the worsted company and that Adie's holdings have been trusteed with Allan Forbes, president of the State Street Trust Company.

DAUGHTERS QUIT SOCIETY.

State street reports had it that back of the crisis is the plan of certain banking interests to secure absolute control of the textile concern. The new president, it was declared, is backed by Robert Winsor and associates in Kidder, Peabody & Company and F. S. Moseley & Company. Four members of the new directorate are members of the former firm and three of the latter. Frank G. Webster, who resigned as director at the recent meeting, was a Kidder, Peabody representative.

The proposed reorganization of the company, which so vitally affects Mr. Adie, is expected to be a drastic one. Its details, however, are a closely guarded secret by the interests now in control.

Back Bay society gossip linked the retirement of his daughters, Andrea and Rosamond, from the social whirl to mission work in Labrador and reconstruction work in France with the jeopardizing of the fortune through the situation of the father's firm.

"The present situation" is revealed in the annual report of the corporation for 1921 which shows an operating loss of $2,697,000. In 1920 a loss of $5,344,000 was shown. On December 31, last, liabilities were $10,588,000 against $7,740,000 quick assets, making a deficiency or debt of $2,914,000 on the $5,100,000 plant.

HOW TROUBLE BEGAN.

"The trouble started with cancellation of contracts," Mr. Adie explained. "Customers wanted to escape, no matter what the cost in honor, honesty or integrity."

Mr. Adie continued:

"If any one, or any group, should attempt to take advantage of the situation for private gain at the expense of the company or shareholders, I should consider it my duty to stand for the right, even as those young men who went overseas to breast the storm of war for justice. Any attempt to disregard the interests of the minority stockholders would work to the ruin of those trying it. Public opinion would defeat their ends.

"The worsted company is doing a good business right now. The shrinkage of values and cancellation of contracts is what hit us so hard that we lost nearly $12,000,000 in assets within two years. The business is founded on the rock of integrity and is sound."

Winslow Brothers and Allen are the largest creditors outside of the banks in New England, New York and Chicago. Speaker of the House Frank G. Allen is a partner of that concern. Kidder, Peabody & Co. underwrote the stock issues and the Moseley firm negotiated the notes.

THREE HORSES SAVED AT SOMERVILLE FIRE

Groping their way through dense smoke clouds, Laddermen Edward J. Elane and John McKenzie of Somerville Fire Department, rescued three horses when fire damaged the barn of Timothy Shea on Merriam street, Somerville, today. The cause of the fire is not known. It started in the rear and spread through the first floor. The loss was estimated at $500. It was the second fire in the barn in the past six monhs.

FOUR DROWNED WHEN AUTO GOES INTO DRAW

St. Augustine, Fla., March 11.—Four persons, two young women and two youths, were drowned here today when a small closed car ran through the open draw of the bridge between Anastasia Island and St. Augustine. The car went down in thirty feet of water with the occupants inside.

FIND LOOT TAKEN FROM BAILEY HOME IN WESTON

Private detectives recovered loot stolen from the home of Harry L. Bailey of Central avenue, Weston, in a house on South street, Waltham. They are hunting Carl Alman. Bailey is a Boston banker.

GIRL WHO CHARGES MAN STOLE AND WEDDED HER

Nellie Udovin of Roxbury and her husband, George E. Lochiatto. The latter in his $50,000 alienation of affections suit against the girl's family, charges they spirited her away from him when he returned after eloping. The girl says she was mesmerized by Lochiatto.

MARRIED WHILE DAZED, SAYS BRIDE

Girl Whose Husband Asks $50,000 Declares She Never Loved, but Only Feared Him

"She's the girl I love. I insist she really loves me, and no one is going to keep her away from me."

So declared George G. Lochiatto, twenty-two years old, of No. 157 Salem street, whose elopement to New Haven, Ct., last September with attractive Nellie Udevin, twenty-eight years old, of No. 101 Harrishof street, Roxbury, caused a five-day sensation, and whose marital affairs are again before the public.

Lochiatto has entered a $50,000 suit in the Suffolk Superior Court against Joseph, Edward and Esther Udovin, alleging they have alienated the affections of his wife. He declares that immediately following his elopement, the defendants persuaded his wife to leave him. He is represented by Attorney Alfred Santosuosso.

NEVER LOVED HIM.

"Love him? I never loved him," said the girl. "He has ruined my life. He used to visit my father's dry goods store at No. 151 Salem street. I came to know him and fear him. Last Summer he attacked me, threatened me, and my folks and I kept silent.

"I was innocent. Each day I had gone from my home to the store and return. I had never been anywhere. I didn't know anything of life. He persuaded me two weeks later to go with him to New Haven. We were married. Through it all I was dazed.

"I was afraid he would do bodily harm to my folks and to me, as he had often threatened. When we arrived at the South Station, and my folks were waiting for me, he slunk away. I had no intention of ever living with him. I never want to see him again."

INDICTMENT RETURNED.

It was further learned today that following the elopement, the bride filed serious charges with former Assistant District Attorney David Mancovitz. They were presented to the Grand Jury then in session, which returned an indictment in less than twenty minutes. Later the district attorney's office nol prossed the case.

When Lochiatto and his bride returned, the girl alleges that he kept her luggage containing lingerie and other articles. An equity suit was brought and Lochiatto ordered to return her personal effects.

YOUTH'S STORY:

Young Lochiatto, who assists his father in the produce business in the market district, tells an entirely different story. He says:

"I didn't bring this suit for money. All I want is my wife back again. I love her. I have known her since I was a child.

"Last September we eloped to New Haven. I called up my brother in Boston and told him we were in New Haven. He said the Udovins thought Nellie had been kidnaped and that the father was very sick. We called up the Udovin home. Nellie said: 'Mama, I am married to George. And George is bringing me right back to you and Papa.' Her sister talked to us and said I had better not come to their house the first night as her father was very sick.

"I brought her back to Boston on the first train. When we stepped off her folks were waiting for her with their machine. I left her a minute to look after our luggage.

BRIDE VANISHED.

"When I returned I found my bride had gone. I called up her house and reminded them I was coming for my wife the next morning. That night, her folks, sick father and all, spent in Revere. I have not seen my wife since.

YALE PHENOM HELD AS BANDIT LEADER

Max Kunin, Formerly Wonder Student, Accused of Northbridge Robbery

Woonsocket, March 13.—Considered so brilliant while a freshman at Yale that he was allowed to tutor, and then later being dismissed from the college for impropriety, Max Kunin, 21 years old, said to be the youngest student ever to enter Yale, is held by the police here for the Worcester grand jury with the hopes that they have apprehended the leader of a gang of hold-up men considered the most daring that has operated in this section for years.

Kunin, with several others believed to be connected with a series of hold-ups and crimes extending to points in Maine, was arrested in Worcester Wednesday. He was arraigned in District Court at Blackstone, R. I., and pleaded not guilty to a charge of entering a building in Northbridge.

It is alleged that Kunin, with others, on February 3, entered the store of L. Lavallee, and holding those in the place at bay with revolvers, escaped with $300 from the cash drawer.

Kunin lives on Salem street, Worcester.

Among those manifesting their interest in the case at court were Chief J. Leo Mulcahy and Patrolman John J. Regan of Northbridge, State Policeman Robert G. Molt and Inspector Arthur Hanlon of the Worcester police.

ANTIGONISH "GHOST" IS ONCE MORE A. W. O. L.

Halifax, N. S. March 11.—Residents of Antigonish County are inclined to believe that the reports of the ghosts who disturbed the slumbers of Alexander MacDonald and his family at Caledonia Mills are like the famous report of Mark Twain's death, "greatly exaggerated." Nary a ghost showed up at the MacDonald home last night, although Dr. Franklin Prince of New York and members of his party were on the alert.

Residents believe the MacDonalds have been the victims of a hoax.

ASSOCIATED INDUSTRIES BACK CANAL PROJECT

Characterizing the plan as both feasible and beneficial to all New England, the executive committee of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, at a meeting in Young's Hotel, approved the construction of the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway and power project. The committee believes the cost of the project would more than be offset by the great economic advantages accrued.

Springfield, March 11.—Attorney Joseph E. Kerigan will run as Democratic candidate for the nomination for Congress from this district against Speaker Gillett. He expects to begin his campaign soon.

Curley Is Opposed to Mixed Jury Plan.

SHOULD WOMEN SERVE ON MIXED JURIES?

YES	NO
Alice Stone Blackwell.	Mayor James M. Curley.
Mrs. Mary Agnes Mahan, president of the Business Women's Club.	Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons.
Mrs. Thomas C. O'Brien.	Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards.
Miss Bertha Wesselhoeft Swift, president of the Professional Women's Club.	E. V. B. Parke, city collector.
Former Senator Redmond S. Fitzgerald.	Councillor William J. Walsh.

Prominent men and women of Greater Boston are equally divided today on the question of mixed juries in Massachusetts.

The experience of seven women on a jury in St. Paul, Minn., who were locked up in the same room for two nights with five male jurors, has had its effect here, and the only point upon which all appear to agree is on separate quarters for men and women jurors when locked up for the night.

Mayor Curley heads the list of those who do not believe in mixed juries. On the other hand, four women to one man in today's list are in favor of mixed juries.

Here is what prominent Massachusetts men and women have to say on the matter:

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY:—"I do not believe in mixed juries. When a man is tried in court it should be by a male jury. When a woman is tried the jury should be made up of female jurors.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL:—"Certainly, women should serve on juries with men. Why not? I think that women on the jury will give it balance. But, of course, there should be separate quarters for the men and women if they are locked up over night."

MRS. NATHANIEL EMMONS:—"I prefer a jury of men. Women are a bit too personal in their judgment. I do not think that women should serve on juries at all."

MRS. MARY AGNES MAHAN:—"I am in favor of mixed juries. Women have other equal rights, why not have them on the juries? They are capable. As for the matter of locking them up over night with men, that should be arranged so that there would not be a repetition of the St. Paul case."

MRS. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS:—"I do not believe in mixed juries. Jury duty is a man's job, not work for a woman."

MRS. THOMAS C. O'BRIEN:—"I am not opposed to mixed juries. Women are just as competent as men. However, personally, I am too busy with my home and children to want to be on a jury."

MISS BERTHA WESSELHOEFT SWIFT:—"I believe that women should serve with men on juries. Why not? They wanted suffrage. They have it. Jury duty is a responsibility that they should share along with voting."

CITY COLLECTOR E. V. B. PARKE:—"I am against mixed juries. I do not believe that a woman should be made to suffer the embarrassment that she was obliged to go through, both in St. Paul and Trenton, N. J. The jury room at least should be so arranged that the men and women would be entirely separated."

FORMER SENATOR REDMOND S. FITZGERALD:—"I believe that women should serve on juries. But they should not be allowed to undergo the treatment that was accorded them in St. Paul. Special rooms should be provided for them in case the jury would have to be locked up over night. It would seem to me that the officials there were to blame for the existing conditions."

COUNCILLOR WILLIAM J. WALSH:—"I am opposed to segregation of men and women in a single jury room, especially where they are confined for any length of time over night. It seems to me that there should be no re-occurrence of such an instance as happened in a neighboring State recently where a mixed jury of men and women were locked up over night. The first consideration is the proper administration of justice and this, I believe, should be regulated by rules suitably framed to protect the rights and obligations of both men and women."

MILL WORKERS ATTACKED IN PAWTUCKET

48-hour week in Rhode Island, the lower branch of the Assembly will take from the calendar and act on a similar bill fathered by Representative Lavander of Bristol.

STATE BOARD TO MEET.

The State Board of Mediation and Conciliation, which gave up its attempts early this week to settle the strike by arbitration, will hold another meeting at the State House Monday.

Judge J. Jerome Hahn of Superior Court, chairman of the board, is believed to have prepared the draft of a measure to be introduced in the General Assembly to give the board the right to compel the attendance of witnesses, the production of books and papers and the authority to enforce its decisions.

Gompers to Address Strikers in Manchester

Manchester, N. H., March 11—Vice-president James Starr of the United Textile Workers is in receipt of a telegram notifying him to call a mass meeting of the textile workers for Monday, when Samuel Gompers will deliver an address to the striking textile workers of this city and vicinity. Vice-President Starr announced that a system was being perfected whereby the unions of the entire country would be canvassed for the striking textile workers of New England.

A relief station will be opened at No. 487 Main street on the West Side, today. Contributions of money have been received from labor organizations throughout New England, including the woolsorters of Hudson, Mass.; woolsorters of Manchester, N. H., who are working in Philadelphia; tobacco handlers of Manchester, N. H., Carpenters' Union of Lawrence, Mass., telephone workers of Manchester, N. H., parish of Rev. Poulis, Manchester, N. H., Cigarmakers' Union, No. 72, of Boston, engineers' local of Boston, and local 1,186 of Tilton.

Strike-Breakers Win Pre-Strike Mill Pay

Pawtucket, R. I., March 11.—Strike-breakers at the Bellefonte mill at Cranston won an incipient strike today when they demanded pre-strike wages. The operatives refused to accept the 20 per cent. wage reduction, which has been one of the causes of the textile strike in Rhode Island.

Manager Samuel Priest led the strike-breakers to the mill office, where they were paid on the pre-strike scale.

Berkeley, R. I., Mill Help Reject Offer

By the Associated Press.

Berkeley, R. I., March 11.—Striking union operatives at the Berkeley mill voted at a meeting today not to accept their employers' offer of a forty-eight-hour week with a 20 per cent. wage cut.

The mill, which was one of the first to be affected by the strike, employs about 450 hands.

Influenza Hospital Burns

Haverhill, March 11.—A wooden building, used to house influenza patients during the 1918 epidemic, burned at Kenoza Trotting Park with a loss of $1,000. Two men were seen running away by the caretaker.

Sherburne Trustees Win $1,361,786 Sugar Verdict

The trustees of the E. R. Sherburne Co., Boston, bankrupt, have been awarded a verdict of $1,361,786.14 by a jury in the Federal Court in their suit against Moss y Cia, Buenos Aires, the plaintiffs alleging breach of contract in alleged non-delivery of 23,000 tons of sugar.

This award is believed to be the largest by a Federal jury for damages in years with the exception of the purchase price of the Cape Cod Canal, which was placed at over $16,000,000 two years ago, when the government sought to buy the canal. John H. Sherburne and Howard Stockton, Jr., are the trustees.

ARREST REVEALS END OF HECTIC ROMANCE

declared she expected to become the bride. She lodged a serious charge against Towne.

Following a hectic hour, Towne was bailed out and he and Miss Kendall fled in an automobile to West Newbury, where they were married late at night.

The next day came the biggest sensation of the case when Miss Kendall disclosed to the police that she was the mother of a child of four years, which she declared was Towne's. It was then learned that she had had Towne arrested on February 1, 1917, on charges similar to those preferred by the Gould girl.

Towne was compelled to pay for the support of the child. Since that time he has been paying $3 a week for the child by Miss Kendall and, according to his own admission in court, had been paying court to Miss Gould.

But the marriage of Miss Kendall and Towne appeared to have smoothed out all the difficulties between them, and friends of the girl in Everett thought they were at last happy.

Now comes the revelation that the romance is ended.

REBELS AGREE TO EVACUATE LIMERICK

By International News Service.

London, March 11.—A settlement has been reached at Limerick, according to a despatch received today. The rebels have agreed to evacuate the barracks they have been occupying and depart from the city.

Matters are different at Belfast. Two shootings occurred at daybreak and there was every prospect of a black week end. A meeting of the Ulster cabinet has been called.

SHOE WORKERS FACE PAY CUT IN LYNN

An immediate wage reduction of 20 per cent., establishment of a 50-hour week to replace the present 45-hour schedule, and abolition of the "permit system" under which the employers must obtain permission of the union when taking on new operatives, are among the proposals of the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' Association in the new agreement submitted to the rate committee of the United Shoe Workers of America.

The agreement, made public today, provides for creation of a joint committee of manufacturers and union representatives to settle questions of wages, hours, rules and price gradings at the expiration of the six-mont period.

This committee would report to the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. The agreement would expire on June 1, 1923.

Charles H. Chase, chairman of the rate committee, announced last night his withdrawal from that position. In a statement he declared the manufacturers had made unreasonable demands and had shown no tendency to co-operate with the unions.

UNDERGROUND RADIO NEXT, SAYS STEINMETZ

Schenectady, N. Y., March 11.—Under certain conditions, radio waves might travel more easily through the ground or the waters of the sea than through the air, it was said today by Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, chief consulting engineer for the General Electric Company.

He said he considered well-founded the supposition that recent performances of low-power radio sending apparatus in transmitting messages to surprising distances gave an indication that the radiations pass with equal ease through the earth as through the ether. The ground, to which both the sending antennae and receiving are concerned, he said, would act as a return circuit for the current.

"HOOTCH" IN BUSINESS DIRECTORY, POLICE SAY

Lowell, March 11.—The police say they now know why Alfred Williette's business directory was so popular among information-seekers hereabouts. It all came out when Alfred appeared in court. He was charged with illegally keeping liquor. The police say they found four small bottles of hootch in the directory. The leaves had been removed to make room for the contraband.

GENERAL AND OTHERS KILLED IN MEXICO

Mexico City, March 11 (By the Associated Press).—General Gerardo Reyes and six of his men were killed in the State of Vera Cruz during an encounter with the rebel leader Miguel Aleman. General Guadalupe Sanchez, commanding the Federal troops at Vera Cruz, has taken the field in person against Aleman.

"TWO-GUN" SMITH GIVEN 12 YEARS

GANDHI, JAILED, OPPOSES ACTION BY FOLLOWERS

Following Arrest for Sedition, He Tells Followers to Remain Unmoved

London, March 11.—Indian police today fired on a force of 2,000 Bhil tribesmen in the State of Rajputana, killing twenty-one and wounding twenty-nine, according to a dispatch from India.

Bombay, March 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, who was arrested last night at Ahmedabad, charged with sedition, advised his followers to remain unmoved.

London, March 11.—The Daily Telegraph today says that Lord Derby, who as Mr. Edwards played the part of emissary in the Irish peace negotiations, has been offered the post of Secretary of State for India.

Tribesmen, under the leadership of Motilal, armed with guns, swords, bows and arrows, clashed with a detachment from the Bhil army corps at Idar Wednesday, according to a dispatch received by Reuter's Agency from Delhi.

The tribesmen opened fire, and the government troops returned it, killing twenty-two tribesmen and wounding twenty-nine.

Ghose Says Arrest Will Bring on Rebellion

By International News Service.

Washington, March 11.—The arrest of Gandhi, the Indian non-co-operationist leader, by the British will result in the outbreak of the long-smouldering rebellion in India, said Sailendra N. Ghose, head of the Indian self-government mission in this country.

"The arrest of Ganhi will be followed immediately," Ghose said, "by a general hartal, or stoppage of all business, and will include a strike of all domestic servants employed by the British. The arrest of Ganhi will not handicap the progress of India's march toward self-government. Nationalist leaders completed plans a month ago for carrying on without their leader."

Advices today said hartals had begun to take form in Bombay, Ahmedabad, Gandhi's home town; Allahabad, Lahore, Amritsaw, Madras, Amballa and Calcutta. Sikh and Punjabi troops are reported to have deserted at Amballa.

Montagu Says He Is Lloyd George's Victim

London, March 11 (By the Associated Press).—Edwin S. Montagu, speaking before the Liberal Club at Cambridge today, justified the policy he had pursued as Secretary of State for India.

"The official reason given for my resignation was that I, by publishing the Indian government's telegram, outraged the doctrine of collective Cabinet responsibility. I cannot help smiling," he said.

He asserted there had been an absolute disappearance of the doctrine of Cabinet solidarity ever since Lloyd George had formed his government.

Montagu declared Lloyd George, in order to get the support for which Lord Birkenhead had pleaded, had presented the Unionist "die-hards" with his (Montagu's) head upon a charger.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY WOMAN IN RUM RAID

By Universal Service.

New York, March 11.—One policeman was shot, two women and a man arrested and 4,000 bottles of Scotch whiskey valued at $30,000 were seized in a raid on a so-called art studio in Greenwich Village.

Mollie Perselli, thirty, and attractive, shot down Patrolman Lavender who led the raid. He will recover.

Frank Celano, one of the men arrested, is believed to be the chauffeur for a gang of bootleggers operating between the Canadian border and New York.

Police in their search of the "studio" found a bankbook containing $80,000 in deposits made during the last six months.

HEARING TUESDAY ON CO-OPERATIVE HOMES

The bill to give the State bank commissioners complete authority to regulate all co-operative home-building schemes was today assigned for a public hearing on Tuesday morning by a legislative committee. The Commission on the Necessaries of Life said in its annual report:

"Some of these schemes are apparently fraudulent, while others represent sales of equities in property the value of which has been greatly inflated. This commission believes the public should be afforded similar protection by investors in co-operative banks."

AFTER ALL, IT'S GOOD INTENTIONS THAT COUNT

A passing citizen saw a tiny flicker of flame on the walls of the Washington Lunch Room, No. 12 Washington street, today. He raced for a fire box. Up the street he ran, panting, until he came to Box No. 1261 on Brattle street. He was still pulling when the apparatus began to arrive, and proudly told the firemen where the blaze was. And the fire fighters did not have the heart to tell him that in his haste he had run past three fire alarm boxes before reaching the one he had pulled.

MOTHER REFUSES TO FORGIVE YALE BOY WHO WED "FOLLIES" GIRL

ROMANCE IS UNDER CLOUD

San Diego, Cal., March 11.—Mrs. John D. Savage, mother of Robert Savage, former Yale student, who married Miss Geneva Mitchell in New York is peeved over the action of her son in leading a Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic" girl to the altar.

Mrs. Savage made this known in no uncertain manner at the La Jolla home.

Mrs. Savage caustically remarked: "That is Robert, all right. But he is destined to wait a long time before he received any felicitations from his mother."

Mrs. Savage abruptly ended by saying that she was going to Pasadena with her daughter, Margaret.

Mrs. Savage presumably went, for the correspondent tried to get in communication with her later to ascertain if she had relented in her attitude to her son, but was told that she had left by automobile for the Northern city.

Mrs. Savage lives at No. 7944 Prospect street, La Jolla, a fashionable watering place seventeen miles north of San Diego. Before going to New York, Robert attended the Army and Navy Academy at Pacific Beach, seven miles from La Jolla.

BOOTLEGGERS MAY PAY $1.25 TAX ON GALLON

Fredericton, N. B., March 11.—Proposed new liquor legislation would put a tax of $1.25 a gallon on all spirituous liquors held for export purposes.

This would affect international rum runners and bootleggers who buy their stocks here and transport them to the border. New Brunswick expects to raise from $300,000 to $350,000 in taxes by this means.

HUBBARDSTON DIDN'T LIKE COCOA; PASTOR QUITS

Hubbardston, March 11.—Methodist church elders and some of the women couldn't accept religion served with cocoa. So the Rev. Alfred L. O'Brien is leaving Hubbardston. The pastor and his wife served school kiddies hot cocoa in the church vestry in the Winter. Once a week they gave a moving picture show in the church. The Ladies' Aid Society thought it was "terrible."

EAST BOSTON BOY OF 11 MISSING TWO DAYS

The East Boston police have asked the police of surrounding cities and towns to find Antonio Larrizzio eleven years old, of No. 310 Meridian street, East Boston, who has been missing from his home since Thursday morning. He is three feet two inches in height and weighs about ninety-five pounds. He is of dark complexion, wore a green jumped and corduroy pants and brown shoes and stockings.

WINE STOLEN FROM WINTHROP PHARMACY

Burglars paid a visit to Winthrop today and entered Martin's drug store on Crest avenue, Winthrop Highlands, carrying away a gallon of sherry wine and a large amount of cigars, cigarettes and candies. Entrance was gained by tearing away the iron grating on the rear door and breaking the window and opening the door. The Winthrop police took finger-prints today.

YANCY DOLLY

For Comstock has brought suit against one of the famous "Dolly" sisters for $6,000, alleging that the money is due on a note of April 15, 1920, payment of which became due four months after that date.

MANIAC TRIES TO KILL WIFE AND CHILD

Becomes Frenzied Suddenly in Roxbury Store; Gives Police Squad Battle

Samuel Feldman, six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds, became insane in a grocery store at No. 153 Howard avenue, and was prevented from murdering his wife, Celia, and three-year-old daughter, Nettie, by a squad of policemen with whom he fought a vicious battle.

Feldman, who lives at No. 143 Howard avenue, was choking his wife to death on the floor of the store when the police arrived from the Dudley street station. With one hand clutching her throat, he fought desperately with the other hand and continued to resist after being handcuffed.

Feldman, carrying the child in his arms, entered the store to buy candy for her. He greeted Irwin Waldman, the proprietor, cheerfully but a few seconds later screamed and hurled the child across the counter in the rear of the store.

Then the crazed man smashed a show case and, seizing a piece of broken glass, scrambled over the counter to attack the proprietor, who fled with the other customers in the store. He is then said to have trampled upon his daughter.

Mrs. Feldman rushed into the store only to be cut deeply on the face with the glass weapon of her husband. He then beat her down to the floor.

Eleven-year-old Herman Waldman, who had followed Mrs. Feldman, picked up the girl and carried her to safety outside.

Feldman was bleeding from cuts inflicted upon himself as he wielded the piece of glass. His hands were severely gashed and his clothing torn to tatters.

B. U. PROFESSOR TO GIVE ADDRESS ON TEA

"Tea" is the subject upon which Professor Lyman C. The army units for the Evacuation Day parade in South Boston have been selected by First Corps Area headquarters. The following will participate: Companies A, B, C and D, Howitzer and Tank Companies and Band of the 13th Infantry; Coast Artillery Training Centre Company. Battalion commander will be Major Joseph C. Morrow, 13th Infantry.

POLITICAL WAR OVER HAVERHILL POSTOFFICE

Senator Walsh Demands Thorough Investigation of Babcock's Appointment

Haverhill, March 11.—Political war is prophesied here as the result of the procedure preceding the appointment of Frank D. Babcock, insurance man, to the postmastership, and whose confirmation by the United States Senate was withdrawn at Washington yesterday.

Babcock was recommended for the appointment by Representative Andrew, following a civil service muddle that will be aired in Washington at a hearing requested by United States Senator Walsh on behalf of prominent Haverhill citizens.

President Harding appointed him this week. Two days ago the United States Senate confirmed the appointment.

Yesterday at the request of Senator Walsh, who had been absent when the appointment was confirmed, President Harding was requested to return it.

HEARING SCHEDULED.

Now a hearing is scheduled before the postoffice committee at Washington, where the strange procedure involving the local postmastership is to be aired, but at which it is said here a bitter fight involving local political factions will be staged. Already, it is said, the Republican ranks are split, prominent business men and shoe manufacturers expressing their disgust at what they term "cheap politics."

Senator Walsh has demanded a thorough investigation of the appointment of Babcock charging that civil service rules were ignored in bringing him to the front.

The postmastership muddle dates from the death of Lott F. McNamara, Democrat appointee who died twenty months ago. His son, George F. McNamara, was appointed acting postmaster. Several months later a civil service examination was held at which Babcock failed to qualify, and McNamara finished second to Clarence B. Lagacey, assistant postmaster.

Before an appointment was made, Republicans replaced Democrats at Washington and another civil service examination was requested by Congressman Lufkin. At this examination Babcock qualified.

DEMOCRATS PROTESTED.

Democrats then charged they "smelled something in the wood pile" and immediately set up the cry, "Why so many exam's?"

Congressman Lufkin left Congress about this time and Representative Andrew succeeded him. He immediately requested that another examination be held.

At this Babcock was announced to have headed the list, while McNamara failed to qualify.

Congressman Andrew immediately recommended Babcock for the appointment.

JEWISH WELFARE CENTRE WILL CONDUCT CONCERT

The third community concert under the auspices of the Jewish Welfare Centre of East Boston, will be held tomorrow evening in David A. Hoffman square, East Boston. The musical program will consist of selections by the Junior Council Orchestra of the Crawford Street Synagogue, Roxbury. There will be solo dances by the pupils of the Gloss Dancing School. Miss Rose F. Hoffman will be vocalist, Miss Julia Sonnabond, pianist, and Miss Katherine Barrabee, elocutionist. Miss Mildred L. Goldberg will be chairman of the committee of arrangements. Everybody is invited to be present.

GILDA VARESI TO WED LONDON LAWYER

London, March 10.—Miss Gilda Varesi, starring here in "Enter Madame," has announced her engagement to John G. Archibald, a prominent London attorney.

Miss Varesi first met her fiance when she appeared here in a stage production during the Fall of 1915. After her return to the New York the couple continued to correspond regularly. They will be married in the registry office here in the immediate future.

LEGION TO CONVENE IN NEW BEDFORD AUGUST 31

New Bedford was chosen for the annual State convention of the American Legion and August 31 was set as the date for the gathering by the executive committe of the legion. The convention will last for three days. The committee also decided that the trip to the national convention in New Orleans would be made by rail instead of by boat as was first proposed.

9,768 STUDENTS ARE ENROLLED AT B. U.

Boston University has 9,768 students.

This enrollment was announced today as an increase of 935 over last year's registration figures, exclusive of extra-mural extension students. The largest growth of the year has come in the School of Education, where 450 new students have been added this year. This is an increase of 76 per cent., 1,040 students being registered this semester. This does not include the extra-mural students.

The School of Medicine, which has been steadily growing for the past few years, reports a 25 per cent. increase, scoring over the registration of the School of Law, which shows an increase of 24 per cent. over last year. The School of Theology, the School of Religious Education and the Graduate School show small increases in attendance.

YOUTH IS DROWNED IN GLOUCESTER HARBOR

Gloucester, March 11.—Angelo Miskelo, nineteen years old, was drowned when he and a companion attempted to sail a leaky dory at Long Beach. The craft capsized and Miskelo sank, but his companion swam ashore.

Search for Inch and Miss McFarland Carried Across Seas to Ireland

"We want our Daddy to come home."

This is the heart-broken cry of the three little sons of William Hector Inch of Appleton street, Saugus, who has disappeared. The man's niece, Miss Kathleen McFarland, nineteen years old, also has vanished.

Inch's sons—Samuel, thirteen years old; William, eleven, and Norman, six—are selling papers to help their lonely mother keep the wolf from the door.

Mrs. Inch, the deserted wife, can hardly bring herself to believe that her husband has eloped with Miss McFarland. "At first I thought he had eloped with the younger woman," she said, "but now I fear that he may be dead or in a hospital wanting me."

Inch disappeared on February 4, last. On the same day his niece, by marriage, dropped from sight. Neither has been seen or heard from since. Now a country-wide search is being made for the pair. The search has been carried across the water to Ireland, the land from which Miss McFarland came less than two years ago.

Miss McFarland lived at the Inch home, but according to Mrs. Inch, the uncle did not care for her. "For that reason I am loathe to believe that they have gone away together," said Mrs. Inch. "But you never can tell about men. They do such peculiar things."

Mrs. Inch stated that her husband seemed worried over something for some time previous to his disappearance. "I asked him to tell me what it was," said Mrs. Inch, "but he only said that he could not and then began to cry. I am wondering now what the trouble was, I would feel better if I knew that he was safe."

BRITISH WHISKEY SHIP SEIZED BY CUTTER

U. S. Patrol Picks Up Tug With 2,200 Cases Aboard, Off New Jersey Coast

Cape May, N. J., March 11.—With 2,200 cases of Candian rye whiskey aboard, the British tug Granville was picked up by the coast guard cutter Kickapoo, in a heavy fog, fifteen miles off the New Jersey coast.

The cutter convoyed the tug, a vessel of 140 tons, of Montreal, Quebec into the Delaware Breakwater, at Lewes, Del., where the British vessel, sagging with bottles of liquor, is under guard of the Kickapoo, coast guards and customs officers.

The seizure was reported to have occurred as the British tug was heading for the Delaware Breakwater on account of rough water.

She was said to have been bound from Portland, Me., for Nuevitas, Cuba, by the way of New York. The unusual aspect of the case is how the Granville came to take on any liquor at Portland. Her captain is H. W. Trohon, and the crew consists of thirteen men.

Maritime reports show a tug named the Granville was at Portland on February 20.

REVOLUTION IN TRIPOLI, GARRISONS ATTACKED

Rome, March 11 (By the Associated Press).—A revolution on a large scale has broken out in Tripoli, says a dispatch to the newspaper El Mondo from its correspondent in the capital. The rebels have cut the railway in many places and attacked the Italian garrisons. At Azizia two companies of Italian soldiers surrounded by rebels are receiving food dropped from airplanes.

A Tripoli dispatch by way of Rome on February 13 told of fighting between rebels and the Italian forces at Misurata, near Azizia.

WORK IS ASKED FOR BOSTON FATHER OF 8

Here is a chance for you to do some good. A man, thirty-one years old, with a family of eight children, is out of work. He does not want charity and is willing to do anything. Immediate relief must be forthcoming.

Luke E. Shields, chairman of the Employment Bureau of the city, makes the appeal for the man. Mr. Shields says that he is worthy and in desperate circumstances and can be reached through him at Room 305, City Hall Annex.

BROCKTON MAN FACES SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Fall River, March 11.—George E. Mahy of this city is the plaintiff in a $5,000 alienation of affections suit entered in Superior Court against Wallace A. Bacon of Brockton. In his declaration the plaintiff says Bacon by "cunning acts and wiles," destroyed the affection Mrs. Mahy had for her husband, and that his home was broken up in consequence.

PERTINAX SAYS ALLIES MUST GIVE U. S. HER DUE

By International News Service.

Paris, March 11.—Pertinax, writing in the Echo de Paris today regarding America's demand that she be paid for the expense of maintaining her Army of Occupation on the Rhine, said: "The Allies don't dare refuse to give America her due, but it is impossible to dodge the question 'What is the use of the American army on the Rhine if it isn't in service to co-operate with the Allies?' "

BROKER, FACING RUIN, KILLS SELF WITH GUN

New York, March 11.—Caught in the business depression which within the past month has closed many brokerage houses, Franklyn D. Seligsburg, forty years old, stock broker at No. 50 Broad street, and member of the Stock Exchange, feared he would soon be left penniless, as his note of farewell stated, and committed suicide in his room at the Hotel Endicott, Eighty-first street and Columbus avenue.

Seligsburg wrote two notes, explaining the reason for his act. Then he placed the muzzle of a 32-calibre pistol to his mouth, pointed so that the bullet would pierce the roof of his mouth and, lying across a bed, pulled the trigger.

BROCKTON MAN HELD AS GIRL'S ASSAILANT

Alleged Companion Escapes When Her Screams Frighten Pair in Lonely Spot

Brockton, March 11.—James V. O'Connor, young and married, was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing on a charge of attempting to attack pretty eighteen-year-old Olive Montgomery at night in a lonely spot near her home on Nickerson street. A companion of the prisoner is being sought.

Miss Montgomery declared she was accosted by the two men at Pine and Hammond streets. One brandished a knife, she said, and the pair compelled her to accompany them. When they attempted to attack her she screamed for help and they fled.

Alexander Holt, an aged resident nearby, came to her assistance. The police were notified and Patrolman Alger responded in a department automobile.

Alger caught up with the man who gave his name as O'Connor on Crescent street. O'Connor ran away, but was captured after a short chase by the policeman on foot. He denied the charges. Description of his alleged companion was furnished by Miss Montgomery.

McCORMACK SINGS AT SYMPHONY CONCERTS

By FRED J. McISAAC

John McCormack sang yesterday afternoon and is singing tonight at the Boston Symphony concerts three Irish fantasies for voice and orchestra composed by Charles Martin Loeffler. He also sang two airs from Bach with all the art and musicianship for which he is famous.

These Loeffler fantasies are based on Celtic airs, set to two poems by William Butler Yeats, "The Hosts of the Air" and "The Fiddler of Dooney," and "The Song of Kathleen ni Houlihan," by Hefernan the Blind.

Mr. Loeffler has treated these Irish themes symphonically in his orchestration and given to the voice original melodies quite Celtic in their character. Few persons not Celts themselves have ever treated Irish music orchestrally in such a sympathetic manner.

McCormack sang these remarkable numbers with all the sweetness, passion, power and artistic skill of which he alone is capable. There is no doubt that this tenor loves to appear with a great orchestra, and would undoubtedly appear as a soloist much oftener if his great recital public and his enormous fees would permit him to do so.

The celebrated Haffner "Serenade of Mozart" opened the concert. Excerpts from Berlioz' symphony, "Romeo and Juliet," closed it.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED IN DRUG CASES

Suffolk Grand Jury Also Files Bill Against Coulthurst, Touraine Employe

The Grand Jury of Suffolk County today returned to Judge Flynn in the Superior Court a large number of indictments, many of them on the secret file. It is understood that among the presentments were a number for violation of the narcotic drug act, made in pursuance of a compaign against drug traffickers commenced by District Attorney O'Brien.

A number of others were reported to have been made against husbands charged with deserting their wives and families.

Among the indictments was one against Roger Coulthurst, former employe of the Hotel Touraine, who is charged with the larceny of $7,500 from the hotel. He was arrested after flight to Worcester, and most of the money recovered.

Herbert P. McGettrick, recently resigned as a member of the police force, was indicted on a statutory charge.

Charles Piazzo and Salvatore Aleo were indicted on a charge of attempting to extort money by means of a "Black Hand" letter from Michael Gentile of the North End, on February 8. They are alleged to have demanded $300 with the threat that unless it was paid Gentile's "life in this country would be made unhappy and he would never return to Italy."

Margaret Proctor of No. 71 Dartmouth street was indicted on two counts charging illegal surgery, and Charles Flynn, until recently a Boston police officer was indicted in the case charged with being an accessory before the fact, and Mary Quirk, with being an accessory after the fact and with maintaining a lying-in-hospital without legal authority.

Another indictment was filed against Racey Murray, negro, who shot and killed Patrolman Daniel J. McShane, January 31 last. Murray is charged with murder in the second degree and also with assault with intent to kill William B. Jackson on the same date.

POLICEMAN HELD UP; BADGE SCARES OFF THIEF

A highwayman after holding up Joseph A. Tullay, a special railroad policeman as the latter was passing No. 145 East Cottage street, Roxbury, departed without taking any of the victim's effects when he saw a police badge pinned to Tullay's coat. A man giving his residence as Taunton and his name as Harold Oakum, twenty-four years old, was later arrested on a charge of drunkenness in Shirley street, Roxbury. Oakum, the police say, had a gun in his possession and answers the description of the highwayman.

RADIO ENTERTAINERS MUST BE PAID, SAYS EQUITY

New York, March 11.—Appreciative but non-paying wireless amateurs who have been sitting at home and listening to world-famous entertainments are confronted with an edict of the Actors' Equity Association that such performers must be paid for their work. The council of the association adopted a ruling that the radiophone is competing with the theatre and that those who talk or sing in the transmitting apparatus must be compensated.

HARDING HITS FIRST BAD WEATHER OF TRIP

Daytona, Fla., March 11 (By the Associated Press).—President Harding today encountered the first bad weather of his vacation trip. The houseboat of Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, with the President and members of his party aboard, was anchored early today above Seabreeze, having made the trip down the coast to Nantanzas inlet. Owing to the weather, officers of the Seabreeze Golf Club were unable to say whether the President would come ashore and play.

U. S. DEMAND ON ALLIES IS SCORED IN FRANCE

Paris, March 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Demand by the United States for $241,000,000 for the expenses of its forces in the Rhineland before any reparations are paid has provoked surprise in French official circles. A French semi-official statement says the American claim comes exactly at the moment when the accord based on the Cannes project was about to be realized, and that it tends to destroy the whole system of reparations so laboriously elaborated by the allied experts.

SOMERVILLE PASTOR TO PREACH FAREWELL SERMON

Rev. Norman MacQueen, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Clarendon Hill, West Somerville, for the past few years, and previously pastor of the Union Square Presbyterian Church, Somerville, will preach his farewell sermon tomorrow. Rev. Mr. MacQueen has tendered his resignation to the Boston Presbytery and will next week go to Peckville, Pa., about nine miles from Scranton, Pa., where he will assume the pastorate of a church.

MRS. CHAPPELL OBSERVES HER 107TH BIRTHDAY

Seekonk, March 11.—Mrs. Maria Horton Chappell, mother of ex-Mayor Herbert R. Chappell, of Willimantic, Ct., and reputed to be the oldest living person in all New England, is observing her 107th birthday today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Frances West, at Luthers Corner. Mrs. Chappell has several nieces living who are now over eighty years old.

MAY ASK COURT TO COMPEL COAL PARLEY

Unions Consider Applying for Injunction to Bring Operators Into Wage Conference

By International News Service.

Washington, March 11.—Court proceedings to compel the soft coal operators to join the miners in a conference to discuss a new wage scale may be sought, it was stated in official quarters today.

Such proceedings would be in the form of a mandamus order issued by a Federal judge, which would compel the operators to abide by the 1920 pact which specifically provides that the two groups hold a conference before April, 1920, in order to adjust any differences that may exist.

"The injunction has been successfully used against organized labor, and labor may invoke it to avert the coal strike threatened for April 1," a governmental official declared today.

It was believed, however, by those in touch with the strike situation that Secretary of Labor Davis' plea to the operators to agree to a conference would be heeded without resort to court action.

"There will be no strike on the part of the miners, but merely a suspension of work, if a new scale is not agreed upon before April 1," John Moore, a member of the legislative committee of the United Mine Workers, said today. The plan of the miners to "suspend work" rather than to strike is to prevent injunctions tying up their funds.

MUST SUBSTANTIATE SCHOOL VICE CHARGES

St. Louis, March 11. — Milton J. Miller, president of the police commissioners, was prepared to appear at a special meeting of the board of education to submit proof of his charges that vice exists in Soldan High School, many students of which are children of wealthy West End residents. The special meeting was called after publication of Miller's charges that he had evidence that girl students of this school had formed a secret organization which required of all applicants for membership that they must have violated the moral code. A similar organization existed for boys, he said. Miller said he had received a number of telephone messages and written communications which has convinced him that his "statement was not strong enough."

DR. McCOMB TO SPEAK AT TRINITY, NEWTON

"Spiritual Healing" will be the subject of an address in Trinity Church, Newton Centre, next Sunday evening at 7:15, by Rev. Dr. Samuel McComb, who with Dr. Worcester, founded the Emmanuel Movement in Boston. Dr. McComb has been conducting a clinic in the Cathedral at Baltimore for several years past, and he has just been called to a professorship in the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, succeeding Dean Hodges as preacher in St. John's Chapel. Dr. McComb bases his teaching on the New Testament, and he is a master of modern psychology and of spiritual therapeutics. Bishop Lawrence will preach at the morning service, at 10:45, and will administer confirmation.

THEATRE JURY PLAN GOES TO MAYOR HYLAN

New York, March 11.—Theatrical managers, playrights and actors were eagerly discussing today the plan which has been proposed to have an unprejudiced jury pass judgment upon alleged immoral plays, producing managers agreeing to abide by the decision of this jury. At a big meeting which was attended by managers, playwrights, actors and reformers, it was suggested that a panel of 300 citizens be selected for possible jury service, made up of persons not connected in any way with the theatre or the reform movement. The plan now goes to Mayor Hylan for his approval and if it meets with his commendation it will go into effect at once.

SPRINGFIELD MAN SUED BY GIRL FOR $20,000

Springfield, March 11.—Mabel C. (Babe) Clarke, former maid at the Hotel Kimball, today filed suit for $20,000 against Herman Buchholz, Jr., president of the Buchholz Advertising Company. The price is $500 a stitch for the forty stitches taken in the young woman's body as the result of an automobile accident while she, Buchholz and another woman were out motoring one night last September. The party crashed into the West Springfield end of the Old Toll bridge and were severely injured.

REV. DR. KELMAN TO GIVE NOBLE LECTURES

Rev. John Kelman, D. D., minister of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, has been selected to give the William Belden Noble lectures at Harvard University this year. His subject will be: "Prophets of Yesterday and Their Message for Today; the Religious Message of Thomas Carlyle, Matthew Arnold and Robert Browning." There will be six lectures given in the series, the first three on April 10, 11 and 12, and the second three on April 24, 25 and 26.

BROTHER OF HARDING'S DOG IS UNDER ARREST

Fostoria, O., March 11.—Keno, a thoroughbred airedale dog, brother to Laddie Boy, owned by President Harding, is in custody here. Keno got in bad when he developed a habit of nipping the heels of strangers. Several complaints were lodged with the police and he was locked up. Keno is owned by Eugene Lynch and is the pet of the three Lynch youngsters.

COLUMBUS PARK UNEQUALLED, SAYS CURLEY

Work on Giant Project in South Boston to Start by First of April

Boston's new pleasure playground. The South Boston Strandway and Columbus Park.

Plans have been completed, the appropriation of $750,000 for the finishing touches has passed the first reading in the City Council, and Mayor Curley says that work will start by the first of April.

Continuing the Mayor says: "Upon the completion of the South Boston Strandway and Columbus Park, Boston will have the best salt water waterfront parks in the United [illegible].

"It will be far ahead of Atlantic City and will afford the residents of not only South Boston, but of the entire city, a wonderful opportunity for bathing and recreation."

LONG BATHING BEACH.

The plans were prepared by Arthur A. Shurtleff, landscape architect, for the Boston Park Department.

The work includes a bathing-beach three-quarters of a mile in length, graded to uniform gentle slope, protected from the dangerous currents, and provided with a large bathhouse for men, women and children.

Approach to this beach by sightseers and bathers is provided by a motor road with marginal sidewalks which follow the curve of the shore and form a direct connection with Columbia road on the high ground at the south, and with the existing roads and promenades of the Strandway on the north.

This stretch of shore road will form a direct link connecting Castle Island, City Point, with Franklin Park. The proposed motorizing of the northerly section of the Franklin Park "Circuit Drive," between the Zoo at Peabody circle and the Arborway at Morton street, will complete the long desired motor pleasure route from Boston to Castle Island. The total extent of Columbus Park is considerably over 100 acres.

50-ACRE BALL FIELD.

The inner section of the park, near the present field house, at the Preble street entrance, will be devoted to a ball field of about fifty acres, accommodating six or more full-size diamonds and many smaller diamonds for young boys. A quarter-mile track is also included.

Space for these activities is arranged in portions of the park where conflict with persons visiting the beach or using the roadways will be avoided. Ample standing space is provided for the parking of motors at each end of the bath-house.

For the accommodation of persons wishing to rest within sight of the shore, an extensive grove with pleasure walks and walks, is provided above the athletic field, toward the south.

The popularity in hot weather of a similar grove at City Point indicates that this new tree space, sheltered from the sun, but open to the water and to the breezes, will be widely patronized. Band concerts may be held in the grove and play spaces for small children will be provided among the trees.

PRESENTS BAY PANORAMA.

The grove is bordered on the south by an extensive tract of open greensward over which views may be enjoyed of the great panorama of the Bay and of South Boston from the high ground near the railway bridge, at the present elbow on Columbia road.

This viewpoint commands one of the most extensive pleasure boating waters of the country and overlooks three miles of uninterrupted water park frontage, including an impressive view of the high ground of South Boston and the tower on Dorchester Heights.

The importance of this great prospect is recognized in the design of Columbus Park by a circular arrangement of roadways and footways upon the high ground.

On the margins of this spacious circle motorists and persons on foot may pause to enjoy the extensive outlook without detour and without interrupting the use of the roads.

This circle forms a stately point of entrance to the park and serves to prevent traffic conflicts at the point where vehicular streams of the Old Colony Boulevard and Columbia road are to unite or cross.

PLAYGROUND FOR CHILDREN.

The relation of Columbia Park and the Strandway to the proposed vista to the monument on Dorchester Heights is indicated on the plan.

The work thus far accomplished shows the long sweeping curve of the great beach, the great extent of level ground to be devoted to ball fields, and the generous spaces of rising ground, upon which playgrounds will be arranged for children.

The spaces where park roads and footways will be required to give approach to the Strand and to connect Columbia road directly with the Strandway, are more or less apparent on the ground.

The work thus far accomplished has covered a decade or more of reclamation work and the time has now arrived when the final grading, road construction, planting and bathing facilities are required.

RESORT IS POPULAR.

The need for substantial additions to the present bathing and recreation facilities along the entire shore of South Boston has been felt strongly by residents of that district and by Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, and all portions of the city for many years.

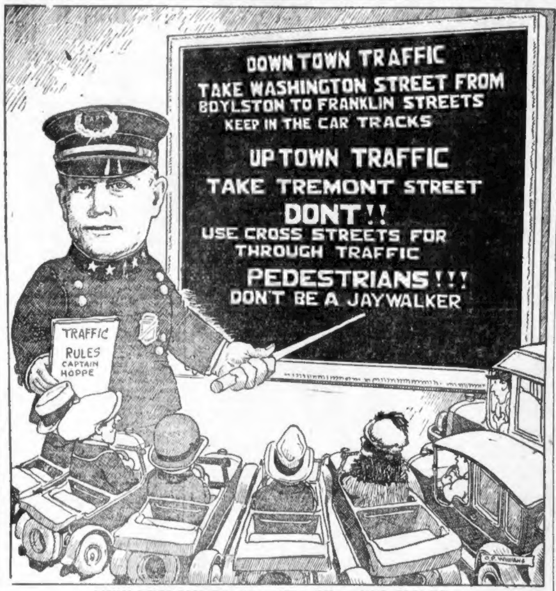
The South Boston waterfront in Summer has become as popular and as widely sought as the great beach at Revere.

Facilities at L street have proven inadequate for the accommodation of these vast crowds, which have availed themselves of the existing facilities even to the exclusion of residents of the neighborhood.

Past Commanders Honored

Joseph R. Cotton, who is a member of the Lexington Board of Selectmen, and Dr. James J. Pierce is now commander of the post.

Autoists, Don't Use Cross Streets Between Tremont and Washington; It Jams Traffic



NEW LESSONS BY TRAFFIC TEACHER HOPPE.

Jay Walkers to Be Summoned to Court; No Parking Rules to Be Strictly Enforced, Says Captain Hoppe

Don't drive your car through the cross streets between Washington and Tremont streets.

In proceeding downtown from the suburbs, drive down Boylston street to Washington street and then swing north.

Don't drive through Temple place unless you wish to stop at a store on that street.

And, if you are a pedestrian, don't be a jaywalker.

These are some of the rules promulgated by Captain Bernard J. Hoppe, head of the police traffic division, who is trying to clear up the somewhat tangled traffic situation in the congested downtown district.

WAR ON JAYWALKERS.

The police are trying, he explains, to eliminate the jams that ensue daily at the intersections of Temple place with Tremont and Washington streets. To this end, he says, drivers are being urged to continue clear to Boylston street before cutting through from one of these main traffic arteries to the other.

"When people drive through Temple place unnecessarily they clog the traffic on that street, create unnecessary delays at the corners, and seriously hamper pedestrian traffic on Tremont street and also Washington street," he said.

The captain also announced that he is instructing his men to summon jaywalkers into court for violation of the traffic code, the same as offending motorists.

"Wait until the officer signals you that the way is clear before trying to cross a busy street," he said. "And don't try to cross in the middle of the street."

MORE ROOM FOR WALKING.

The rule which confines vehicles on Washington street to the space between the extreme outer rails of the car tracks, during the daytime w[illegible] hereafter be enforced strictly, he said. This will give pedestrians on that street fully twice the sidewalk space they have hitherto enjoyed, and will greatly expedite their movements and lessen the sidewalk congestion.

The no-parking rule on the busy portion of Washington street, between Essex and Franklin streets, will be strictly enforced, also.

BANDITS TAKE $5,000 FROM BANK PRESIDENT

St Louis, March 11.—Six bandits held up Samuel H. Wyss, president of the Alton Banking & Trust Company while he was carrying $5,000 from Alton to St. Louis and escaped with the money. The robbery was committed while Wyss was on an interurban train. None of the other passen-

REVISED BONUS BILL FIGHT MONDAY

Democratic House Leaders Join Sales Tax Friends in Fight on Gag Rule

Washington, March 11.—Democratic House leaders assured sales tax advocates and sincere friends of the soldier bonus on the Republican side that they will join in opposing gag rule on any other parliamentary strategy designed to jam the insurance certificate measure through the Ways and Means Committee and the House.

Lines were drawn sharply for a bitter fight in the committee Monday when Republican House leaders will make an effort to force acceptance of the revised bonus measure.

The entire Democratic membership, it was stated, will vote Monday against reporting the certificate plan under any rule or motion that would prevent full and free consideration of the sales tax, of the so-called five-way bonus plan that was endorsed by the veterans' organizations, and all other phases of the adjusted service compensation problem.

Sales tax advocates said that they hope to secure the votes of five Republican members of the committee against the gag rule method that has been agreed upon by Republican House leaders. Three already are pledged.

They are Representatives Longworth of Ohio, Bacharach of New Jersey and Mills of New York. Two additional Republican votes in the committee would defeat the insurance certificate plan which House leaders have advanced in a desperate attempt to defeat the bonus altogether.

Opposition to the new bill continues to spread rapidly throughout the House with the result that several Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee who have supported the revised bonus plan urged the House leaders to defer action on the bill.

LIQUOR SALES CHARGED IN CHARLESTOWN STORES

For keeping and exposing liquor for sale at his place of business at No. 30 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, Michael J. Driscoll, of No. 68 Prospect avenue, Chelsea, was fined $200 in the Charlestown Court by Judge Sullivan. He appealed and was held in $600 for the Superior Court. Patrick J. Goggin was given three months for making an illegal sale of liquor to Patrolman Michael J. Griffin of the East Boston Station at his store, No. 131½ Rutherford avenue, Charlestown. He appealed and was held in $600 for the Superior Court. Richard Hingston pleaded not guilty to making an illegal sale of liquor to a police officer at his store at No. 328 Medford street and to keeping and exposing liquor for sale, his case was continued until next Friday for trial.

Petition for Soldier Bonus and Sales Tax

WE respectfully petition Congress to pass the Soldiers' Bonus act without further delay and also to levy a Sales Tax to obtain the money to pay the Bonus.

90,000 NAMES NOW ON BONUS PETITION

Ninety thousand New Englanders have signed the Boston American's soldiers' bonus petition. The latest batch of signatures to reach the petition editor numbered 9,000.

They have been forwarded to Congress by this newspaper for the purpose of attempting to speed action on the five-fold adjusted compensation bill for ex-service men and women, many of whom are now suffering from lack of proper food, clothing and shelter.

Included in the last signatures received were many from Brockton. Hundreds of shoe workers in that city affixed their signatures to the petitions. The sentiment of the working people throughout New England is nearly 100 per cent. in favor of passing the adjusted compensation act with a sales tax to pay it.

The people agree with President Harding and United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge that when the bonus act is passed it should carry with it the means of raising the revenue.

Fifty signatures came from far away Newcastle, Maine. Many were received from Buzzards Bay, Bourne and other places on Cape Cod. Avon, Middleboro, Southboro, Somerset and Marlboro also sent substantial quotas.

PROTESTS OVER GAS TANKS IGNORED

Despite the protests of hundreds of Charlestown residents, State Fire Marshal George C. Neal today granted the petition of Thomas B. Malloy to build two 1,000-gallon gasoline tanks at No. 70 Chelsea steret and No. 24 Chestnut street, Charlestown.

The petition had previously been granted by the Boston street commissioners, and appeal was taken from their decision to Marshal Neal by Mrs. Katherine E. O'Hearn.

The residents protested that the storage of gasoline would constitute a grave menace and the influx of automobiles would endanger the lives of the children of that locality.

IRISH FRIENDS TO CELEBRATE ON 16TH

Will Observe St. Patrick's Day and Free State at Banquet

Friends of Irish Freedom will celebrate St. Patrick's Day and the proposed establishment of the Irish Free State as the preliminary to complete independence at a banquet which promises to be the most notable ever held under the auspices of Greater Boston Council and associate branches.

The banquet will be held at the Hotel Westminster on the night of the 16th of March and Judge Patrick H. O'Donnell of Chicago will be the principal speaker, according to announcement made by Matthew Cummings, chairman of the committee of arrangements. A concert of Irish patriotic songs and music has been arranged and plans are being made to care for an overflow of attendance.

MAYOR TO SPEAK.

Other speakers at the dual celebration will be, according to the announcement, Mayor James M. Curley, Thomas F. Cooney, national president of the organization, Reverend Father Philip J. O'Donnell, national councillor, Reverend Father Austin Daugherty, national councillor, Cornelius P. Collins, State president, and Thomas F. Mahoney of New York, former assistant district attorney of Suffolk County. Daniel T. O'Connell will be toastmaster.

The announcement states:

"The celebration this year means much to those of Irish blood whose ancestors have suffered and died in their efforts to drive the English invader from their native land. That has now been accomplished through the courage and determination of the Irish people. On this St. Patrick's Day we can celebrate the evacuation of Ireland by the armed forces of England. We can also rejoice in the fact that the English police, the English law courts and the English system of education is ended in Ireland.

SEEK ENCOURAGEMENT.

"And under the leadership of Collins and Mulcahy and Griffin, Ireland has her own army, her own law courts, her own police force, and her own school system where the Gaelic language and culture will be taught to the future generations. These leaders who are endeavoring to build up a nation that will be eventually free and independent are anxiously looking towards their kindred the world over for sympathy and encouragement on this coming St Patrick's Day."

$50 FINE FOR MAN WHO MISTREATED DOG

Found guilty of cruelly beating, mutilating and killing a neighbor's dog, James Lovering of Carlisle was fined $50 in the District Court at Concord, by Associate Justice Elihu G. Loomis. The animal, which belonged to A. H. Johnson of No. 870 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, had strayed from the Johnson farm in Carlisle, and trespassed on Lovering's property. Lovering, with the idea of merely "burning" the canine, had maimed him with a twenty-two calibre rifle bullet and later killed him.

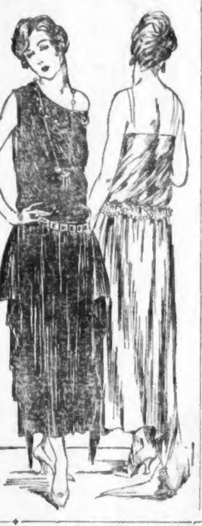
FRESH FROM PARIS

Paris, France.

THE Parisienne adores the gown that does remarkable things, and Jean Patou's gown of black crepe starts by slipping from one shoulder in an utterly Spring, 1922, manner. The ither side of the bodice is demure in comparison, with sleeves omitted in each instance. The girdle, of cut steels, indicates a low waistline, and from it at each side of the skirt cascading draperies depend that fall in points below the hem. A cut steel button on the "off" shoulder is in spirit with the girdle.

LELONG expressed his idea of the evening gown in lavender charmeuse. The sleeveless corsage of such a gown is supported by shoulder straps of self tissue. The straight skirt is a number of lengths and has a train that is a continuation of the side of the gown instead of the back. Twisted ropes of pearls form the girdle.



BELL'S DEVICE ROBS SEA OF THIRST PERIL

Miami, Fla., March 11.—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, who is here from Washington, D. C., is working on an invention which, he believes, will relieve mariners of the terrors of thirst on the sea and travelers of the desert from exhaustion for the lack of water. Dr. Bell asked that the nature of his work be not disclosed at the present time, because of his desire for quiet and seclusion.

"I recall one case," said Dr. Bell, "of two men who were picked up at sea in a small boat and who had died of thirst.

APPARATUS SIMPLE.

"It seemed inexplicable to me how men could die thus with water all around them, both in the air and in the sea. Of course, distillation might be out of the question, so I figured out some other way.

"It occurred to me that it might be possible to distill the moisture from the breath and I devised a very simple apparatus which worked satisfactorily. It consisted of a glass tube and a bottle. By breathing in air through the nose and expelling it through the glass tube in the bottle I found I was able to obtain quite a large quantity of water—as much as an ounce an hour—or more than sufficient to maintain life."

Dr. Bell said he had experimented with this simple apparatus on numerous occasions, always with the most satisfactory results. The water, he said, was absolutely pure and this method would be of great benefit to persons travelling in desert country or in small boats at sea.

IS UNPATENTED.

This apparatus is so simple that Dr. Bell did not take the trouble to patent it. A fellow scientist, however, working on the same principle, has devised a more complicated system for use at sea which includes a small bottle to be strapped around the waist, a rubber tubing to breathe through, and another tube, with a rubber-hinged end to keep out the sea water, through which the air is expelled. Dr. Bell's granddaughter, Nancy Jane Fairchild, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David G. Fairchild, was able to use the apparatus without trouble.

ROSENTHAL WINS WEST END HOUSE DECLAMATION

The thirteenth annual declamation contest of the senior members of the West End House was held at the Blackstone School hall, West End. Matthew Rosenthal of Harvard University won the first prize; David Ganak of Boston University Law School, second; Benjamin Trustman, former Boylston prize winner at Harvard, third, and Bernard Gallis of Tufts College, fourth.

Silver loving cups were donated by West End House graduates. The club trophy was won by the Abraham Lincoln Associates of the West End House, all four winners being members of the association.

A. A. R. I. R. COUNCIL TO HEAR OF KILLINGS

Bomb outrages by the Black and Tans evacuating Ireland will be described at a meeting of Dorchester Heights Council, A. A. R. I. R., at National Hall, South Boston, Monday night, March 13. News of the outrage, including that of the explosion of a bomb that injured twenty-five school children, is contained in a letter from John J. Maddigan of Ennisdymon, County Clare, to Patrick J. Kerins, a member of the council. A whist party will also be held.

MAYOR SUGGESTS $100,000 AS HUB CARUSO QUOTA

Tentative plans for the raising of Boston's share of the $1,000,000 Caruso memorial foundation were outlined at a meeting at the Copley-Plaza Hotel. No definite sum was set as Boston's quota. Standish Wilcox, who attended the meeting as representative of Mayor Curley, suggested $100,000. A permanent organization is expected to be formed at another gathering to be held March 24.

CURLEY TO GIVE JOBS TO 500 WAR VETS

Will Be Employed on Construction of Subway Terminal at Maverick Square

More than 500 war veterans will be given work by Mayor Curley on the construction of a subway terminal at Maverick Square, East Boston, which will start about the first of April.

The Mayor has authorized the Transit Commission to proceed with the construction of the terminal at the above point under the direction of the department's own engineers, instead of letting it out under contract.

In this manner the Mayor says that it will make it possible for the city to hire more than 500 men in addition to the force of between three and four hundred already at work. The men will be taken from the Civil Service list and preference given to veterans.

If the work was done by contract, it is believed that most of the laborers employed would be aliens. The Mayor sees no reason why they should not be war veterans.

The Mayor said:

"I am going to give the war veterans a chance to get some employment. They fought for our country and are entitled to it. There will be about eighteen months' work and it might go into two years. They will be paid on a day labor basis."

The Mayor has also authorized the purchase at once of a quarter of a million dollars' worth of machinery and supplies to be used in connection with the work in East Boston. About 1,000 men will be employed altogether. The total contract will amount to $[illegible],500,000.

MEDBURY

Says if a Man Wants Dinner at 6 O'Clock His Wife Usually Makes It a Point to Get Home in Time to Open the Cans

The average housewife can cook, but most of them live from can to mouth.

When they prepare dinner they have a cookbook in one hand and a can opener in the other.

A husband can come home and tell what he's going to have for supper by reading the different labels on the kitchen table.

A bride doesn't care what comes inside the can as long as it has a pretty label.

As long as the packing houses hire a good artist they don't have to worry about a chef.

A designer of labels never becomes famous. His paintings never get any further than the kitchen.

No painter can become popular as long as the ashman is his art critic.

The ashman always calls early and you can't expect him to appreciate art at 4:30 in the morning.

The canning companies are not in the theatrical business, but if it wasn't for them a lot of women wouldn't be able to spend so much time at the theatre.

If a man wants dinner at six o'clock his wife makes it a point to get home in time to open the cans.

If her husband likes his cooking well seasoned she just puts a little salt on the can opener.

She always gives him the label along with the food so that there won't be any doubt as to what he's eating.

A girl doesn't have to know how to cook any more. All she has to do is to learn the different canned good by heart.

A man will say to his wife, "Are these fresh peas?" and she'll say, "Certainly, I just opened them."

One man asked another if his bride was a good cook and he said: "You bet she is, you just ought to see her open a can."

EX-POLICEMAN NOW IN ARMY TO PAY FINE

Nesky Given Until Sept. 5, When He Answers Default Warrant in Court

Edward J. Nesky, accompanied by Majors R. E. Goetz of the Harvard Reserve Officers' Training Corps and former Assistant Judge Advocate-General H. W. Steines, came before Judge Bishop in the Superior Criminal Court to answer a default warrant issued recently when Nesky failed to appear for trial on an appeal taken by him in the Brighton Municipal Court.

On May 29, when Nesky was a patrolman attached to Division 14, he committed an attack on Patrick Collins and was fined $30 by Judge Connolly in the Brighton Municipal Court.

After conviction Nesky resigned from the police force and joined the army. When Officer Walter Brown of the Brighton district attempted to serve a default warrant on Nesky, the army officers refused to permit him to do so.

After a conference between the army officers and Assistant District Attorney Maurice Caro, it was agreed that, with the court's approval, the lower court sentence should be affirmed and Nesky given until September 5 to pay the fine. Judge Bishop agreed to the proposition

3 SALESMEN HELD FOR $1,000 THEFT FROM FIRM

Willis A. Mayers, twenty-two years old, William J. McKinley, twenty-four years old, and Joseph W. Roberts, twenty-seven years old, were arraigned in Municipal Court, charged with the larceny of $1,000 from the Cadillac Automobile Company, by whom they were employed. The men, salesmen at the parts counter, are said to have rung up false amounts on the cash register.

GIRL WANTS ANSWER TO LOVE SUIT QUESTIONS

Miss Mary C. Maher of Malden, who recently sued John J. Butler of the same city, for alleged breach of promise, has filed a motion in the Middlesex Superior Court, asking for an order to force the defendant to answer a long list of interrogatories.

BEST MUSIC TO BE FEATURE OF NEW STATE

One of the best things about the gigantic Loew Theatre which will throw open its doors Monday with large quantity of picture stars decorating the place, all sorts of public officials, bigwigs of the film world and the eager public in the audience is the policy which is announced.

The Loew State will show Paramount pictures with a musical accompaniment of an orchestra of thirty pieces, and no vaudeville. It will be the same sort of presentation as is given at the Rialto, Rivoli, Strand and Capital Theatres in New York, but which Boston has not been given a chance to appreciate.

The Boston picture houses of any great size are primarily vaudeville houses. The straight picture houses are too small to support a big musical presentation.

There are undoubtedly countless thousands in Boston who like pictures and vaudeville, but there should be countless thousands more who would prefer their pictures, minus the vaudeville, but with a fine musical program.

Mr. Loew was very daring to go up as far as Massachusetts avenue to construct a theatre of the type which in New York is located in the heart of the theatre district. It will be a good thing for Boston if his theatre succeeds, and it will be of inestimable value to real estate in that section.

John Murray Anderson Genius of Village Follies

Not since Urban brought from Vienna a lot of revolutionary ideas about scenery and productions has anyone appeared with the genius for the unusual upon the stage of John Murray Anderson. Anderson's fantastic ideas have given the Greenwich Village Follies the distinction they have enjoyed during the last three or four years.

When you remember that this organisation commenced in Greenwich Village and that they got into trouble with Flo Ziegfeld at the very start by using the word Follies in their title, you must admit they have traveled far along the road to success. Today the Greenwich Village Follies with their Anderson settings have made a field for themselves alongside Ziegfeld's Follies with their Urban sets.

Mr. Anderson's career began as a singer, then a ballroom dancer, then as a producer of cabaret entertainments, then dramatic playlets, then period dancing, then producing society pageants and finally the first Greenwich Village Follies.

Fred Stone Works Too Hard for Most Actors

Fred Stone, who has been sojourning in our midst for the past four months, will depart from the Colonial in another week. Quiet, unassuming, modest, sincere and painstaking Fred Stone is an ornament to the theatrical profession. His success is thoroughly deserved. Actors who may envy other stars are content to leave Stone his laurels because nobody else in the show business could be hired to do one-tenth the hard labor Stone performs in order to maintain his position as the most popular comedian in America.

The Air We Breathe and How We Breathe It

"Just as correct breathing is often the test for a singer, so it is, in my estimation, for the actor," declares Lionel Atwill, whom David Belasco presents in "The Grand Duke," the Parisian comedy by Sacha Guitry, at the Tremont Theatre.

"I have found so many young actors who have been disposed rather to despise elocution. It is a fact that the average teacher of elocution is inclined to make young players stilted in their delivery of speech, but, nevertheless, it is my belief that no actor or actress should attempt a role of any importance, either in modern comedy or classical work, without having had a thorough training in the technique of elocution. One has to learn it and forget it, or I should say, seem to forget it, for one should never be conscious that one is using it.

"The rock bottom of elocution is correct breathing. Without it one cannot use the best tones of the voice, give variety to speech or appear natural. It is, of course, a fact that the art of the theatre is not being natural, but seeming natural, and this applies in all its branches."

England's Most Famous Critic Is a Scotchman

Apropos of the fact that England's most famous warrior, the Duke of Wellington, was an Irishman, it can be stated with the same degree of certainty that the most famous English critic, William Archer, is a Scotchman.

Mr. Archer, whose local popularity is due to the authorship of "The Green Goddess," in which George Arliss is appearing at the Plymouth Theatre, was born in Scotland and educated at the University of Edinburgh.

It was in that city that he had his first newspaper work. At one time in his career he intended to practice law, for 1883 found him admitted as a barrister to Middle Temple, London. His first dramatic criticism was done for the London Figaro, but his reputation was made and he did his most significant work as critic on the London World from 1884 to 1905. Since the latter year he has written criticisms and theatrical articles for various London publications in addition writing many books. He has done te a little traveling, having visited erica frequently, and traveled in tralia, India, in addition to fre- trips to the continent of Euro

It Was Maxine Elliott Who Discovered Lawford

It is generally supposed that the Clyde Fitch discovered Ernest ford, the injured husband in "The e," and brought him to America. hnically this is true, but it is to Maxine Elliott's interest in him that this country owes its first knowledge of Mr. Lawford. It was some fifteen or eighteen years ago that a very happy association in the London Theatre between Miss Elliott and Mr. Lawford was terminated by the former's acceptance of an American contract. She used all of her persuasive power to influence Lawford to cast his lot with her in the American theatre but the young Englishman clung to his London success and could not be induced by Miss Elliott to leave it. But when she reached America, and had a talk with Clyde Fitch, she so fired that gentleman with enthusiasm regarding the work of Mr. Lawford that he forthwith offered the actor a contract which broke down all his objections to leaving England.

So it came about that Ernest Lawford made his first New York appearance unknown and unheralded in "The Coronet of the Duchess," playing the ducal bounder in that piece in a manner so breezy and delightful as to win for himself a high place on the American stage. This event was sixteen years ago. Since its occurrence Mr. Lawford has enjoyed the rare experience of having never been without an engagement.

Alex Carr Playing "Tobblitsky" Again

He is "Mr." Alexander Carr in the Shubert vaudeville to be seen at the Majestic the coming week, billboards and newspaper advertisements show, and declared to be the world's foremost character artist. His rise to that dignity and eminence reads like a Horatio Alger story.

Alexander Carr was born in Russia, the son of a rabbi, who five years later took his family to Winnipeg, Canada. The serious and reflective attitude of such a home was all that could be desired excepting that the youngster had a bad attack of theatre-itis and the climax came when he ran away at twelve years of age and joined a circus. He left a note stating that he would return as a star in his chosen profession—which he did, some years later, in a musical show in San Francisco, where the family had moved.

In the circus, Alexander Carr was clown On one of his many trips across the continent he was stranded in Nashville, Tenn., and appeared in a store show there during the Centennial, doing twenty-four performances a day for $7 a week. He next sang for a traveling medicine show. Gradually he went into the varieties, singing in honky-tonks or any kind of a theatre that would have him. It was a rough and ready road, but a good teacher. In the end he attained top rank among theatrical comedians.

Irish Players Have Been Together Long Time

The Abbey Theatre, Dublin, first housed the Irish Players in 1904. Ever since the company has been working and some of the original troupe are still members and are appearing at the Hollis in "The White Haired Boy."

Arthur Sinclair made his professional debut on the inaugural night. He was then a boy of nineteen. Maire O'Neill, Maureen Delany, Sydney Morgan and Joseph A. O'Rourke joined in 1907. Misses O'Neill and Delaney were flappers of sixteen for they picked them young and trained them hard. During their membership they have played the works of Lady Gregory, William Butler Yeats, Edward Martyn, George Moore, Douglas Hyde, Padriac Colum, George Bernard Shaw, Lennox Robinson and other Irish dramatists.

Some Like, Some Don't; All Talk About "Liliom"

After giving Boston teatables a subject for discussion which will last into the Summer, "Liliom" will move on at the end of next week. There are two sets of people, those who are fascinated by the piece and those who are bored to extinction by it, and there doesn't seem to be any middle ground. Personally I think that the folks who can't see "Liliom" are those whose sense of humor is not exceptionally developed.

LOEW'S STATE THEATRE

Two big feature photoplays are included on the program, which is changed weekly. These features will be combined with other screen attractions of lesser reels. The presentations are continuous daily from 1 p. m. until 11 p. m., and the scale of prices for all afternoon are 25 cents and 35 cents and 50 cents for all evening performances, including the necessary war tax. The opening bill will offer the ever popular Wallace Reid in the mighty picturization of A. E. Thomas' sensationally successful comedy, "The Champion." The companion photoplay will unfold the adorable Ethel Clayton in her newest picture, "The Cradle." The comedy will be the latest Educational Release, in which the funny Lloyd Hamilton is featured. The title is "The Rain Maker." Another short subject will be the showing of "But Women Must Weep," based on the popular poem, "The Three Fishes," written by Charles E. Kingley. Prominent city and State officials, including Governor Cox, Lieutenant-Governor Fuller, Mayor Curley and others, will attend the inauguration, in addition to the presence of more than two score prominent stage and screen stars.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

"My Irish Cinderella," a drama in four acts, is announced as the attraction for the coming week by the popular Somerville Players. The play bears a striking similarity to "Peg o' My Heart," presenting in graphic details the trials and tribulations of a little Irish girl, and in which she is forced to combat English snobbery.

GREENWICH FOLLIES AT SHUBERT

Many striking novelties, it is said, will be found in the third annual production of the Greenwich Village Follies, which begins its yearly engagement in Boston at the Shubert Theatre next Monday night, March 13. It will be presented here by the Bohemians, Inc., A. L. Jones and Morris Green, managing directors. The entire production was devised and staged by John Murray Anderson, and this third annual revusical comedy of New York's Latin Quarter comes to Boston direct from a brilliant six months' engagement in New York.

Very typical of America's Bohemia is the scene entitled "A Courtroom in the Beyond," in which marionettes, representing various players in the cast, appear. The Snow Flake number, like a symphony in frost, is one of the many scenes of unusual splendor. In the Snow Flake episode, the gorgeous scenery is bathed in shifting and radiant lights, and a Winter night is seen with snow flakes, moonbeams, aurora, the North Star, Jack Frost and the sun. A scene of exceptional charm is the Jewels of the Follies. Ted Lewis and his band will be heard in new numbers, some of Mr. Lewis' composition and others from well known composers.

One of the artistic contributions to the stage this year will be found in the Transformation Scene in the episode called "When Dreams Come True. This unusual stage effect was originated by Nicholas V. DeLipsky, a young Russian artist.

In the all-star cast of Ted Lewis, Joe E. Brown, Ula Sharon, Gordon Dooley, Cecil Cunningham, Bird Millman, Robert G. Pitkin, Gretchen Eastman, Donald Kerr, Marjorie Burgess, George Trabert, Valodia Vestoff, and the thirty famous famous artist models.

"MAIN STREET"

"Main Street," the novel by Sinclair Lewis, has been hailed as "the great American novel," and "Main Street," the play, dramatized by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, has been called "The Great American Play." With its original cast, headed by Alma Tell and McKay Morris, the Messrs. Shubert are bringing "Main Street" to the Wilbur Theatre March 20.

FRED McISAAC Says:

"THE CIRCLE," with John Drew and Mrs. Leslie Carter, comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, in many respects the season's finest offering, has only another fortnight at the Selwyn.

"LILIOM," with Eva LeGallienne and Joseph Schildkraut, has only one more week to run at the Wilbur. A curious, weird but delightful play.

"THE WHITE HAIRED BOY," presented by the Irish Players at the Hollis, leaves at the end of next week. It's a very artistically presented Irish comedy.

LIONEL ATWILL in "The Grand Duke," a Belasco production, is an adaptation of a comedy by Sacha Guitry. Last week.

FRED STONE, after a run of four months in "Tip Top," announces the end of his long stay. One week more.

GEORGE ARLISS in "The Green Goddess," the ingenious melodrama by William Archer, continues his profitable run.

"FOOLISH WIVES," the big Universal production with Eric Von Stroheim in the leading role, remains another week at the Park. Worth seeing.

CARNINAL WEEK AT KEITH'S

It will be "Mid-Season Carnival Week" at B. F. Keith's next week, and the occasion will be celebrated by a whizz-bang program of ten star acts. As befits its third of a century year, the mid-season bill will be remarkable for the number and brilliancy of its stars.

Crane Wilbur and Martha Mansfield, the popular motion picture stars, Clara Morton, of the famous vaudeville family, the Beaumont sisters, Seed and Austin, Wells Virginia and West, and Jack Osterman are among the names which strike the eye with a bang.

GORDON'S OLD SOUTH THEATRE

All the impishness of American boyhood jumps to the screen in "Penrod," the First National attraction, which will be the feature picture at Gordon's Old South Theatre this week. Produced by Marshall Neilan, from Booth Tarkington's inimitable stories, the picture makes no pretense of "high brow" study; but offers an ebulliency of American boyhood for sheer entertainment.

YANKEE FILM AT GLOBE THEATRE

After having completed two months of capacity business at the Tremont Temple and only being forced out because of previous bookings, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," adapted from Mark Twain's master-comedy of like name, will continue its successful run at Loew's Globe Theatre beginning Sunday afternoon. The engagement at the Globe will be offered at unheard of prices.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA THEATRE

A delightful miniature musical comedy, several other superb vaudeville acts, and a number of excellent photo play features, including a screen dramatization of a famous novel from the pen of I. A. R. Wylie, are included in the program at Gordon's Olympia Theatre this week.

The miniature musical comedy is a George Choos production, "The Little Cottage." In this abbreviated feast of femininity frolic and music Frank Sinclair, Cliff Dixon and Mary Collins, assisted by a number of chorus girls, present a tuneful, pretty love story, interpreted in parts with graceful dancing.

'TOBBLITSKY' COMEDY AT MAJESTIC

A welcome feature of Shubert vaudeville the coming week at the Majestic Theatre will be Mr. Alexander Carr, returned from his European triumphs, in a revival of the world famous comedy, "Tobblitsky," or "The End of the World," Aaron Hoffman's greatest success. "Tobblitsky" brought Mr. Carr to fame some fifteen years ago, and he has ascended the theatrical ladder until he is now regarded as one of the foremost character actors. Another headline feature the coming week will be Bobby O'Neil and company in "Four Queens and the Joker," with a cast including Babette Busey, Ray Tunis, Bessie Nain and Bobby Renys introducing a melange of very original musical numbers.

"WELCOME STRANGER"

Beginning Monday, March 20, at the Tremont Theatre, Mr. Sam H. Harris will present Aaron Hoffman's comedy, "Welcome Stranger," with George Sidney. The remarkable success of this comedy both in Chicago and New York, where extremely long runs were enjoyed, is sufficient endorsement of its merits. Mr. Harris has provided an excellent company, which includes David Higgins, Ben Johnson, Howard Gould, Edward Snader, Charles Schofield, Frank Herbert, John Adair, Eli Dawson, Sylvia Field and Frances Loughton.

PARK THEATRE

"Foolish Wives" continues at the Park Theatre for a second week, beginning Monday. The presentations of this massive photoplay, offered by Carle Laemmle, and written and produced by Erich von Stroheim, who also is pictured in the leading role, have been attended by the largest audiences the famous Park Theatre has ever held. With five showings daily, there has never been a performance that was not absolutely capacity, a condition revealing better than any other the power of its attraction and its quality of appeal.

FOX'S MONTE CRISTO AT TEMPLE

What is to be the world premiere showing of William Fox's stupendous picturization of "Monte Cristo" adapted from Alexander Dumas' world famed and universally read novel "The Count of Monte Cristo," will take place on next Monday, March 13, at the Tremont Temple.

The story which is so familiar to readers of literature and to theatre goers owing to the admirable work of James O'Neil in its stage version, furnishes much dramatic material which when placed in the hands of a competent director, as has been the case in the selection of Emmett J. Flynn, produces a photoplay which stands as a monument to its sponsers. The settings, the cast, the production, the romance, thrill and theme of the story have been so faithfully and vividly reproduced that the officials of the Fox Company declare it to be positively the finest and largest production to be released by the Fox Film Corporation up to the present time.

In the selection of the cast the company has made a ten strike, for the list reads like a "Who's Who" of film stars. John Gilbert, remembered for his exceptional work in "Shame," will appear in the character of Edmond Dantes, the Count of Monte Cristo.

Others in the cast include Estelle Taylor, a little screen lady who has had exceptional success in many important roles. Miss Taylor assumes the role of Mercedes. Robert McKim, the notorious screen villain is in the cast

GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS

George White's "Scandals," the third and latest edition, is to be shown at the Colonial Theatre for a limited engagement of three weeks, commencing Monday, March 20. The new revue is heralded as the biggest and best of the entire series. Ann Pennington heads the list of players.

EMMETT FLYNN DIRECTOR OF FOX FILMS

Production of "Monte Carlo" Staged by Master Hand in Movie World

The production of super-special photoplays at the present day is unquestionably the greatest asset to the producing company in its quest for public favor and financial success; and accordingly, the selection of a proper subject and of a director capable and competent to translate that subject to the screen is necessarily of vital importance.

The William Fox Corporation this season has issued many super-specials. A significant fact is that the making of three of these has fallen to the lot of the same director, Emmett J. Flynn Why? The answer is found in the Fox specials "Shame," "A Connecticut Yankee" and "The Last Trail." Flynn's work, on these was superb in its technique and artistry. It raised him suddenly to the peak of dictatorial fame. It caused William Fox to place in his hands the production of "Monte Cristo" and then dismiss all question of detail from his mind, confident that Flynn would get out of the famous story by Alexander Dumas every particle of entertainment there was in it. Flynn has won in a year the distinction that many directors have labored many years to attain.

Once Custard Pie Thrower Now Emotional Actress

A former favorite film funmaker scores one of the dramatic hits in "Foolish Wives," the Universal Film Company's sensational million-dollar picture, which is now showing at the Park Theatre.

Doubtless many film fans with good memories will note something familiar in the features of the maid, Maruschka, who is the much-abused servant in the villa of the bogus Russian nobles at Monte Carlo. She plays the Russian peasant so perfectly, and with doglike devotion submits to being abused and robbed until finally, in a fit of jealous rage, she becomes a homicidal maniac and sets fire to the tower where Count Sergius is entertaining his latest conquest.

It is difficult to believe that this is the same Dale Fuller who used to convulse audiences in Mack Sennett comedies, playing comedy servant girls opposite Charles Murray.

For three years Miss Fuller was a favorite funmaker in film faces, until an accident incapacitated her for two long years. Whether during that period of enforced idleness she developed the latent dramatic which is said to exist in every comedian, or whether, after all, "the truest laughter always trembles on the verge of tears," the fact is evident in "Foolish Wives" that Dale Fuller is an emotional actress.

Bill Hart Now Goes in for Psychology

Deep psychology, the finding of a man's soul, a drama of the most compelling type, gripping and sustained as to plot and bristling with incident, such is "Travelin' On," the new William S. Hart production, a Paramount picture, which will be seen at the Orpheum the entire coming week. In the leading role of "J. B." Mr. Hart excels all previous work. His character depiction is a work of art and his supporting cast is powerful. Ethel Gray Terry is the leading woman, and her beauty and forceful acting make her ideal. It is a tale of the unbridled West, thirty or forty years ago—a story that brings the blood tingling to one's cheeks and causes the spectator to sit spellbound till the final scene. Mr. Hart had the story "up his sleeve" for a long time and finally developed it into its present striking form. It was produced with skill and cleverness and it touches the deepest recesses of the heart in its steady development to a smashing climax.

That Tournament in Connecticut Yankee

Of the many wondrous scenes, both laughable and thrilling, with which the William Fox picture, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," is filled, none is perhaps more thrilling and still more humorous than that of the tournament. This scene shows the meeting in "mortal combat" of Sir Sagramore and the Yankee, forced upon the latter by challenge of the former, because of jealousy, in that the Yankee was made the magician to the king and was knighted as "Sir Boss." Sir Sagramore declares that the Yank, in rescuing the fair Sandy from the wicked queen, had rescued only a scullery maid and so deserved no honor. "You'll eat those words or I'll knock your block off," says the Yank. On that Sag challenges him "to do battle onto death." The tournament takes place, but there is no death, and therein lies the thrill and humor which causes one to chuckle and roar.

The "Connecticut Yankee" will open an indefinite run at the Globe Theatre on Monday, March 13.

GORDON'S STRAND

Danger in motion picture making is not confined to serial thrillers, as the members of the cast and staff of Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount special, "Saturday Night," which will be on view at Gordon's Strand Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, can testify.

FACTS, FADS AND FASHIONS OF BOSTON'S STAGE AND ELSEWHERE

MATTIE BILLIE QUINN is one of the cuties who has carved a niche in "Knick Knacks," the bright show that visits Waldron's Casino, beginning Monday. But, of course, that is due to her clever knack of acting. If you don't believe it, go and see for yourself.

MARGARET MOSIER, the blonde beauty in "Liliom," the strange and fascinating drama at the Wilbur. You have never seen anything like it before. Truly a slice of Hungarian life.

FRANK DU FRANE, who is a talented and popular member of the Arlington Stock Company. This organization is giving the best the stage affords. Don't forget, you never can judge a pudding until you have eaten it.

FEW WIVES ARE FOOLISH! That's why they're wives. But Maude George is one of the mainsprings in that much discussed sex play, "Foolish Wives," a holdover at the Park. Caused more eyebrows to lift than any movie that has visited us in, lo, these many days.

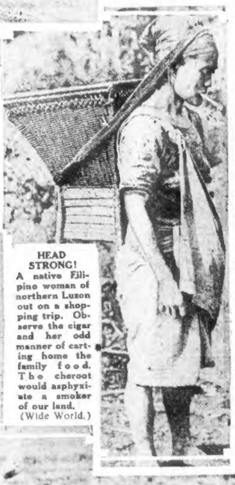
YOU'LL HAVE TO STEP LIVELY if you want to see Evelyn Cunningham, who lends her charm to the "Step Lively Girls," coming Monday to the Gayety Theatre.

LOTUS ROBB, whose acting compares so favorably with that of George Arliss in "The Green Goddess," current at the Plymouth. One of the most interesting plays in town.

SEA DOGS FROLICKING! It's always "good old Summertime" for sailors from the Atlantic fleet stationed at Guantanamo Bay, who are here shown enjoying a soothing splash in the tropical waters there. (Wide World.)

SOMETHING TO CROW ABOUT! This prize-winning leghorn rooster was sold for $182.50 at the Cockerel Show in Petaluma, Cal. All birds shown there were utility cockerels,

WORK HIS "FERRY" GODMOTHER! Ben Gandy, who has been pilot on Pennsylvania ferries for the past 33 years, says he has crossed the Delaware River more than 500,000 times. (Underwood.)

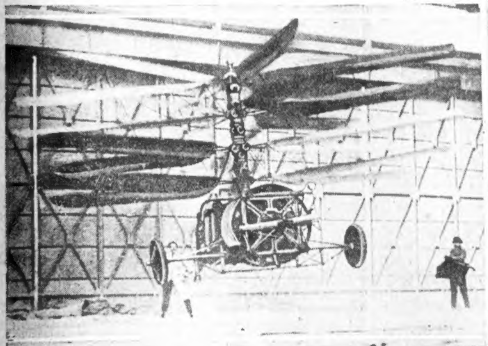


HEAD STRONG! A native Filipino woman of northern Luzon out on a shopping trip. Observe the cigar and her odd manner of carting home the family food. The cheroot would asphyxiate a smoker of our land. (Wide World.)

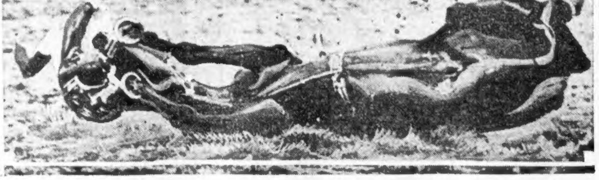
FORE FOR A SIX-YEAR-OLD! It requires lots of strength to play golf, and not often do you find such a young and clever player as Harold Spinney of Nova Scotia, the "baby" of the links at Aiken, S. C. (Underwood.)

HE COMES FROM BRAZIL! Dr. Octavio Felix Pedroso, who oozed into New York the other day, says he can bring the dead back to life by means of heart massage and the introduction of a special serum.

BEATING THE MALES! Miss Claudia Beatrice Aurand, who has been appointed postmistress at Beaver Springs, Snyder County, Pa., although she is but 21. Believed to be youngest person holding this government office. (International.)



GETTING A RISE OUT OF THE HELICOPTER! After months of worry and hard labor, Senor Pescara's helicopter rose one yard off the ground recently in a test near Paris, thus vindicating the belief of the inventor. This photograph shows the machine just as it left the ground. (Wide World.)



HEAD OVER HEELS IN LOVE WITH THE GAME! The sustained action registered by the photographic plate has a mysterious attraction for everybody. The element of danger, the thrill it imparts, is perhaps the primary reason for the interest taken in an "action picture." Here is T. Leader, the English jockey, taking a nasty spill from the back of "Cambridge Prince" in a recent hurdle race at Lingfield, England. (International.)

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 2,000 YEARS the sacred custom of going up to Jerusalem for the Passover will be observed this Spring, when distinguished Jews from America will participate in the Palestine pilgrimage. Here is a group of New York Jews bidding their Palestine-bound friends farewell on the pier as the S. S. Arabic sailed. (International.)

TRAGEDY MARKS SAILING OF SHIP FOR ITALY

Child Born at Ellis Island Deported With Parents as Relative Weeps on Dock

The sailing of the Italian steamship Taormina from East Boston, with little Maria Jacoma Ellis Quattrocchi and her father and mother on board, reveals one of the strangest and most pathetic cases in the annals of the immigration department.

Maria is technically an American citizens. She was born on Ellis Island—American soil. Yet she is on her way back to Italy—a deported alien.

The story begins when Antonia Quattrocchi, mother of a year-old baby, fell and suffered hemorrhage. This was while she was on her way to America. Her husband, Filippo, emotional and high strung, saw her fall, and suffered a shock.

$3,000 BOND REFUSED.

They arrived at Ellis Island on December 10, and were held for deportation, because of Filippo's physical disability. A few days later their child died, and fifteen days later, little Maria was born.

Then began a fight to keep the little family in this country. Carmelo Disalvo of Lawrence, Antonio's brother, spent all his savings in the fight. A $3,000 bond was offered, if they could be allowed to stay three months, but was refused.

It was contended that little Maria was an American citizen and could not be deported. The case was appealed to Washington. All without success. The unhappy family was put on board the Taormina when she left New York Thursday.

BROTHER IN TEARS.

Disalvo met the ship at the Cunard dock in East Boston. Someone told him that a habeas corpus had been granted for a father and mother and child, and the tears sprang to his eyes at the hope of a last moment's reprieve.

When the immigration officer visited the deportation cabin, and removed another family, and he realized that the habeas corpus was for someone else, he broke down and cried like a child.

"Two families are ruined," he said, in broken English, "and our hearts are broken."

The Taormina sailed with 150 passengers from Boston, a hundred steerage and fifty cabin. She brought 400 from New York. This is the first time she has stopped at Boston.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM BY BURGIN STRING QUARTET

Steinert Hall was well filled last night with lovers of chamber music to hear the third concert by the Burgin String Quartet with Ignace Friedman, pianist, as assisting soloist.

Surely, no organization of musicians in Boston deserves more credit than these four, who, in addition to their arduous duties in connection with the Symphony, can still find time and ambition to work up a program of such music as they presented on this occasion.

The piece de resistance of the evening was the Milhaud quartet in C Major, heard for the first time in Boston. It was composed in 1912 and is markedly modern in theme and rhythm. Parts of it were very lovely, others only mildly interesting. It is the sort of thing which demands for a finished performance more work than had been bestowed on it for this reading.

Ignace Friedman has been heard in Boston earlier in the season and established himself at that time as an artist to be reckoned with in the piano world. His service last night was to infuse into the quartet a quality of great vitality that had been lacking. Taken as a whole, the concert was thoroughly enjoyable. The last of the series of four will be given on April 4, with Alfred Mirovitch as assisting pianist.

ARLINGTON WOMAN HAS 94TH BIRTHDAY

Ninety-four years ago, in New Sharon, Me., was born to Benjamin and Sophia Wyman Mayhew, a daughter, who was named S. Elizabeth. The girl grew up and became the wife of James Manning Winchell Yerrington, and in the home of her son, Wendell P. Yerrington, where she makes her home, at No. 59 Jason street, Arlington, she on Friday observed her ninety-fourth birthday, in an informal manner, greeting a number of her relatives and intimate friends.

OUSTED TEACHER SUES TOWN OF GROVELAND

Groveland, March 11.—Louis S. Coombs of Amesbury, former Groveland teacher, who was discharged as a result of the flogging of Constance Peppin, a pupil, has brought suit against the town in an action of contract.

Counsel for Coombs says that the action is the first of several suits to be brought as a result of the whipping case.

"REGRETTABLE" DOINGS IN LINERS' BARROOMS

London, March 11.—The trans-Atlantic shipping companies are bringing the attention of passengers aboard their liners to the rule which empowers the commanders of the vessels to close their bars at any hour during a voyage. The announcement is due to what companies describe as "regrettable incidents" in the barrooms of the linners.

MOVIE PROMOTER PAYS $500 FINE

President Raymond L. Cleveland of the Mastercraft Photoplay Corporation of Medford, who several months ago pleaded nolo to a Federal indictment charging him with unlawfully using the mails in a scheme to defraud, paid a fine of $500 imposed by Judge Morton in the Federal Court.

Elected to Harvard Society

The Harvard Pierian Sodality announced that the following men have been elected members: Emery N. Gleaves of Chicago, Ill.; Francis X. Grady, Jr., of Revere; John W. Laird of Brockton; Roger A. Lutz of Boston; James S. Murphy, Jr., of Brookline; Herman J. Olt of Dayton, Ohio; Henry M. Stevens of Cambridge, and Charles A. Tierney of Dorchester.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Miss Dexter to Open Beacon Street Home for Benefit

Miss Rachel Trafford, who was introduced at a dance given at the Milton Country Club by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trafford, is a debutante of this season. A group of buds are serving as ushers at the benefit performance being held this morning at the Exeter Theatre in aid of the Children's Museum.

MISS RACHEL TRAFFORD

By BETTY ALDEN.

MISS ROSE L. DEXTER, who frequently gives her home for various benefit functions, is again opening her hospitable doors at No. 400 Beacon street next Tuesday afternoon. The affair is in aid of the Boston League of Women Voters' educational work, and that portion of society which interested itself in woman's suffrage in the good old days of strife between the "red" and "yellow," is expected to attend.

On this occasion Miss Alice Stone Blackwell will talk on Spanish-American poetry and Miss Bertha Papazian will read some of Miss Blackwell's translations of South American and Mexican poems, while a third number on the program will be the singing of some Mexican folk songs by Mrs. J. W. Courtney. Those who know Miss Blackwell only as the unconquerable veteran of the suffrage battle will have ample opportunity next Tuesday afternoon of seeing her in the light of a poet and scholar.

An attractive feature of the occasion will be the pouring of tea by Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, whose presence alway lend graciousness to any function.

The affair next Tuesday afternoon is under the auspices of a large committee, composed, in part, of the following: Mesdames Charles Bond, H. Addington Bruce, Charles M. Cabot, Thomas Pelham Curtis, Wirt Dexter, George Richmond Fearing, Jr., J. Malcolm Forbes, Franklin W. Hobbs, Roland G. Hopkins, Arthur W. Moors, John Moors, Leverett Slatonstall Tuckerman, 2d, as well as the Misses Rose Dexter and Fanny C. Osgood.

Tickets should be secured beforehand if possible—the number being limited—and they may be had at the headquarters of the Boston League in the Little Building. Despite the fact that very little is known about Spanish-American authors, a large number of persons have already ordered their tickets.

There is no doubt that Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, the one-time Mrs. Rockwood Hoar, widow of the late Rockwood Hoar, who for many years was Representative in Congress from Massachusetts—will receive a hearty welcome from her host of Boston friends when she arrives in this city for a visit to her older daughter, Mrs. Reginald S. Foster (Frances Hoar). Miss Louisa Hoar, who has been dividing the past Winter between visits with her sister and her mother, will accompany Mrs. Gillett upon her trip to Boston, while Speaker Gillett is in the South with the presidential party in Florida.

Mrs. Gillett still retains her membership in the Chilton Club here, as well as in the Colony Club of New York, and I should be greatly surprised if I failed to hear of any entertainments taking place in honor of Mrs. Rockwood Hoar. She is one of the prominent hostesses at the capital, and is frequently seen in the company of the First Lady of the Land. During the past season she has entertained a number of Bostonians passing through the capital, and a succession of return hospitalities is only natural.

Miss Louisa Hoar, who has been one of the leading spirits of the younger set ever since she made her debut a number of years ago, is to take an important part in the Vincent Club's show, "Now and Then," to be given next month at the Wilbur Theatre. This talented and attractive young woman returned to this country several months ago from a trip abroad, where she visited friends in Paris and then went to Deauville to spend some time there. During her sojourn on foreign shores Miss Hoar was right royally entertained and, incidentally, it was said, she added not a few new steps to her terpsichorean repertoire—all of which, of course, will come in handy for her part in the coming performance of "Now and Then."

Society still finds time to chat about the Hoar-Foster nuptials, for without a doubt was the ceremony which transformed the one-time Frances Hoard into Mrs. "Reggie" Foster, one of the smartest ceremonial events of the capital. Not only were the most representative members of Washington's elite present at the wedding, but there was also a most imposing array of officials and executives, including the President and Mrs. Harding. Louisa Hoar was maid of honor at the all-important occasion, and not a few members of Boston's socially-elect went down to Washington to be present at the marriage.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

MR. AND MRS. FRANK W. STEARNS of Boston, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Foster Stearns, have concluded their visit at the capital with Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge at the New Willard, and are returning to their suite at the Hotel Touraine.

Mrs. Gordon Abbott and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Abbott, stopped off in New York upon their return from a sojourn in the South. Mrs. Abbott and her daughter made their headquarters at the Hotel Schuyler during their stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, the latter formerly of Boston, had as guests on Thursday night at the Century for the performance of "The Rose of Stamboul," Prince and Princess Rospigliosi, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Kountze, Miss Elizabeth Hoodlin and Messrs. Chester Allan and Arthur and Thomas Kearney.

Reginald Boardman of Marlboro street, and one of the most prominent yachting enthusiast among Boston society folk, recently gave a luncheon party for twelve at the Beach Club, Palm Beach. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn, W. G. Howe and Dr. and Mrs. Hobart Endicott Warren of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Hamlin were present at the dinner which Senator and Mrs. Kendrick gave at their home in the capital. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin, who are spending the Winter in Washington, are members of several of Boston's most exclusive clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bayley have arrived from Boston at Hot Springs, Va., where a large number of Bostonians have spent part of the season.

Reginald Vanderbilt is spending a few days at his Summer estate in Newport, known as "Sandy Point Farm," where he entertained quite a few members of the Boston colony at Newport last Summer. On Wednesday evening Mr. Vanderbilt gave a dinner in the riding ring.

The last meeting and dance of the Samedi Soir Club, recently organized by the younger married set sojourning at Palm Beach, will take place tonight at the Palm Beach Country Club, and will be preceded by many large dinners.

A special polo match takes place today at the Aiken Polo Club, between the Whites and the Reds, for the benefit of the Warrenville cyclone sufferers. Polo has featured among the most popular sports at the South Carolina resort. The lineup for today's match follows: Devoreaux Milburn, captain of the international team which defeated England; F. Skiddy von Stade, Frederick Ambrose Clark and Milton McCoy, Whites; Robert E. Strawbridge, Rodman Wanamaker, William P. Hulbert and George H. Mead, Reds.

Miss Gertrude Bradlee has arrived in Newport from Boston, and is stopping at the La Forge cottage.

FLEISCHMANNS CAN KEEP ALCOHOL PERMITS

Washington, March 11.—The agency distribution system of industrial alcohol by the Fleischmann Company was held illegal by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair, but the company was absolved from direct liability.

Ruling on the appeal taken to him on the action of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes in revoking all the permits of the Fleischmann Company, Commissioner Blair allows the company to maintain its permits for its main plants at Peekskill, N. Y., and Langdon, D. C., but holds that the agency system must be revised.

SAYS FLOGGING GIVEN GIRL JUSTIFIED

Rochester, N. H., School Head Upholds Punishment Given Hazel March

Rochester, N. H., March 11.—That the punishment given Hazel March, twelve-year-old East Rochester girl, was justified, was the statement made by Superintendent of Schools A. W. Smith, following his investigation of the case.

The March girl was reported at a meeting of the School Board to have been punished with a rattan by Miss Laura Mann, principal of the East Rochester Grammar School, so severely that it left long ridges on the child's arm.

Superintendent Smith went to East Rochester and discussed the case with Miss Mann. He said the March girl had been misbehaving during the day and that the principal had found it necessary to discipline her.

He said the usual methods had been followed in such a case; the punishment had been administered in private with a witness. During the administering of the punishment the child moved and the rattan struck her on the wrist, causing the marks in question.

Mr. Smith stated that the principal did bandage up the child's arm, but did not tell her not to tell her parents. She did tell her not to go around among the pupils and discuss the case.

ENERGY ENOUGH TO ANNIHILATE THE EARTH

Dr. Aston Declares Teaspoonful of Water Can Generate 200,000 Kilowatt Hours

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, March 11.—The quantity of hydrogen in a teaspoonful of water contains enough electrical energy to generate 200,000 kilowatt hours of electricity and the release of this enormous power may be brought about in the near future, Dr. F. W. Aston, British scientist, declared today in a lecture at Franklin Institute.

Experiments now being conducted, he said, would make possible the transformation of hydrogen into helium. Through these experiments, he added, it had been learned that it is the hydrogen in the sun that accounts for the heat of that body.

He warned, however, that the release of this tremendous energy might have serious consequences. "In the event that this energy is released," he said, "there is the danger that it may not be possible to control it. If that condition should come about, then there would be enough power running loose to annihilate the earth and scatter it into space."

The whole development of the theory, he said, depends upon the annihilation of the mass of the atom of hydrogen in order that it may be transformed into helium, the gas which really contains the energy.

"If only 10 per cent. of the total hydrogen of the sun were transformed into helium, enough energy could be radiated to maintain the present radiation for one thousand million years more," he said.

Shaking Hands Keeps Him Young, Says Secretary Davis

Washington, March 11—Secretary of Labor Davis seems to have found the secret of eternal youth. For fifteen years Mr. Davis has submitted to a thorough physical examination annually. The report of this year's examination has just been received, and states that his eyes are "ten years younger" than they were a year ago, and that his heart is good for fifty years more.

The Secretary says it's all due to constant handshaking—he knows 10,000 persons by their first names—and to playing horse with his young son. He also believes that attending meetings of the forty-two lodges to which he belongs also helps him keep young.

AUTOIST TALKS BY RADIO WITH FLIER

Framingham, March 11.—The effectiveness of the radiophone was shown here when two men traveling in an automobile at the rate of fifty miles an hour kept in constant touch with an airplane doing stunts 2,000 feet above them. Charles S. Jeffrey was the motorist and George F. Yarnold was the man in the air who told Jeffrey as Lieutenant Ralph Haynes, pilot, threw the plane into loops and tail spins.

HORSE - HEADED MONSTER HAS 30-FT. NECK

Navy Officer Tells of Strange Animal He Saw Off Coast of Patagonia

Philadelphia, March 11.—The Plesiosauran monster seen in Patagonia, according to reports from the Buenos Aires Zoological Garden, is not a myth, snake or tutle, in the belief of Lieutenant-Commander O. Bevilaqua, now at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

He said he had seen a horse-headed monstrous animal with a 30-foot neck off the coast of Patagonia 16 years ago that resembled descriptions of the one reported to have been seen recently by an Englishman named Sheffield in the same locality.

Lieutenant Bevilaqua, commander of the U. S. S. Kaweah, said that during 1906, while in the Straits of Magellan, about 500 yards off the coast of Patagonia, he saw the monster one afternoon. "The visibility was high and I do not believe I could have been mistaken," he said.

"I was scanning the skyline toward the shore and I heard a splash and saw a huge ice-covered boulder splash into the sea from the high rocky shore. A moment later a large animal appeared at the point from which the boulder had dropped and looked out toward me.

"The head was like that of a horse, and the neck was fully 30 feet long. It was not a turtle, because turtles do not have necks of that length. I am equally sure that it was not a snake because snakes do not live in the ice and snow."

BILL' HART ON ORPHEUM PROGRAM

Tabloid Version of "Travelin' On" Is Film Feature; Good Vaudeville Bill

A vivid, unusual story, a star of undoubted merit, a succession of exquisite settings all superbly directed and artistically photographed—that is a tabloid version of William S. Hart's latest Paramount picture, "Travelin' On," which will be presented at Loew's Orpheum Theatre for the entire coming week. The picture is a virile typification of Arizona as it was in its picturesque days when might was right, and a highly strung trigger finger dictated the law. The supporting cast includes Ethel Grey Terry, Brinsley Shaw and Mary Jane Irving. The vaudeville represents an all-star bill, including Carl Nixon Revue, a melodious syncopated minstrel cocktail, with a quintette of superlative artists, Taylor and Francis; Fred Schwartz and company, Goetz and Duffy, LaFleur and Portia and others.

GORDON'S SCOLLAY SQUARE

A wide variety of excellent attractions is listed on the generous program announced for this week by Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia Theatre. The features of the program, ranging from top notch vaudeville to a new photo play triumph and an added attraction showing popular New England ring champions in action will please theatre-goers of all tastes.

A snappy terpischorean novelty entitled "The Dance Shop," presented by Hackett and Delmar, assisted by Weeks and Warwick, is the vaudeville headliner. Advance notices are to the effect that this is one of the most elaborately staged acts in vaudeville.

LOEW'S STATE BIGGEST OF THEATRES

New House in Back Bay Is Crowning Achievement in Modern Building

The crowning achievement in modern theatre construction.

This, in brief, is a fitting description of Loew's State Theatre, which will be formally opened Monday night, and takes its place as one of the show places of the city. With a seating capacity approaching 4,000, Loew's State will rank as the most pretentious and capacious theatre in New England. The complete construction of this magnificent playhouse represents the enormous expenditure of more than $2,000,000, and, incidentally, the site upon which the theatre is located represents one of the biggest real estate developments in recent years. The theatre is located on Massachusetts avenue, at the corner of Norway street, and is but a single block from Symphony Hall, making it easily accessible from all points of the city and neighboring districts.

The exterior illumination will be striking and made powerful through the use of large vertical electric display signs, aided by marquise flasher signs, both on the front and sides of the canopy.

The vestibule has been given a background of botticino scaggliolo marble with a dark base. Here is the location of the ticket booth, both spacious and luxurious. The marble used in booth is of the finest American marble quarried. Elaborate display frames are distributed in vestibule at intervals, which will be utilized for the display of all current and coming attractions. The inner lobby walls are of similar construction, and lined with huge mirrors framed in elaborate bronze work. The flooring throughout is of terrazzo. The grand foyer presents to the visitor a beautiful and spacious room designed in Italian Renaissance and velvet wainscoting. This room is furnished with ruby velvet covered furniture and contains numerous pieces of the finest example of Italian pottery.

The theatre proper is possessed of the three primary requisites of all up-to-date theatres. First of all, ample comfort has been provided in the seats, being plentifully large and ample space between them.

The new State Theatre will be devoted exclusively to the screenings of the best photoplays obtainable and offered in the most elaborate manner. An orchestra of thirty pieces, comprising the pick of the most skilled musicians, will accompany the presentations, which will in a substantial measure augment the value of their entertainment. The program will be changed weekly.

'STEP LIVELY GIRLS' AT GAYETY

New Burlesque Production Dazzles the Eye With Snappy Costumes

Burlesque's newest creation, "Step Lively Girls," is announced as the attraction for Gayety Theatre patrons next week.

The new burlesque is the work of that famous producer, Harry Schapiro, and critics of other cities declare that it rivals the most successful musical extravaganzas in brilliancy and merriment.

The show presented by the "Step Lively Girls" was designed to dazzle the eye and it performs its mission. With its artistic and striking scenic and lighting effects, and with the radiant beauty of the girl players and choristers this production is one of the greatest feasts for the eye which stage producers have ever brought forth.

WALDRON'S CASINO

Action, clever comedians, pretty girls dazzling costumes and fun that is fast and furious, will be seen at Waldron's Casino this week, when Harry Hastings' new big revue, "Knick Knacks," will be presented as the burlesque attraction of the continuous performance programs. Several excellent vaudeville acts and photo play features, including the sensational Sessue Hayakawa screen drama, "Five Days to Live," complete the list of attractions.

KEITH'S THIRD OF A CENTURY

The week of April 24 has been officially designated by the officials in charge of the "Third of a Century" anniversary of Keith vaudeville as "Third of a Century Week," and will be observed in every theatre throughout the country where Keith vaudeville is playing.

Meantime a big committee of nationally known personages, business men, statesmen, diplomats, actors, artists and musicians, are preparing to give E. F. Albee, present head of Keith vaudeville, and a personal associate of the late B. F. Keith, a great testimonial dinner in New York, as a tribute to the way in which, through vaudeville, he has raised the standards of the American stage.

ARLINGTON THEATRE

David Belasco's great melodrama of the Civil War days, "The Heart of Maryland," will be the bill this coming week at the Arlington Theatre. "The Heart of Maryland" is in four acts and in the development of an absorbing story of love between a Southern girl and a Northern soldier there is a succession of highly dramatic situations. The great scene of the third act, that in the belfry, is one of the most sensational and startling effects ever produced on the American stage.

In this scene the heroine, Maryland Calvert, is to be played by Florence Johns.

BROOKLINE RELAY TEAM MAY TAKE PART IN PENN CARNIVAL

By FRED C. LANE

The approval of the Brookline School Committee has been asked so that the Brookline High relay team, that made a new record in the State meet, may take part in the Penn relay carnival. According to one closely associated with the committee, the entry will be allowed by the school fathers who are agreeably surprised at the fine performances turned in by the school track team this season.

Coach Henry Carroll, and Headmaster W. C. Akers are back of the proposal. In the estimation of both these men, not only will it give the quartet from the school a chance to show speed against the country's best, but will be an educational trip.

Everybody in Massachusetts' richest town is rooting hard for the team. Considering the record they made against New England's best relay teams, and as a reward for their showing, the proposition should pass with little opposition.

* * *

The team which set up the record was made up of Rowell Chase, Charles Swett, Captain James Thompson and Francis Daley. The record of 2m. 37 1-5s. was made with little urging from the Medford team, the opponent of Brookline that day.

* * *

Each boy ran 352 yards. At the Penn games they will run 440 yards. In the opinion of Coach Carroll the increased distance will be no handicap, as the lads will have the opportunity to train out doors.

Since no school of Metropolitan Boston is sending a team to these games, it is fitting that Brookline should uphold the traditions of the State, and send the fastest school boy quartet in the State.

* * *

Dr. Rowe, dean of Technology's rowing activities, is heartily in favor of the school boys of Greater Boston using the old B. A. A. boathouse, now owned by the Engineers. Dr. Rowe has sent word to all the schools of this section that foster rowing, inviting them to continue to use the boathouse and its facilities.

* * *

This will be glad news to the high schools of Boston and vicinity who were in doubt where their crews could train.

Coach Franz Nicholls of Brookline High is preparing his oarsmen for this season's work. They have won two legs on the B. F. Keith Trophy, and are out this year to make this beautiful prize a permanent fixture in the Brookline school.

The lads have been training for three weeks on the machine at school, and are prepared to race at this early date.

* * *

Huntington School will make a strong effort to take its place among the private schools of New England, by having an eight. If such plans mature, some mighty close competition is in store for Stone, Browne & Nichols, and Nichols & Greenough, who have had the rowing situation well in hand for some years.

* * *

The Back Bay School has invaded Hanover, N. H. to meet the Dartmouth Freshies in a dual track meet. Judging from past performances on the track, a hard fight is in store for the Wah Wah's, who boast of a fine team of freshmen.

While the track team is endeavoring to beat Dartmouth, the Huntington swimming team will oppose the Exeter natators in the Y. M. C. A. tank this afternoon.

FRANK MERNA TO MAKE PROFESSIONAL DEBUT

By JACK CONWAY.

The decision of Frank Merna, amateur ring star, to begin his career as a professional at the Carlyle Club's show at the Grand Opera House Monday night deprives New England of one of the men it banked upon to gain fame for this section of the country in the national championships. But as Merna is a much better boxer than most of the 128-pound professionals one can hardly blame him for hopping out with the money chasers. He will have Charley DeAngeles of Revere as an opponent in the final tussle of eight frames.

Merna was the sensation of the B. A. A. inter-city bouts. He is a pupil of Johnny Donovan of South Boston, who has taught his protege a great deal about "inside" boxing. Donovan will appear at the same show with Jimmy Sacco of East Boston as an opponent.

Sammy Ferrin of St. Paul will go eight rounds with Paully Mack of New York, Hambone Kelly of South Boston and Joe Rivers of Gloucester will battle eight sessions, as will Billy Shine of Quincy and Jackie Ryan of South Boston.

* * *

Lynn also has an attractive show billed for Monday night. The feature bout of ten rounds will find Jimmy Fruzetti of Brockton swapping blows with Benny Valgar, French Flash. Apparently Jack Murphy intends to give Lynn fans big league bouts. It will be the third meeting between these men. In their first contest, Fruzetti grabbed the decision, while in the second encounter Valgar was out front when the final blow was delivered. It will be interesting to see which boxer grabs the award in the rubber contest. The Casino Club is expected to play to a capacity crowd for this show.

* * *

George Moore has plenty of confidence in the ability of his protege, Danny Edwards, to defeat Young Montreal at the Arena A. C.'s show at the Boston Arena next Wednesday night. Tom Goodwin, aide to Matchmaker Joe Goode of the Arena, was in New York to get Moore's contracts and during a conversation Goodwin asked Moore just what the latter thought the outcome of Wednesday night's tussle would be.

* * *

"I have $10,000 which says Edwards will win," declared Moore. "I am not talking merely so as to hear the sound of my voice either. I will back up my opinion with hard cash.

"I have watched Edwards develop from the days he was battling with fellow newsboys on the Pacific Coast. He defeated all opposition in the Far West. We were obliged to come East, however, so as to get bouts with the headliners in the bantamweight and featherweight classes. Although only a bantamweight, Edwards can defeat virtually all of the featherweights. He's another George Dixon and will show Montreal more boxing gloves next Monday night than the Providence warrior ever thought existed."

The Sacred Heart A. C. will stage an open amateur boxing tournament at Sumner Hall, East Boston, on March 21. There will be contests at 112, 118, 125 and 135 pounds. Entries close on March 20 with F. A. Silva, Jr., No. 37 Faywood avenue, East Boston, or Sacred Heart Club, No. 154 Meridian street, East Boston.

* * *

One of the best amateur shows of the season to be staged by the Riverton A. C. will be held in the Chelsea Theatre this evening. A fine entry list of the fastest boxers in the 108 and 118 pound classes has been secured by Matchmaker Al Lacey. There is also a good list of entries for the special 135 pound novice event. Gus Turia, a local 108-pound boy who has been brought along by Red Chapman and Al Lacey, will be in the 108-pound class and will meet some stiff opposition. The boy waded through the novices recently and his amateur debut is exciting considerable interest.

Eddie Barry announces that Eddie Trembly is ready for ring action once more.

Jock Malone's return to Boston on March 25 for a bout with Augie Ratner at the Commercial Club should revive interest in the middleweight division hereabouts. Ratner recently knocked out Jack Delaney of Bridgeport in a round.

* * *

Colonel Ikey Woods says Billy Henry, Chicago featherweight, is eager for action in a local ring. Henry has swapped most of the opposition in the Middle West and would like to get started here.

* * *

Dinny O'Keefe has gone back to the Middle West to fill a couple of ring engagements, but will return to Boston if offered a suitable match.

* * *

B. C. FOOTBALL LEADER JOINS THE TRACK SQUAD

Bill Kelleher, captain-elect of the Boston College football team, fearing that the ease of the off-season may cause him to get out of condition, has joined the trackmen. While Bill does not aspire to break any records, he feels that he will be in better physical condition by continuing his regular training when the football season rolls around to University Heights next Fall.

Babe Ruth Drives 436 Feet in Homer Clout

By Universal Service.

New Orleans, La., March 11.—Ruth hit town and it didn't take him long to get started. On his first trip to the plate, in practice, the Babe clouted the sphere over the fence in centre field, a distance of 436 feet.

Today the Yankees play their first exhibition game of the season. They will meet New Orleans and the Babe will start the game at first base. Skinner will play right field and in giving out the batting order, Huggins said that Skinner will start the American League season in right field.

B. U. BASEBALL SQUAD GOES ON A HIKE

Coach Murray Gives All the Aspirants for the Nine Endurance Test

Coach Murray of the Boston University baseball team took the squad on a cross country endurance test, leaving Commonwealth Armory this morning. Sixty-five men showed up to take the six-mile hike. The coach feels that such a test is necessary before cutting down the squad. Coach Murray will reduce the baseball squad next Wednesday.

The squad has been practicing in the Commonwealth Armory, but with favorable weather the coach expects to have the men playing outdoors in two or three weeks.

In the cut to take effect next Wednesday, Coach Murray will keep all the battery men. On that day measurements for uniforms will be taken and the regular and sub teams chosen. Many of last year's veterans are out and things look bright.

Among the men who are showing up well are Williamson, Washburn, Miller and Small, all of whom were football stars last season.

Klain is very promising. He spent two years on the baseball team at Colby, 1918 to 1920. He is a College of Business Administration man. Evans of the Law School is showing up well also. He was on the baseball team at Brown in 1918. Hart, Spencer, Fitzpatrick and Williamson are good. Poland, Ford, Furniss, Doheny, Ruane, Washburn, Miller, McCorey are doing fine work.

ST. MARK'S FIVE AGAIN FACES ST. MARY'S

Second Game of Series Slated for Tonight at Dorchester High Gym

THE LINEUP

St. Mary's C. A.	St. Mark's C. C.

M. Haley, l. b.	r. f., Collins
Kelley, c.	c., O'Brien
J. Haley, l. f.	l. b., McGonigle
McKenzie, r. f.	r. b., Martin

The feature attraction at the Dorchester High gym tonight will be the second game of the St. Mark's C. C. and St. Mary's C. A., Cambridge, basketball series.

St. Mary's won the first game at their gym in a very well played game by 28 to 20, and St. Mark's feel confident that they will even up matters tonight.

Both teams have had successful seasons and from the interest that the large crowd showed at the first game, there should be a capacity house tonight.

The prelim contest will bring together the Pilgrim and the Greenwood fives of the Dorchester Church League and the semi-final game will be between the teams representing the English High and Dorchester Centre teams. Bart Sullivan will referee the main contest.

THREE GAMES IN WOBURN

There will be three games of basketball played in Lyceum Hall, Woburn, tonight. The title of Mystic Valley champions hinges on the big contest which brings together Woburn Town Team and the Medford Five in the playoff game of the series, each team having won one game.

The second game will see the newly organized Girls' Team of Woburn in action.

The curtain raiser is between the Elmwoods of Wakefield and the Woburn Cubs.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

BROOKLYN.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 11.—With Summer weather encouraging the pitchers to put "stuff" on the ball, the Brooklyn regulars beat the Yannigans, 3 to 1.

Jimmy Johnston reported and covered second for the Yannigans.

Paul Schreiber, the young Florida right-hander, was released to the Saginaw, Mich., club.

* * *

CARDINALS.

St. Louis, March 11.—Jack Fournir, last of the St. Louis National League hold-outs, has signed a one year contract to play first base for the Cardinals.

The contract is said to call for $7,000. Fournir will leave here tomorrow to join the Rickey squad at Orange, Tex.

* * *

PHILLIES.

Chicago, March 11.—Arthur Fletcher, former shortstop of the New York Giants, was restored to good standing in organized baseball in a decision handed down by Judge Landis, baseball commissioner.

Fletcher was on the voluntarily retired list of the Philadelphia Nationals, to whom he was traded by the Giants.

* * *

GIANTS

New York—Dave Bancroft will open the season with the Giants in the lead-off position, it was reported today in dispatches from the world champions' training camp at San Antonio.

McGraw probably will send Groh in behind Bancroft, then follow with Young and clean up with Frank Frisch. Irish Meusel may get the call for the fifth position and Long George Kelly will bat sixth. Ralph Shinners will bat before the battery.

* * *

CHICAGO CUBS

Chicago—The Chicago Nationals were ready to meet the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League today with an effort to make up for the 7 to 5 defeat handed them by the Portland club in their first exhibition game of the season yesterday, according to word from the coast.

* * *

PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh—The Pittsburgh baseball club expected to stage a brief workout today at the training quarters in West Baden, Ind., and then prepared for the trip to the regular camp at Hot Springs, Arkansas. The club will leave West Baden tonight, the only stop being a brief layoff at Memphis, Tenn.

* * *

CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati—A touch of influenza caused Outfielder George Harper to be left behind when the Cincinnati baseball outfit left Mineral Wells for Fort Worth this morning, according to dispatches received here. Harper had been slated to play centre field in the two games against the Southern champions, but now that he is out of it Eddie Bock, Virginia League recruit, has been given the assignment.

DETROIT

Detroit—Spring training of the Detroit Tigers will reach the practice game stage at Augusta, Ga., next week, when Manager Cobb plans to stage five-inning contests daily, that he may get a better line on his recruit candidates for infield berths. By that time Jones will have reported and Cobb will have two sets of infielders.

At least ten days will elapse, according to reports from the camp, before any of the thirty-five men now on the roster will be eliminated.

* * *

ST. LOUIS BROWNS

St. Louis—The St. Louis Americans were slated today to meet the Mobile Southern Association team in the first exhibition game of the season at the local team's training ground in Mobile. Manager Lee Fohl has selected his regulars for the first game but has stated that he will use some recruits if the opposing team cannot hold down the score.

* * *

CHICAGO WHITE SOX

San Antonio—The Chicago Americans and the New York Nationals were to play their first exhibition game of the year here today. The White Sox may have to depend upon a number of rookies in the first clash. Manager Gleason brought eighteen men with him from Seguin, Texas, including five regulars, Hooper, Strunk, Mostl, Schalk and Johnson.

* * *

CLEVELAND.

Cleveland—The Cleveland Indians are due for their first real test of the season when they face the St. Louis Cardinals in exhibition games at Dallas today and tomorrow. While the first team is engaged in these contests the Indians second team will be in Wichita Falls, Tex., scheduled to play that team.

CORNELL IS FAVORITE TO WIN TOP HONORS IN COLLEGE MEET

By CHARLES E. PARKER

New York, March 11.—Jack Moakley's well balanced Cornell track team rules the favorite in the first annual indoor track and field meet of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. at the 22nd Regiment Armory tonight.

Ithaca Jack seems to possess a sufficient number of [illegible] winners to [illegible] and he has in addition such a supply of possible point gatherers that his margin of victory may develop into a very considerable one.

* * *

In the table published in yesterday's Boston American two first places, one second place, four third places, one fourth place and one fifth place were forecasted for the Cornell team, which would give the Ithacans a total of twenty-nine points toward the team championship.

* * *

Kimball, in the hurdles, and Bob Brown, in the two-mile were the men named for first places. W[illegible], in the 35-pound weight, was the predicted second place winner. Norman Brown [illegible] high jump [illegible] and the [illegible] two [illegible] team were [illegible] named as a [illegible] fourth [illegible] and Kirby in the [illegible] forecasted as a fifth place winner.

In addition to these [illegible], however, Cornell has several who may crop out as point winners. Lovejoy in the sprint stands a chance of placing. [illegible] in the shot put and one or two others [illegible] if the [illegible] six teams would [illegible] for the title.

Yesterday's table indicated these teams to [illegible] Yale, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, [illegible], Princeton, Harvard and Penn State.

* * *

Yale's chance of nosing out the Ithacans will depend on the work of Mal Douglas in the two-mile run, that of Hulman and Shedden in the hurdles; Jordan in the shot put; Cruickshank in the weight throw, and the Yale two-mile relay team.

* * *

If these men can equal or better the positions accorded them in the table, the Elis will be in excellent position to step into the team championship.

Dartmouth's chance of winning the latter honor devolves on its field event men and would be enhanced by a surprise or two from its runners and hurdlers. Leroy Brown in the high jump, and Libby in the pole vault are seemingly certain first place winners; Lee has a chance of winning first in the shot, and Turnbull is a probable place winner in both shot and weight throw.

Dartmouth's possible point winners are Coffin in the dash; Anderson in the hurdles, [illegible] in the mile, Young in the two-mile, and the relay team in the two-mile, and if any of the latter group do break through the better will be Dartmouth's outlook.

Cambridge Lacrosse Players Help Oxford

By Universal Service

Syracuse, March 11.—On the ground that the schedule arranged demands the greatest possible English collegiate strength, the Oxford, England, lacrosse team will draw upon Cambridge University for some of its stars, it was announced by Coach Laurie Cox of Syracuse, business manager for the Britons.

In addition to the probable Harvard point winners shown in yesterday's table, the Crimson has possibilities in Wansker in the dash, Morse in the high jump, Merrill in the broad jump, Brown in the shot put, and the one-mile team in the relay race. Thus it is the Crimson cannot be figured out of it, in the event of a Cornell upset, until the last point has been totaled.

* * *

The same can be said of Princeton and Pennsylvania. The last named seem to possess men who are [illegible] to acquire twelve or sixteen [illegible] who through exceptional performances would add [illegible] to this total.

That the meet tonight will prove the most thrilling ever conducted by a college or club athletic body, seems certain. Evenly matched performers are found in almost every event on the program, and world's record holders in several of the contests.

The sprint with such established stars as Lever of Penn, Carter of [illegible] and [illegible] of Lafayette, the hurdles with Dave Kimball of Cornell and Harold Barron of Penn State, the mile with Burke of Harvard, Connolly of Georgetown, Shields of Penn State, Larry Brown of Pennsylvania, and [illegible] of Cornell, the two-mile with Bob and Norman Brown of Cornell, and Mal Douglas of Yale, the pole vault with Libby of Dartmouth, Gardner and Gartley of Yale, Gulnlock of Cornell and Davis of Harvard, the shot put with Jordan of Yale and Lee of Dartmouth, and both relay events, loom as exciting battles from start to finish, while there is a possibility that some genuine opposition will be offered Fiske Brown of Harvard in the thirty-five-pound weight throw, which takes place this afternoon at Columbia Field.

* * *

FOOTBALL RULE MAKERS OPPOSE PRO TAINT

New York, N. Y., March 11.—Mystery enveloped the first day's session of the annual get-together of the football rules committee at the Biltmore, and according to Chairman E. K. Hall, Dartmouth's representative on the gridiron board, the expectant world must wait until tonight's adjournment of that body before it will know what, if anything, has been done to the panned but popular college pastime.

Chairman Hall admitted the appearance and consideration of what he terms the "perennial proposals," such as deal with numbering of players, clipping, shift plays, etc., but would not state what action had been or might be taken.

Major Fred W. Moore, Harvard's representative on the committee, was obmutescent to a similar degree. So also was the usually loquacious Dr. Williams of Minnesota, inventor of the famous Minnesota shift.

* * *

That some attention will be brought to bear on the professional element which has entered the game, as well as upon intentional fouling by certain players, so noticeable last Fall, is the expectation of those intimate with the committee.

* * *

The football code, which was introduced [illegible] one rule [illegible] institution of [illegible] be stricken from the laws of [illegible]

* * *

[illegible] ferred that coaches are [illegible] sideline instruction to [illegible] the substitutes [illegible] into the fray, and seemed of the opinion that if a player was permitted to return to the game after having once been taken from the lineup, such tactics would be eliminated and the game would then become a game for the players instead of a game for the coaches.

* * *

W. R. Coffin, the Harvard graduate, with a tendency to statistical sports, was on hand again. He has given up his old aim of measuring the game according to the number of plays rather than the number of minutes per period, but he is said to have other rather involved suggestions which he will advance.

* * *

One such suggestion deals with the length of time allowed between plays, Coffin being of the opinion that [illegible] seconds should elapse between plays unless the ball changes hands, and that a team hesitating longer than that should be penalized for delaying the game.

This would require the referee to carry and manipulate a stop-watch along with his already ample tasks in following the ball, noting the position of the players, the legality of the plays, etc., which plan appears to have no great appeal to those who serve as gridiron officials.

* * *

The one drastic change most likely to be made concerns the goal following touchdown, and a considerable portion of today's session will be devoted to discussion on this point.

* * *

[illegible] nating the goal from touchdown and increasing the value of the [illegible] to seven points is [illegible] advocated.

[illegible] would allow the scoring [illegible] to gain the seventh [illegible] scoring play [illegible] scrimmage from a point ten or fifteen yards in front of the defending team's goal.

A definite ruling has been asked by officials in cases where a player, not then in possession of the ball, steps outside the field of play and then comes back over the side line to [illegible] forward pass.

CHARLEY ELKINS WINS FROM JOSEPH NELSON

Fall River, March 11.—Charlie Elkins defeated Joe Nelson at the Casino A. C.

Elkins may be matched against Kid Williams in Philadelphia or Providence.

ELI'S FIRST GAME AT HARVARD IN YEARS

Crimson and Blue Basketball Fives Have Not Met Here for 12 Years

Harvard and Yale will meet on the Hemenway basketball courts tonight for the first time in twelve years. The fives have already had a conflict at New Haven with the Crimson an easy winner, but the Yale team seems to have picked up a bit and may turn the tables.

Harvard will be working without Roscoe Fitts at centre, and Lew Gordon, who played in the first game, Vic Miller taking the pivotal post and Dell Lowenthal assuming the left forward vacancy made by Gordon's illness.

Captain Cooper of Yale has the reputation of being a fast man and good shot, and Baither of the Elis is likewise an evasive man in the vicinity of the basket.

MERIDIANS CHALLENGE ALL TEAMS IN STATE

The Meridian A. A., a recently organized baseball team of East Boston, challenges any amateur team in the state. The nine is composed of practically all the old Mohawk baseball players.

The line-up is as follows:

A. Welang, r. f.; L. Hurley, c. f.; I. Frazier, l. f.; L. Johnson, 1st base; W. Maloney, 2d base; T. Keany, s. s.; W. Dobbins, 3d base; J. Olson, catcher; L. Mullen, pitcher.

Subs—R. Tierney, A. Azzalino, T. Waterous.

Holiday, Saturday and Sunday games are wanted, out of town games preferred. The season will open April 19. Write Manager Lawrence Johnson, No. 90 Bennington street, East Boston. Telephone East Boston 2545-W.

ENGLISH BEATS LATIN IN DUAL INDOOR MEET

English won the final dual school track athletic meet of the indoor season by beating Latin. In the track events English scored 74 1-2 points and Latin 46 1-2. The English total in both track and field events was 151 2-3 and Latin's 68 1-3.

English cleaned up in the intermediate division and took 18 of the 22 points in the junior class. Latin's seniors won 33 1-2 to 21 1-2.

The feature was a sensational victory by Sullivan of Latin in the 300 yards run. He beat Julius Martin at the tape.

SIEGAL AND SHADE TO BATTLE ON APRIL 4

Following in the wake of the Danny Edwards-Young Montreal bout at the Arena, next Wednesday night, the Arena A. C. has completed arrangements for a bout between Dave Shade and Nate Siegal at the Arena on the night of Tuesday, April 4.

Matchmaker Goode now has in his possession the signed contracts of both Shade and Siegal for the April show. Reservations for this meeting will be available immediately after the Edwards-Montreal bout is settled next Wednesday night.

ARLINGTON TENNIS CLUB NAMES LLOYD PRESIDENT

William M. Lloyd was elected president of the Arlington Heights Tennis Club at its annual meeting in the home of Robert H. Begien, at No. 31 Florence avenue, Arlington Heights.

The other officials were chosen as follows: Vice-president, C. Frederic Evans; treasurer, George H. Higgins; clerk, Marshall H. Wood; board of directors, officers and Arthur M. Stewart, Carl W. Patriquin and George Currier.

PITTSBURGH HAS TOUGH GAME TONIGHT

Pittsburgh's hockey team, which overwhelmed the reconstructed B. A. A. sextet in its first Boston appearance, will play against a more formidable team, when it will oppose the Pere Marquette K. of C. team tonight.

Johnny Murphy's return to the forward line, and the fact that Lew Brown of New York will referee, are the features. Each team was a runner up in its respective group championship.

Murphy's return gives Red Synnott's team just the pep needed in the constant shifting of the forwards. Few men in this country are faster than the former Dartmouth captain. Incidentally it is recalled that Johnny took a "Green" team to Pittsburgh, and licked Joe McCormick's crew, two to one, a few years ago.

There will be plenty of action tonight at the Arena. No such wild encounter that ensued last Saturday between the Westies and Knights, is expected to develop, but if Drury of Pittsburgh has one of his wild nights, there is no telling where the game will wind up.

No sporting announcement in years has made a deeper impression on the sport fans than that the tickets for the American championship series between St. Paul and Westies next Friday and Saturday at the Arena will be at the usual prices.

Cambridge Latin's victory of the Interscholastic League title will be rewarded in a manner aside from the post season international battle with the Earl Grey School of Lachine, Que. Harold C. Durrell, who with J. P. Bonney and Dr. Fred Goodridge made schoolastic hockey possible twenty years ago, will award silver medals to the members of the team. The medal will be a replica of the medal the New England Skating Association awarded the various league winners in days gone by.

The game between Cambridge Latin and Lachine will be played next week. The exact date for the International [illegible] but as Manager Brown favors Friday night for a school game, the game will probably be staged March 24.

BOSTON "Y" CITY LEAGUE SEASON CLOSES TODAY

The Boston "Y" City Basketball League will draw to a close today. The American Glue and Sanborn teams are tied for first honors, each team having won six games and lost two. Sanborn will meet Decatur Hopkins and the glue company team plays the Wetmore-Savage quintet. If a tie remains after the contests it will be played off on March 16.

QUESTION LEAHY'S AWARD OVER JOHNNY SHUGRUE

Worcester, March 11.—Tommy Leahy was given a questionable decision over Johnny Shugrue in a ten-round bout in Mechanics Hall. Shugrue did all the forcing, landing the cleaner blows. Leahy worked a left jab frequently.

Lynn Team Wants Games

Joyce Bros. A. A., of Lynn, have organized a baseball team. The team was successful last year, winning fifteen games and losing five. Correspondence from teams throughout New England relative to arranging games is invited. Write to Baseball Manager, Joyce Bros. A. A., Lynn.

Expect Records at 'Y' Indoor Meet, March 18

Several new records are expected at the annual record-breaking track meet to be held at the Boston Y. M. C. A. on March 18.

The program calls for nine events: 45 yard dash, 45 yard low hurdles, standing high and running high jumps, standing broad jump, 16-lb. shot put, 220-yard run, 2-mile run and 1 lap relay.

Men who break the Boston Y. M. C. A. records will be awarded silver medals, and those who break Northeastern Section records of the A. L. of N. A. will receive gold medals.

The winners of the various events will receive bronze medals. The meet will be open to all members of the Boston Y. M. C. A. and its branches. Entries will close next Thursday, with C. F. Foster at the Huntington avenue "Y."

EATON AND EGG CARRY OFF SPRINTING HONORS

New York, March 11.—Ray Eaton and Oscar Egg carried off the sprinting honors last night in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden.

When the sprints were over the same teams of Grenda-McNamara and Brocco-Deruyter still led with a lap to spare.

Seven of the other teams were tied for second, two combinations were three laps behind and two others four laps to the bad.

The leaders at the 119th hour had covered 2,007 miles and nine laps as to the former record for the same time of 2,328 miles made by Moran and McNamara in 1914.

INSURANCE LEAGUE HAS TWO BASKETBALL GAMES

The Insurance Basketball League teams have two more scheduled playing dates at the Boston Y. M. C. A. The Employers' Liability team, the league leader, has a one-game lead on the Paige team, and Aetna and Hoffman teams, with eight wins each, are fighting for third place. The Gilmour, Rothery team, which meets the Employers' team today, is tied with the Field & Cowles team for fifth place. The Hinckley & Woods and Field & Cowles teams will also meet today.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 11.—Handsome Harry Frazee had several conniption fits at the practice session, for only a few of the regulation Ban Johnson autographed horsehides [illegible] out of [illegible] came back. The Red Sox batters went on a rampage and every mother's son who took his club in hand wafted the globule as far distant from the plate as he could.

[illegible]

[illegible] crops that four of the players obtained in the Winter deals, are giants. George Burns is an inch over six feet, and Elmer Smith, Joe Dugan and Rip Collins are just at the six foot mark.

Harvey Hendrick, the Southern League outfielder, measures two inches over six feet.

Elmer Myers has put his name to a contract, although he did not do it with much good grace. Elmer feels that he has been treated shabbily by the Red Sox owner, but rather than provoke a suspension he has agreed to terms although he is not satisfied.

The first practice game will be played on Sunday.

EMPLOYED BOYS HAVE TRACK MEET AT THE "Y"

Fully 300 youngsters will participate in the annual employed boys indoor athletic meet to be held tonight at the Huntington avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A. The meet is open to all boys from 15 to 20, inclusive, who are employed full time and at least four boys must represent one business firm. No contestant may enter more than two events besides the relay.

Two weight divisions have been created, one for boys weighing under 125 pounds, and one for those weighing more than 125.

The events in the under 125 class will be a 50-yard dash, 220 yard dash, 600-yard run, running high jump and standing broad jump.

In the heavier class there will be a 300-yard run in place of the 220 and an 880-yard run in place of the 600.

DARTMOUTH FIVE WILL END SEASON WITH PENN

Hanover, N. H., March 11.—Dartmouth's basketball team has left for Philadelphia where it will finish its season in a game with Penn tonight.

In spite of the fact that Penn has practically won the championship and Dartmouth is out of the race, the game should be one of the fastest of the year. It has all the aspects of a grudge match.

Penn defeated Dartmouth in the last three games between the two colleges and was the team which put the Green out of the championship race.

Dartmouth will start Heep and Millar as guards, Goldstein at centre, and Cullen and Moore at forwards. Cullen is expected to play a sensational game as he is now high scorer in the league and it will be his last chance to increase his total. Fistere, Patten, Shaneman and Watkins went as substitutes.

BRAVES RIGHT ON EDGE FOR THE OPENING GAMES AT CAMP

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11.—The first week of Braves Spring practice went into history after a double season of really [illegible]. The week was a complete success athletically and physically. Not a practice spell was lost because of bad weather, and with the exception of a couple of days of high wind, supposed to be very rare here [illegible]

[illegible] to spring around [illegible] grows so fast that [illegible] thing out and [illegible] built in, [illegible] thing is ready for the arrival of the regular performers Monday.

* * *

Not a sore arm, or any kind of an injury marked the whole week and all the youths who came here in front of the big show are in good shape to make life vigorous for the rest of the gang. The baby pitchers are all set to do real chucking, and will come in for their real tryouts when the varsity bat swingers get on the job.

* * *

Mitch has room on the team for a couple of young pitchers, and competition to get the places will be keen. All the boys present have ability, and those not up to the mark will be let out on option for experience. All the raw pitchers are young enough to stand a couple of years of minor league work before acquiring the [illegible] class.

[illegible] pennant for Orlando, but the club lost money.

St. Petersburg is the best attendance spot in the circuit and the owners are out to make a real bid for the flag this season.

* * *

Large Joseph Oeschger had his first workout Friday and went the whole distance with the rest of the boys; he reported as usual in good condition, several pounds lighter than he was last Spring and will be in shape for real pitching by the time the Senator series starts next Saturday.

* * *

Joe was late because his sleeping car was cut off from the Florida Coast Express, over around Pensacola and he lost some thirty-six hours getting under way again. He spent the whole Winter hunting near his home in Ferndale, Northern California, most of the time with Gavvy Cravath, former manager of the Phils. Climbing a couple of mountains and walking twenty miles or so is the big pitcher's idea of a real good time.

A big blowout is in way of preparation for Judge Landis when he arrives to look over the Braves camp. Ex-Mayor Al Lang, the city official athletic promoter, among other things has wired the high commissioner inviting him to attend a banquet. The same will be tendered the city officials and a few hundred of the dyed in the wool baseball fans. There are plenty of them down here. By the way, each practice draws out a few hundred and there's a lot of regular baseball enthusiasm.

* * *

The first practice for the regulars will be staged Monday at 10 a. m. and there will be a p. m. spasm at 2.30. That will be the daily program all the way here, except on game days. The first joust with the Senators is billed for a week from today at Tampa and will probably be used by the manager as final trying out for some of his youthful talent.

Reports from Hot Springs have it that Rudolph has worked the pitchers over there sufficiently to have them come here and do their stuff from the blow off. So the batters will have a lot of curves to swing at while getting their eyes in shape.

Ray Porter, the star golfer of the Homestead Course in Danvers, up home, is a Winter visitor here, and celebrated this week by winning the big cup in the first division of an open tourney at the Country Club. He had to shoot at 77 to bring down the glory but he was present in the pinches. He went out in 42, then speeded up and made the more difficult home journey in 35.

Mickey O'Neil, regular Braves' catcher, has joined the squad and was out for his initial workout. He has been exercising at home and reported close to playing weight. He was to have come here with the first flight but was delayed on account of sickness in his family. Three or four clubs are angling for this youth but Manager Mitchell absolutely refuses to let him go.

Jack Coombs Plans a Practice Camp for Williams

Williamstown, March 11.—Coach Jack Coombs of the Williams baseball nine plans to take a squad of twenty five men away for a week in camp during the Easter recess which will be devoted to intensive practice instead of a regular schedule of games in the South as has been the case in the past. It is figured out that the Purple will benefit by the change as it will provide a chance to look over the candidates thoroughly in preparation for the opening game of the season with Columbia on April 12, where the squad will stop on the way back to Williamstown. The location of the camp has not been announced yet as a spot must be found with a playing field available at all times.

GIBBONS FAVORITE FOR GREB BATTLE

New York, March 11.—Ring experts have installed Tom Gibbons an 8 to 5 favorite over Harry Greb in next Monday night's fifteen-round battle at Madison Square Garden. Along Broadway they say the kid brother of Phantom Mike will enter the ring at 2 to 1 or a little better.

Some friendly wagers have been made at the former odds by admirers of the Pittsburgher after watching Greb in action in his daily workouts in "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien's gym.

George Engle, manager of Greb, states that when the Smoke City delegation begins arriving they will stake their all on their townsman.

Both men will put in their hardest [illegible] today and [illegible] for one [illegible]. This is the first time in their careers that they have trained so faithfully for a contest, so anxious are they to win.

The match was arranged three weeks ago, and ever since the articles were signed, Tom and Harry have been working in the gyms.

If confidence counts for anything, [illegible] will defeat Gibbons. The Smoky City lad says there may be some men who can beat him, but "Tom is made to order for me."

Manager Engle has planned the battle for his protege, and if everything goes well Greb will land the verdict.

Engle managed Frank Klaus and several other top-notchers in his twenty years' connection with the boxing game, and he knows a thing or two about the sport.

Ever since Greb decisively trimmed Harry Wessel, he has camped on Gibbons' trail, and he was the happiest man in all the States when the New York Milk Fund Committee landed the match for him.

Eddie Kane, who pilots Gibbons, says the Greb scrap is a stepping stone to a match with Champion Dempsey. Tom is training at the Commonwealth gym.

Preceding this stellar attraction three eight rounders will be staged. Clonie Tait, lightweight champion of Canada, will be put to the acid test by Joe Welling, the Chicagoan. George Marks, the sensational California bantam, will swap punches with Abe Goldstein, and Luke Tenner, of Scranton, Pa., will show his wares against Al Wagner of Philadelphia.

Theologs Cancel Games

Basketball games of the Boston University School of Theology have been cancelled for the remainder of the season. The games were with Northeastern College and Union Theological Seminary.

BASKETBALL SEASON AT "Y" WILL CLOSE MARCH 16

The basketball season at the Boston Y. M. C. A. will close on March 16. The Boston "Y" 1920 team will play Everett "Y," and the Boston "Y" team will tackle Chelsea "Y," which [illegible] the amateur championship of Greater Boston. The Hub "Y" team will also meet Chelsea on March 16.

JAPONETTE By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

A Charming Romance of Society and a Woman's Way with a Man, by a Master of Fiction

THE STORY SO FAR

James Edgerton, 3d, of an old and aristocratic New York family, returns to New York from abroad on hearing that the firm founded by his forbears has failed. He pays dollar for dollar and finds himself left with an inherited apartment luxuriously furnished, which an iron-clad will has entailed. With two dollars in his pockets he refuses the offer of an old-time friend to help, goes to the apartment, and finds it occupied by two charming young women, distant cousins, who beg him to forgive them for being there. They are as poor as he is and have advertised for a position, using the apartment as their headquarters. They ask him to let them stay until they get employment. All three form a partnership to seek work together. A position is secured with the family of Mr. Rivett, rich, but ignorant of social customs. They arrive at his estate in the Berkshires.

"HE telegraphed your mother the substance of a moderate-sized letter. She's probably in her room now, reading it. She showed it to me in amazement, but I didn't have time to follow all his polite and grateful meanderings."

"I wish to see it!" said the girl excitedly.

"Go ahead; your mother has it. I was anxious to let you know how matters had turned out, first."

"You're a dear!" she repeated, and her voice was not any too steady. "I am happy; I am happier than I've been for—" She checked herself, and bent her head for a moment; he pretended to reread the telegram.

"It will be all right now," he observed.

"I wish I knew," she said, under her breath.

"Don't you?"

She lifted her honest eyes to his.

"How can I know, Jim? I don't know how men are. It all happened over a year ago. . . . I was no wiser than a schoolgirl. What experience had I — with such episodes — such conditions—or with anything?"

Like a Schoolgirl

"You did act like a schoolgirl—to send him about his business," said Edgerton with a shrug.

"I wouldn't have if I hadn't—hadn't———"

"Cared for him?"

"Loved him," she said steadily.

"You're a corker, Christine!" he said in genuine admiration.

"Am I? Thank you, Jim."

"Yes, you are; and so is Billy Inwood—the real Billy. Young men like to chase about with married women. They love to delude themselves into the pleasing belief that they are sad dogs———"

"There was more to it than that," said the girl. "He went to Keno to see her. That is what confounded me."

"While she was getting her divorce?"

"Yes."

"Then you can bet there was nothing in it, you little goose. . . . Who was she, anyway?"

"A Mrs. A[illegible]rstane. Do you know her?"

"No," said Edgerton; "and you certainly did act like a schoolgirl."

"I know I did, and I was twenty. . . . I asked him to come to Hot Springs; she requested him to go to Keno. He took his choice; he had a perfect right to. . . . And then I wrote him that letter, dismissing him."

"Ought never to have done it, sweetness," said Edgerton gravely. "There are no fetters to hold a man like absolute freedom. He was probably bound to her in various ways, innocently enough, of course; but she was probably lonely and in trouble—and—noblesse oblige. I tell you a young man has to pay for sympathizing with an unhappily married woman! And she usually sees that he does."

Christine sat back, nursing her knees, eyes downcast.

"He was right," she said. "She was his friend."

"Perhaps he was more right than you realize, Christine. When a man's man friend is battered and used up, the man still clings to him—anyway, until he borrows money; but when his woman friend becomes slightly the worse for wear, he is inclined to discard her as naively as he would a worn-out coat. That is the rule—romance to the contrary. . . . Inwood proved the exception, that's all."

"Yes," said the girl in a low voice.

"He proved the exception to me, too," said Edgerton, smiling.

"To you, Jim?"

"Certainly; wanted to lend me money when I arrived in town on my uppers."

The girl smiled.

"Oh, he's all right," said Edgerton; "I've known him since he was six and I twelve."

"He — is — all — right," repeated Christine slowly; "but—am I, Jim?"

"You know you are — kleine Fischerin!"

A Wretched Letter

"But I wrote him that wretched letter. If it hurts him as it hurts me——" She ceased abruptly, and turned her face toward the window.

"You were years younger, then."

"One year," tremulously.

"Years, sweetness. . . . Do you think your father will ever stand for him?"

"He scarcely knows him. He did not understand why Mr. Inwood never came to Hot Springs, or why I never again saw him. Probably he supposes I lost interest."

"So your father believes that you are all over that affair, doesn't he?"

"Yes; but he probably remembers that Mr. Inwood was to have come to Hot Springs, and didn't. Fathers usually remember such things, and sometimes ask why."

"Well, Christine," he said, smiling, "you'll have to fix it with your father, and I think you can."

"Why do you think so?"

"Because there is much of your father in you—steel under the velvet skin of that pretty figure, or I miss my guess."

The girl said thoughtfully: "I am, perhaps, more like father than Jack is. . . . That is not really what concerns me. . . . Has Mr. Inwood changed—in appearance.

"Within a year? No! Nor otherwise, I'll wager."

"Do you—think——"

"I don't know; I don't know, little girl. Men are protean creatures; God knows what incarnation they'll assume next! . . . But if a woman really cares for a man, and if he isn't in love with anybody else, it ought to be a cinch—even if he had as many incarnations as Albert Chevalier!"

"Jim!"

"Well, I know my sex," he said; "the cleverest of them are boobs in the hands of yours——"

Horrid or Truthful

"Jim! You are becoming horrid!"

"That means I'm becoming truthful. Hooray! I see Bill's happy finish." He picked up her soft little hand and kissed it. "Velvet and steel," he said—— "the hand that rocks the world! Yes? No? Good-by, you little wretch. I'm going canoeing with my cousin Diana."

"Did you say that mother has that telegram?" she asked naively, sliding from her window-sill to the floor.

"Yes; and it's a mile long—a bally serial, Christine—to be continued this evening, I expect."

They clasped hands at the threshhold; then she ran upstairs, and he sauntered out to the tennis court, where Diana still sat on her high perch knitting the silken tie, although below her the game had ended and the players had gone to the terrace for iced tea.

Man Proposes; Woman Disposes

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

STAR STAR
©1922 BY INT'L FEATURE SERVICE, INC.

"LOVE or Fame," sings the wind in the chimney. "Love or Fame," rustled the fire in the grate. "Love and Fame" isn't an old song—not a so-old question. It is a very new one. "If Love is big enough," whispers the little maid now, that the little man is wooing.

"There was a little man, and
He wooed a little maid, and
He said, 'little maid! will you wed, wed, wed?'"

For nowadays there is a counter-charm, there is a voice that sings in when the lover offers himself to the modern girl who has a genius for amusing or amazing, or teaching, or soothing the world, with some one ability she possesses.

There is the counter-charm of the electric sign, that glitters and whirls her name out to all Broadway, and therefore to all the world, that a maid may walk under and see for herself, and whisper to herself, "Every one says that name, they see it, it is the name of a star—it is ME." She may watch people read it, see them flock in to the wide-flung doors under the sign of shimmering stars that spell out the name of one star, and wonder if the thing is really true, if "that is ME—my name."

Why look, the modern girl is, if you watch her honestly in her fight with her problem, in her struggle to get old-fashioned happiness out of the melee of modern life, actually trying to have both Love and Fame. And a host of "her" is most gorgeously getting away with it.

When life with one man looks beautiful enough, simply "good" enough, even if Fame must be left out, the modern girl will choose life with one man just as her great-great-grandmother did. But both go with life today. And somehow, sometime, the fascinating, talented girl of today is going to have both, and be happy, too, any day in the year.

Anecdotes of the Famous

A certain newly rich person with more money than culture called on M. Massenet and said that he had seen his photograph in a paper and had read that he was a "clever pianist." Would M. Massenet play a few pieces at a little party? He would be well paid, of course!

The world-famous musician was greatly amused. "Certainly!" he replied. "What night?" "Thursday." "Thursday? What a pity! I am engaged on Thursday. But I can give the address of a friend—an excellent pianist, who can play all the modern dances beautifully."

So saying, Massenet gave the unfortunate newly-rich the address of—Saint-Saens! Obviously the victim of Massenet's joke had never heard of Saint-Saens, for he called on the distinguished composer and was promptly kicked out. Saint-Saens brooded over the insult for some hours before he saw the joke.

OUR RICH BABY CROP

WHAT IT PORTENDS FOR FUTURE

By W. A. McKeever

THERE is a plaint going abroad from certain eugenists that the "better class" of the people are refusing to have children in sufficient numbers to keep up the stock of virile and brilliant human beings.

However, if you will look into the matter with discernment you will see little cause for alarm. The world is full of babies, good ones, and the crop seems never to come short of the demand. Rather than to increase the numbers and quality of the children, there is far greater need for an efficient system of bringing to maturity those we already have.

Much Better

Inherently, our common children are ten times better than the care and environment under which they are compelled to grow up. The situation is like that of fertilizing an already rich field and then permitting it to grow up with thistles and cockleburs.

The noxious weeds of economic exploitation and the unchecked ravages of neglect and ill treatment of the young are matters which should have the first attention of eugenists and other classes of social scientists.

The great common stock of mankind are the carriers and transmitters of all the essential human qualities. The so-called better class are found to be simply a class of individuals who happen to "get on" rather more successfully than the average. But this class fails to preserve any clear lines of distinction through even as few as three successive generations. By the end of that brief span of time another "better class" has arisen and out of the loins of no distinct or distinguished group of ancestry.

Perhaps less than 10 per cent. of the children are born with varying degrees of inherent weakness of mind, body and moral potentiality. That this "fringe" of objectionable elements can be reduced through constant eugenic and euthenic measures there is little doubt. But the facts that—

"The poor you always have with you," and—

"Man is prone to sin as the sparks to fly upward"—these seem to be eternal and unsurmountable obstacles to the practical perfection of human existence, of its changes, severities and catastrophies, this old earth refuses to be a tame, easy, or "perfect" place of abode for man. It compels him all the while to play a game of chance with its vicissitudes.

Race of Geniuses

Let us look confidently to the great common stock of parents for our crop of children—the more than 90 per cent. of inherently very good and sound individuals. What use has this old rough-behaving earth with a race of brilliant geniuses. It needs millions of honest yeomanry to subdue its soil, to manufacture its goods, to distribute its produce, and to live in a community of mind, method and aspiration.

Wherefore, let the babies come on, as they will, from the great common folks. The admixtures of blood, race, disposition and ordinary physical quality will furnish the reservoir of inheritance out of which we must expect to draw our "better classes" for the future.

Do You Know That—

"If you want to whistle for it," is a common expression. It originated in a quaint drinking custom as early as 1669. Tankards were made with whistles, which could be blown only when the mug was empty, the drinker whistling for more ale.

Best Recipes

The following are winners of one dollar each in the Boston American's best recipes:

Lemon Gems

One-half cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup butter, pinch salt, 1 cup of flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon. Cream the butter and add the sugar. Add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs and the lemon rind. Sift together the flour salt and baking powder and add them. Then add the lemon juice and lastly the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in gem pans in a moderate oven. This will make eight gems.

A. M. OLIVER,
No. 5 Silver street, Gloucester, Mass.

Never-Fail Mayonnaise Dressing

Start 1 yolk of an egg with an eggbeater in a round bowl. On one side pour a little oil; let it come into the yolk by degrees. Tip the bowl a little. Keep adding a little oil and beating until it gets so stiff you can hardly turn the beater. Now, if it cracks and turn oily then what? Start another yolk in a clean bowl, and add by degrees a little at a time of what you have already spoiled, for you have let in the oil too quickly. Add more oil until it is stiff again. Then add a little vinegar or lemon juice until it is thinner. If you need more add more oil and keep beating. When you have what you think you need, add a little sugar and salt, and a little cayenne or paprika. Taste it. If it is too sour, or salt, or sweet, add more oil. If not enough, add more seasoning. Whites of eggs in it won't keep. No ice is needed, or mustard, or any other foolishness. Will keep indefinitely in a cool place.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

ROMANCE OF NEWLY WEDDED LIFE

Carl Booth Visits Anne in Her New Offices on Saturday Afternoon and Tells Her She Ought Not to Stay in the Place Alone

By Ann Lisle

Copyright, 1922, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

AT the end of a week in my office I was already so well acquainted with the Hoadley hats account that it seemed to run along of itself on sheer momentum. But the Derringforth Shoes and the Yelda Importing Company were just starting out to do national advertising. So in both cases there was a lot of underbrush to clear away before I could determine on the correct policy for them. I had to study not only the figures in magazine circulation, but also the class of readers to which each of the publications I was considering would be likely to appeal.

His Offer

Before many days I realized that I'd made a good deal of outlay with no income. Still, I didn't take the matter very seriously, for we would soon place the copy which I was helping the advertising men of each firm to whip into shape. And up to the time commissions began to roll in, I counted on stretching my credit a bit at the bank where I deposited the goodly rent checks from my department.

On the first Saturday half holiday, when the rest of the staff had deserted the new office, I was sitting alone, working over an idea I'd suddenly thought out for the Derringforth people, when the door opened and in walked Carl Booth. There was something almost hangdog in his air. It might have been amusing if it had not been pathetic.

"Intruding?" he asked. "I thought, in case you didn't shut up shop at noon, there might be a chance that you'd be able to use the gift of my Saturday half-holiday. Wish there were something I could do to help."

"Your interest helps," I said rising cordially to greet him. "And it's proud I'll be to show you over the place.

"It's a fine little place all right," replied Carl heartily, and then with a shade of anxiety in his tone, he went on, stepping lightly with the self-conscious air which I was sorry he couldn't shake off. "But I don't like the idea of your being alone in an empty office like this. Anyone can walk up just as I did."

"Well, why shouldn't they?" I asked indulgently. "I haven't any valuables here to reward hold-up men even if a shabby little building were likely to attract any of the fraternity. And my secretary and office boy wouldn't be much protection if Jesse James did break in."

"It isn't that," protested Carl uneasily. "As your oldest friend, I'm saying what I think your husband would be inclined to feel if we can conceive of his knowing of this project of yours. You—you oughtn't to stay here all alone."

Anne's Ridicule

"You funny old dear!" I cried in the first absolutely natural note I'd been able to strike since our ugly bit of melodrama on the eve of my leaving Haldane's. Anyone would actually suppose you were the brother I've always called you or a maiden aunt watching her unsophisticated little niece plunge into the whirlpool of the ter-ri-ble city. Carl, I'd be safe up here in my little eyrie at midnight. Not that I intend burning the candles at so many ends and for so long a time. But it won't be fear of the perils of a big city which keeps me from doing it. Now that's settled shall we sit down for a cosy little visit—my maiden aunt and I."

"You're a stubborn kid, Barbara Anne. Well, never say I didn't warn you in case the wolves come sweeping down on your fold some day. And now let this lamb make himself useful by looking over your books or your copy or whatever it is you think would be better for a little of 'maidenly aunt' form of attention."

"Here's my first effort in behalf of the client you brought me," I explained.

Carl's Approval

"Good stuff!" cried Carl heartily when he had read it. "I wouldn't change a word or a single one of the types you've indicated. You're a wiz, Annie! Now all you have to do is to get good rates with the people you pick out to place your stuff with."

"You mean the magazine?" I gasped.

"Sure! Why the astonishment?"

"But, Carl, I couldn't. I'm representing the advertiser. He pays me a commission. If I took one from the magazine, too, I'd be tying my hands in case I feel I ought to take my business away or if I want to complain of the way they place or display our work. I can't take money from both sides.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

I SEEN in the paper about a man that could do everything better than anyone else, I sed to Pa. He was a universal genyus.

Never mind, sed Pa, about the genyus. Be a man of one book wen you grow up, Bobbie, sed Pa. Lern to do one thing & to do it well, sed Pa. Even a porch climber is a success, sed Pa, if he can climb porches faster than a poleeceman, said Pa.

How dare you speek such nonsense to Bobbie, sed Ma. Do you want our littel son to look up to porch climbers? sed Ma.

It is the way of the wurld to look up to all climbers, sed Pa. But Bobbie knows I was only joaking about porch climbers, sed Pa. What I want Bobbie to remember is to do everything well or not do it at all, sed Pa. I want him to lern to do one thing very well indeed, said Pa, & then he will be a successful gent, sed Pa, like what I am, sed Pa.

My dear old father cud do many things, sed Ma. He was very versatil, sed Ma.

I know it, sed Pa. One thing I will say, sed Pa, yure old gent cud deel cards better than anybody I ever seen, sed Pa. The men that played poker with him mite as well have mailed him that many money orders, sed Pa.

Do you mean that father deeled the cards rong? sed Ma. Be vary careful, sed Ma.

You bet he dident deel the cards rong, sed Pa. If evver a gent cud deel the cards rite, he cud, sed Pa. I nevver saw him maik a mistaik, sed Pa. But we are on dangerus ground now, sed Pa, so I will move. I merely want Bobbie, all thru his life, to reemember that it is well to lern to do one thing & do it better than most peepul can do it. His path will then be thru rose-strewn ways, sed Pa, & it will not leed to the poor house, sed Pa.

I aint nevver going to no poor house, I am going to be rich, I sed.

I hope so, Bobbie, I hope so, sed Pa, but reemember what I have told you tonite, sed Pa, lern to do one thing well.

I hope I can lern to do sumthing as well as Pa has lerned how to talk.

HOW I CURED MY CATARRH

TOLD IN A SIMPLE WAY
Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.
HEALS DAY AND NIGHT

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different; no lotion, spray or sickening drugs; nothing to smoke or inhale; no confinement in the home; something healthful. You do not have to wait and linger and pay out a lot of money. I will gladly tell you how. I am not a doctor, but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic. I am free. You can be free. My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my head. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. But I found a cure and I am ready to tell thousands of other sufferers that CAMPHOROLE cured me of catarrh of nose and throat.—Mrs. E. Anderson, Pleasantville Terrace, N. J.

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md. — "My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me."—Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 53 Dilley Street, Cumberland, Md.

Mrs. Heier's case is but one of many we constantly publish recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She is willing to answer your letter. Write to her.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

The lull in brokerage failures should not be interpreted as meaning that no more business firms will be cleaned out. Judging by what one hears other bucketshops ought to go and probably will go before the present house-cleaning ends. Everyone will be better off by the abolition of every crooked brokerage outfit in the land.

Whether the Stock Exchange authorities are well-advised or ill-advised in blocking all proposed legislative action is a question. If they succeed this time, it is a foregone conclusion that they will not succeed by an by unless the immediate proposed measures are taken to prevent a recurrence of the bucketing and similar evils on the recent scale. The handwriting on the wall reads: Reform now or suffer revolution later.

The youngest son of the late E. H. Harriman is going to run a hotel, the newspapers announce. This recalls that some years ago picturesque stories were printed about the ambitious plans of a son or sons of Theodore Roosevelt to dot American cities with coffee houses. The coffee, apparently, got spilled, as no more has been heard of the project since.

If a hundred citizens were asked to predict the one man in America most likely to become a future President, the majority doubtless would name young Theodore Roosevelt, now Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

"Ted" is extremely popular with the young fellows of his own age who know him intimately, and he appears to be developing satisfactorily in public office. His brother, Kermit, although identified with a steamship company, has his heart more in writing and in game-hunting than in prosaic business.

The world's principal supply of new gold has been shut off by the strike of gold miners in the Transvaal. One consequence will be a falling off in imports of gold into this country.

Other unionized workers have ceased work in sympathy with the miners, and Johannesburg, the centre of the Rand gold fields, is now in a state of riot. These Rand miners are a dare-devil lot. When they enter the city and visit saloons they sometimes become very difficult to handle. The fact that they have little love for the police makes matters worse when trouble such as the present breaks out. I lived among them and know them well.

The principal mine owners are not easily intimidated and are little likely to give into the men. I have seen a leading mine owner, in face of warnings that he would be shot, proceed to a mine and, entirely unguarded, face a howling mob of them and insist on addressing them. I remember, on one such occasion, when a bomb or a shot was feared at any moment, receiving the scare of my life. I was sitting immediately in front of the speaker's platform when, just as the mine owner stood up to talk, the whole platform collapsed with a crash.

If the general strike continues to be observed, the trouble cannot possibly last long, for the reason that the whole population would shortly be starved, as practically all the food has to be brought from distant points.

The Los Angeles Examiner sends me this: "On Sunday, February 19, the Examiner carried 150 more columns of paid advertising than a year ago."

Are you not, in your own experiences, constantly running across incidents which indicate that prosperity is returning?

Very important interests, I am told, are behind W. C. Durant in his coming fight for business heretofore monopolized by Henry Ford. Durant announces that he will start delivering in June a touring car at $348, the same price as charged by Ford. It would be rash to conclude, however, that Ford will be wiped off the map. Henry is a most resourceful fellow, and, what is also important, he has the wherewithal to maintain a life-or-death fight quite as long as any competitor. At the same time Durant has the reputation of being an automobile genius and, with abundant financial backing, may be able to make things lively for Ford and interesting for the public who, before the battle is over, may be able to buy small cars at ridiculously low prices.

Compared with February, 1921, the loaded freight car movement on the Northern Pacific last month was an increase of 6,364 cars.

Louisville & Nashville earnings in 1921 increased 77 per cent. as compared with 1916, but the wage increase amounted to 160 per cent.

The 1921 net income of the Great Northern, after deduction of taxes and fixed charges, totaled $28,409,926, equivalent to $11.41 a share on the $249,477,150 stock outstanding.

TREND UPWARD FROM THE OUTSET

Highest Prices Are Reached Late in the Session; Short Covering Continues

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

The New York market had a strong close after displaying an upward trend from the outset. The highest price level was reached late in a broad and active session. Short covering continued and was the main reason for the advance. Oils and rails were leaders, but a number of individual issues were especially active. They included Steudebaker, Baldwin, Computing and Tabulating, and Kelley Springfield and American Safety Razor.

Motors were the most prominent issues for a time during the first hour and leaders of this group made small gains. In the second hour coppers attracted attention and advanced. Heaviness of New ork tractions was due to the proposal that the Interboro relinquish leased lines.

Issue to sell at record highest prices were Computing and Tabulating and Columbia Gas. Highs for the current year were established by Ann Arbor preferred, American Telephone, Advance Rumley, American Smelting, Cuba Cane common, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Lee Tire, Great Northern preferred, Pennsylvania and American Safety Razor.

Manhattan Elevated was down 6¼ at its lowest. Largest gains at the close included Pan-American 1, Replogle 1⅛, Utah Copper 1, Ann Arbor preferred 2, American Telephone 1 and Baldwin 1. Transactions approximated half a million shares. The foreign exchange market had an easy tone.

The New York bank statement was favorable, showing a surplus of $30,401,650, a gain of $42,455,680 in a week.

Higher Prices for the Market Leaders.

By W. S. COUSINS

Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 11.—The stock market opened firm and strong today with higher prices for the market leaders in oils, motors and specialties.

Mexican Pete sold at 125⅞, Canadian Pacific 136⅞, up ⅝; Chandler 73¾, up ¼; Studebaker 102½; Sinclair 22⅝, up ¾.

A good improvement was made by the railroad stocks, including Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific and Great Northern, Rock Island and St. Paul. Cosden Oil sold off at 36½. Pure Oil at 30½.

National Enameling was a quarter point lower at the opening, selling off to 35¾, but rising to 36⅛ on subsequent sales.

Westinghouse made up part of yesterday's heavy loss with an opening price of 85¾.

American Can opened at 44, American Woolen 89⅜, New York Central 80¾, Baldwin Locomotive 107½ and Lima Locomotive 103.

Prices were well maintained in the first half hour.

Corporation Reports

The Sharon Steel Hoop Company reports loss of $2,711,675 in 1921.

For 1921 the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company reports net profit after charges and Federal taxes of $1,200,214, against $2,324,470 in 1920.

The United States Glass Company reports a deficit of $400,955 for last year.

The Butterick Company shows net profit, after charges and Federal taxes, of $840,004 in 1921, as against $317,719 in 1920.

The Westinghouse Air Brake Company shows for 1921 net operating profit of $1,412,490, and after payment of dividends there was a reduction in profit and loss surplus of $3,209,477. This compared with net income after Federal taxes in 1920 of $5,330,403.

Sales last year by the New York Air Brake Company totaled but $2,484,743, or the smallest amount for any year since 1911.

S. H. Kress & Co. and subsidiaries report for 1921 sales amounting to $29,008,091, compared with $28,973,846 in the preceding year, and a surplus after dividends of $548,904 against $490,744 in 1920.

Selling More Copper

More copper is being sold both on domestic and foreign account and the price is firmer. About 2,000,000 pounds were sold on Thursday at 13¼ cents a pound and 5,000,000 more could have been marketed at that figure. But sellers wanted 13½ cents for the additional tonnage. Up to yesterday it was figured that sales on foreign account during the week approximated 6,000,000 pounds. England has resumed buying of red metal in this country. Britons have paid 13¼ cents a pound f. o. b. New York.

Town and City Loans

Braintree, Mass., will receive bids until 4 p. m., March 14, for the purchase of a temporary loan of $225,000, dated March 11, and maturing $50,000 October 21, 30, November 8, and $75,000 November 18, 1922.

Lowell, Mass., will receive separate bids, on both a discount and an interest to follow basis, until 11 a. m. March 13, for a temporary loan of $300,000, dated March 13 and payable March 13, 1923.

World's Petroleum Output

The petroleum production of the world in 1921 is figured at a total of 759,030,000 barrels as compared with 694,854,000 for the preceding year. American production increased 6.9 per cent. and the Mexican output increased 19.3 per cent. The United States produced 61.9 per cent. and Mexico 25.7 per cent. of the world's total.

Producing More Coke

The production of more coke in the Connellsville district is a sign of increased activity by steel and iron plants. The output for the March 4 week is estimated at 112,710 tons, a net increase of 6,960 over the total for the preceding week.

Coffee Quotations

New York, March 11.—The coffee market was six points lower at the opening, prices being: May, 8.85 to 8.90; July, 8.85 bid; Sept., 8.90 to 8.95; Dec., 8.98 to 8.98.

Raw Sugar Steady

New York, March 11.—The raw sugar market had a steady opening, prices being: March, 2.35 bid; May, 2.54 bid; July, 2.78 bid; Sept., 2.89 bid; Dec., 2.94 bid.

National Bank Call Coming

Washington, March 11.—A bank call by the Comptroller of the Currency is imminent and will probably be made the first of next week.

London Money Market

London, March 11.—Money 2⅝ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, 3⅜@7-16 per cent.; three months bills, 3¼@5-16 per cent.

Bar Silver Declines

Bar silver was ½d lower at 33⅛d an ounce in the London market today.

LONDON COMING BACK, SAYS EVANS

Indications That Britain Will Resume Pre-War Position as Finance Leader

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, March 11.—Inquiry has been made in authoritative quarters in the city whether London is coming back. It is said that funds from that city have been placed in the United States lately in considerable amount.

That is not surprising in view of the fact that loans over night are made in that city as low as 1¾ per cent. and from that up to 2½, while transactions for longer periods go at rates comparable with the best in the United States where the bulk of the loose funds of the world are supposed to be.

There was no particular leadership in the reduction toward the close of last year in the rates of our Federal Reserve banks and some further reductions since then, though the Bank of England's first marked reduction came a little later than ours. Since that time the quotations on discounts in London have been materially lower than ours, 3½ per cent. being common and 3 per cent. by no means unheard of.

LONDON MARKET BRISK.

Meanwhile the security market of that city has shown in the past few weeks considerable activity. New issues of bonds go rapidly. The rates on which they are based are not strictly comparable with the yields in this country on account of the different classification and also the fact that London lends largely to her own people in the dependencies, the transaction thus being not one in strictly foreign issues.

The amount of new issues marked in the United Kingdom last year was about the same as in the United States which is notable in view of the large depletion of funds in Europe that we so commonly think of.

Naturally money moves from the low to the high market. In investment ways and the handling of merchandise it appears that British funds have come across rather abundantly. Large financial transactions are more promptly carried through under the British system than under ours, and the long experience and elaborate equipment of the British financial houses make practicable the winning of profits on exchange. For example, as an expert of this city puts it, the Briton could recently sell his exchange at 4.45 and could this week have bought it in at 4.35.

THE SPECULATIVE PART.

In that one transaction there would have been a handsome interest income for so short a period. This is a speculative part of the business, but one which makes good returns to those who have knowledge, facilities and luck.

This question of the continued dominance of London has been much discussed by financial authorities. Vanderlip in his comments on the subject from time to time has wavered as almost anybody might who covers the whole subject carefully. Friedman, in his recent big book on International Finances, makes out a strong case for London as certain to hold the same place in the world's finances hereafter that it has held these many generations, indeed running into a period of hundreds of years.

The geographical position of the British Isles is one of the strongest considerations, and their water transportation of merchandise goes over all other nations, this in turn affording great support to the financial leadership. New York seems rooted and rigid in her granite foundations. London is not rooted at all, even in water, but has that blessing as a means of carrying her wherever she wishes to go at low cost.

LOWER RATES NEEDED.

The great reserve percentages of our Federal Reserve Banks would seem to call for lower rates for money, especially in the light of the shrunken figures of the British city.

The failure of the market in this country to decline much is doubtless due in the main to the large element of doubt as to the future of business and the habit of mind created by the extraordinary percentages during and immediately after the war. As confidence increases here we may expect a decline, though not a rapid one. An advantage that we now possess is in the fact that we have placed great amounts of capital in foreign countries at figures that will look very high once money reaches lower rates.

But there is a great change of mind among our people since the war with respect to what we can do. We had a craze, especially in the earlier part of the war, on the subject of capturing the world trade.

Experience since that time has severely chastened our enthusiasm.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, March 11.—Wheat opened ⅝ to 1c lower; corn was ⅛ to ¼ lower and oats were ⅛ to ⅜ lower. Provisions were steady. Opening prices were: Wheat—May, 1.36¼ to 1.35¾; July, 1.17¼ to 1.17; September, 1.11. Corn—May, 62⅜ to 62; July, 55½ to 65¾; September, 67¾ to 67½. Oats—May, 39⅛; July, 41. Lard—July, 11.62.

Weekly Bank Clearings

New York, March 11.—Dun's weekly compilation of bank clearings show an aggregate of $6,070,404,000, an increase of 8.2 per cent. over a year ago. Outside of New York there was a decrease of two-tenths of 1 per cent. from last year.

State Income Tax Returns

Tax department officials expect Massachusetts income tax returns for 1921 to total a little less than for 1920, when the aggregate was 275,000.

Per Capita Money

The per capita circulation of the United States on March 1 this year was $50.27 against $50.43 on February 1 and $50.48 a year ago. On the first of this month the money in circulation in this country totaled $5,188,742,758 against $5,409,120,745 on February 1 this year and $6,298,610,383 on March 1 a year ago.

Wall Street Briefs

The Keystone Power Corporation of Delaware, capitalized at $11,000,000, has obtained a charter in the State named to distribute light, heat and power.

The only European financial centres which now have a 5½ per cent. discount rate are Copenhagen and Prague. The Paris 5 per cent. rate goes into effect on Monday next.

According to S. S. Kresge Company's plans it will add to its chain this year seven new 5 and 10 cent stores and eleven 25 cents to $1 stores, besides greatly improving five old stores.

Lower Bankof France Rate

(By Cosmopolitan News Service.)

New York, March 11.—The Bank of France today reduced its rate of discount from 5½ to 5 per cent. The former rate had been in effect since July 18, 1921. The 5 per cent. rate is the lowest since August 2, 1914.

PRICES ADVANCE ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

American Telephone at New High for Five Years; Coppers Firm

The Boston market was strong at the start and firm all the morning. At the close gains exceeded losses two to one. American Telephone advanced a point to a new high for five years. Pacific Mills advanced two points, selling at its highest since 1920. Island Creek sold at a new record highest price, gaining more than two points. Boston & Maine D and Boston Elevated preferred climbed a couple of points and United Fruit 1. Largest losses included Calumet and Hecla 1 and Agricultural Chemical 1⅜, while Boston & Maine and Swift International recovered part of point losses. Trading was fairly active for a Saturday and of usual breadth. Cappers were quiet and had a firm tone.

The Curb market was quiet and irregular. Leaders were Boston & Montana, Crystal, Mutual and Three Metals. Price changes were small. Boston & Montana closed with 2 cents loss at 45 cents, Crystal was up 1 cent at 57 cents. Mutual was off 4 cents at 32 cents and Three Metals ended unchanged.

MASSACHUSETTS TRUST BUYS HAYMARKET BANK

The Massachusetts Trust Company has purchased the entire assets of the Haymarket National Bank of No. 46 Canal street, in the Haymarket square district.

The Haymarket National Bank was established about a year and a half ago and is in a healthy and prosperous condition, but the need of a larger bank in this section was so essential that negotiations resulting in the purchase were started.

The total resources of the bank are about $900,000. The present quarters will be retained and known as the "Haymarket Branch."

The former president of the Haymarket Bank, Mr. Frank DeW. Washburn, with the former vice-presidents, Warren C. Blair and George R. Fisher, will serve on the advisory board. Arnold Whittaker, the vice-president and treasurer of the Massachusetts Trust Company, will act as the chairman of the board. Coleman Levin, treasurer of Coleman Levin & Co., will be its fifth member.

William H. Thayer, for the past twenty years associated with the Shoe & Leather Mercantile Agency, will be the manager of the new branch, and Irving A. Priest, former assistant cashier, will be assistant manager.

With the establishing of the Haymarket Branch the Massachusetts Trust Company will have three offices, their main office being in the Massachusetts Trust Building, No. 49 Federal street, and their up-town branch at No. 238 Huntington avenue.

SEEK CLUB HOME FOR ALL VETERANS' SOCIETIES

The Associated Veterans' Societies of New England, welding together practically all the war veterans' organizations, today began a campaign to establish a permanent home and club building in Boston. Included among the organizations are the First, Second, Third and Fourth Division Associations, the Massachusetts Marine Corps Association, Vimy Camp, Canadian Veterans; American Women's Overseas League, Twenty-third Engineers, Fifth Division Association, Military Order of the World War, Naval and Military Order of Spanish War Veterans and the North Sea Mine Force. Nuhemous other organizations, including the American Legion, are considering membership in the new body.

SAYS GERMANY IS TOO SESIBLE TO MAKE WAR

Berlin, March 11 (By the Associated Press).—Minister of Defence Gessler, speaking in the Reichstag today, declared that German military men were much too sensible to think of an aggressive war with the means at their disposal. Dr. Gessler said he would like to reply to the allegations which were continually recurring in the Entente press, accusing Germany of attempting to train more troops behind her regular army. The experience of the war had shown, he said, that no war could be conducted without the last workman and the last peasant.

BILL INCREASING U. S. JUDGES IS OPPOSED

By International News Service.

Washington, March 11.—Strenuous opposition to the bill creating nineteen additional posts in the Federal judiciary, developed in the Senate today. It was conceded by supporters of the measure that only the support of the administration can bring about its passage. Republican Senators, whose States were ignored in the appropriation of the new judgeships, are uniting in opposing the bill.

OWNER OF ROXBURY SALOON HELD IN $2,500

Austin Needham, proprietor of a soft drink saloon at No. 233 Cabot street, Roxbury, was held in $2,500 for a hearing on March 17 in Roxbury Court today on a charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance. Police say ten gallons of moonshine was found in a raid. Testimony was also offered that Needham had made sales to officers in civilian clothes.

New York Bank Statement

New York, March 11.—The weekly statement by New York Clearing House banks shows as to actual condition an increase of $42,455,680 in surplus reserve.

Liberty Bond Prices

New York, March 11.—Opening prices for Liberty bonds were: 3½s 96.72, 2d 4¼s 97.36, 3d 4¼s 98.38, 4th 4¼s 97.50, Victory 4¾s 100.82.

Fuel Oil Consumption

During 1921 railroads in this country consumed 39,138,824,000 barrels of fuel oil as compared with 45,847,000 in 1920. Returns to the American Petroleum Institute show that 27,813,000 barrels were domestic oil and 11,209,000 barrels were from Mexico.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—If a young man of seventeen years owns his own machine, is he able to get a license to run it? Would you be so kind as to answer this question personally, as I have had several arguments over it?

Chelsea, Mass. B. J. C.

All questions are answered through this column. We do not send answers personally. We understand that you can get an operator's license if you are over sixteen, but you will have to pass the examination.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—1: Can a German C. & H. six-cylinder magneto be changed over to a four? 2: I have an Overland Four five-passenger touring 75 B., with original carburetor, and get only 15 miles to the gallon. Can I attach one of the late series, say 1921, and get 20 miles, or what carburetor would you suggest for more mileage? 3: The steering worm has a play of half of the diameter. Can this be taken up or would you suggest two new worms? A. H. S.

Boston, Mass.

1: No. 2: Put on the same make of carburetor, only a later model like the one used on the model 90 Overland, and you may increase your mileage, but not very much. 3: Shift the square and adjust the eccentric on the steering gear. This may take up some of the play. If it does not, get a new worm and sector and eccentric bushing.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I have a Chevrolet touring car, model 490, 1916. This car has a Connecticut distributor, which has been changed by the driver of the car and the timing has all gone wrong. As this car is quite a number of miles from a Chevrolet service station I would like to have you tell me, through your column, how to time it, assuming that the change may have been either on the cam-shaft gear or the vertical shaft which the distributor is mounted on. Also, please give firing order. The writer expects to go Saturday morning to try and time this and will eagerly seek your first issue of the American. R. W. E.

Belmont, Mass.

Bring your No. 1 cylinder to top dead centre on your compression stroke. The markings on the flywheel should read 1-4. Take any point on your distributor for No. 1 cylinder and connect to proper spark plug. Your breaker points should just begin to open with your spark fully retarded. Having done this, wire up your distributor as follows. 1-2-4-3, which is the proper firing order. We are assuming that your valves are properly timed and this should fix you all right.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—Would it be practical to use a small rheostat on the instrument board like that used in wireless telephone to reduce the electricity entering battery to prevent batteries becoming overcharged, to cut in on charging wire from generator to battery via ammeter? I know it can be done by cutting in on field of generator. D. L. R.

Boston, Mass.

There are rheostats on the market which can be used for just this purpose and we understand they are used successfully. Almost any supply store can furnish them.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I have a 1915 Metz roadster, two chains (one on each side). In turning to left or right the chain on the left side draws up awfully tight and finally breaks; also if I buy a new chain, what size do I ask for? This happens regardless of how loose the chain is. W. J. M.

Medford, Mass.

This sounds as if your jack-shaft were out of true. If there is play so that it moves back and forth it changes the line of the sprocket so it throws your chain off. True this up and put in new bushings.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—Being interested in your column, I would like you to answer the following questions as near as you possibly can: Are King Touring cars still manufactured? If so, where and what was the price of the 1914 or 1915? Are parts hard to get for this make? Trusting you will answer through your column as soon as possible. W. G. M.

Lynn, Mass.

Yes. The King Motor Car Company, of Detroit. The car you mention was a four-cylinder. Price, $1,195. Get in touch with local King dealer for parts.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I bought a new Ford that never was run. I tried to start it with the self-starter and by cranking the same time, one man on the starter and the other on the crank, and it failed to start. Would it be all right to take off the cylinder-head, apply oil in each cylinder and tow it until it got limbered so you could crank it? Could I use gasoline or ether in each cylinder and try it that way? What would you suggest? F. M. B.

Newburyport, Mass.

You might remove your cylinder head and use a little oil or kerosene in every cylinder, but hardly think it is necessary. Have your car towed and see if you cannot start it this way. The oil in the bearings is hardened up so that the car is simply stiff. If the motor is turned over from towing you will probably have no trouble in starting it.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—There is a knock in my Ford engine which I have been told is caused by piston slap. I have tried oversize piston rings, but that did not remedy it. Will you kindly tell me how I can find out which piston it is that is worn while the engine is running, and if I take off the cylinder head how must I proceed to find out which of the four cylinders it is that is worn. Also what is the way to proceed to remedy the fault. I wish to do the work myself. J. A. L.

Newton Centre, Mass.

Would suggest that you drive your car into any Ford service station and they will determine where piston slap is, and then you can do the work on your car yourself if you wish to. I doubt if you yourself could determine this while your motor is running. You can take the head off your motor and find if the pistons have play in the cylinders, which would show you the piston slap.

DURANT'S STAR CAR ON EXHIBITION IN BOSTON

W. C. Durant's latest automobile achievement, the Star car, a four-cylinder, five-passenger machine that retails for $348, will be exhibited in the salesrooms of the Collins Motor Car Company, No. 1037 Commonwealth avenue, for a week starting today. The car was first introduced to the public in Washington a few days ago and made a great hit. It was viewed by 25,000 persons. The car represents the fulfillment of Mr. Durant's promise to produce an ideal family machine at a minimum cost.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 11.—Heavy rains over the Eastern section of the belt, where they are not needed, partly explained an opening advance of 3 to 5 points in the cotton market today. Liverpool interests and local shorts bought moderately and Wall Street and room traders sold. After the start, a steady tone prevailed, the list showing only a few points decline from this initial level. Opening prices were: March, 18.20; May, 18.13; July, 17.42; October, 16.80; December, 16.62; January, 16.46.

REFINEMENT IS KEYNOTE OF AUTO SHOW

Brilliant Coloring Marks Models Seen at Opening of Exhibit in Mechanics Building

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

With the opening of the doors of Mechanics Building today at 2 o'clock the public of Boston, and in fact all New England, has its first view of the 1922 Automobile Show, which is without any doubt the greatest exposition of automobiles, trucks and accessories this city has ever seen.

The tendency in design as shown at both the New York and Chicago Shows has been toward a refinement of body lines and fittings, such as to make this year's cars the finest product of the coach builders' art.

The mechanical end of the machine has long since approached so near the engineers' ideal that few changes have been made in motor design, that is changes that might be called radical.

The motor car of today represents the product of the best engineering brains of this country and Europe, for the war taught us lots about motor cars.

The brilliance of the lighting effects and the wonderful decorations have transformed the prosaic Mechanics' Building into a veritable maze of scintillating beauty and the setting furnishes a fitting background for the luxurious closed models and snappy sport cars and touring cars in all their alluring colors.

One thing is evident and that is that individuality stands out in color schemes in the painting of cars this year. It is no longer necessary to accept the oldtime colors of the carriage days. Brillians hues are the vogue.

The truck exhibit discloses the latest designs in both light and heavy duty models, with special dumping bodies and others.

In the accessory department, the motorist may find new and interesting fixtures for the drivers' comfort.

Accessories have become a very important feature of the modern automobile and so many new ones are coming out each day that a show of this kind is necessary for the owner to appreciate just how easy manufacturers have made it for the motorist to manipulate the machine with the slightest effort in giving signals, sounding warnings, turning on guiding lights, etc.

Further details of the Show will be given in the American's Automotive Number on Monday.

FRANK CILLEY GOES FROM VIM TO SAXON

Frank Cilley, who for the past three and a half years has been with the Vim Motor Truck Company, has joined the sales force of the Jackman-Jameson Company, Westcott and Saxon distributors. Mr. Cilley is well known in the trade and in his new connection will have the best wishes of all his friends.

PENAL BILL SEEN AS MOVE TO SETLEMENT

An order for the printing of a bill "to provide for the uniform and efficient administration of penal and reformatory institutions" reported by the House Committee on Rules is believed to mark the turning point toward the settlement of the dispute between Governor Cox and county officials who have opposed the Governor's plan for State control of penal institutions. It is believed the measure will pave the way for an amicable adjustment of the differences over the question.

WORKER IN HALIFAX GETS REAL REMBRANDT

Halifax, N. S., March 11.—A painting sold as "an oil painting, artist unknown," and purchased by a local workman for twenty shillings, because "it had a good looking frame," turns out to be a priceless "Rembrandt." After the purchaser washed the picture he found the signature of the famous painter, and the date, 1658. The picture is supposed to be of Rambrandt's wife, who was formerly his servant, and their child.

VETERAN LAWRENCE TELEGRAPHER IS DEAD

Lawrence, March 11.—James Hanrahan, telegrapher, who for the past thirty-five years has been associated with the Western Union office of this city, died at the Barr Sanitarium, where he had been confined for several weeks. He was a native of Lawrence and resided at No. 208 Oak street for nearly sixty years. He was a graduate of the Lawrence High School. He leaves one sister, Miss Nellie Hanrahan.

Rail Dividend Reduced

New York, March 11.—The Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie declared semi-annual dividends of 2 per cent on common and preferred, payable April 15 to stock of record March 22. The road has been paying 3½ per cent. semi-annually on both classes of stock.

FAMOUS TITLES TEST OPEN TO ALL READERS

Opportunity for Everyone to Share in 219 Cash Awards

Any reader of the Boston American can take part in this $5,000 Famous Title Test and, if he is a resident of New England of Canada, may win one of the 219 cash awards.

Registration is not necessary.

Enrolment is not required.

You are not expected to notify the Test Editor of your intention to participate. Cut out and save the Test Drawings. Hold them until the close of the Test. Write a title for each. Send them in "all together at one time."

ONE-SIXTH OVER.

With the printing today of Test Drawing No. 10, the new Test is one-sixth over. It will consist of 60 drawings, each illustrating a famous title.

(Only the TITLE is pictured; the artist does not concern himself with what may be back of the title. Whether it be book, play, poem or what-not, he does not inquire. He takes the word, or the words, which form the title and he makes a drawing to fit THEM.)

At the close of the Test, following the appearance of Drawing No. 60, you will send your set of sixty pictures to the Boston American and this newspaper will divide $5,000 in cash among the 219 of you who have sent in the largest numbers of Correct Titles. These are the awards:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 each	1,000
110 Awards of $5 each	550
Total	$5,000

ENTIRELY DIFFERENT.

New Contestants, reading here about the recent Membership Competition and its enrolment blanks, naturally have been more or less confused by the "enrolment" question.

That competition is ended. It has nothing to do with the reader who wants to take part in this Famous Titles Test, but whose name was not sent in by some contestant for the Membership prizes.

You may never have seen one of those Enrolment Blanks, and yet you are free to enter the Famous Titles Test without enrolment, registration or notice of any kind.

Begin today [if you have not already begun] by cutting out today's picture. Write a title for it. Remember that the title must be one which appears in today's List of Titles.

One title in today's List of Titles fits today's picture better than any other title in this list. That title is the Correct Title. This will be true every day.

SAVE YOUR DOLLAR.

If you spend one dollar, or any other sum for one of the lists of POSSIBLE answers on which certain gentry hope to collect some easy money, you will have no one to blame but yourself if the result is confusion. No person has, or will have, any advance or inside information of any kind whatever about this Test and its pictures and titles. Your own POSSIBLE answers are just as good as the POSSIBLE answers of any other person. Enjoy the Test, save your dollar, and send us your own possible answers.

The Test Editor is in receipt of the following communication, which he thinks may be of interest to all:

Test Editor:

Please answer through the Boston American the following questions about the Famous Titles Test:

1—Will there be any "trick" pictures?

2—Does the picture illustrate the TITLE ONLY?

3—Can the Correct Title be found without any knowledge of the book in question, as in the recent Book Title Test?

4—Will you use words with an obsolete and remote meaning?

5—Can the pictures sent to those who participated in the recent Book Test be used by us? (They were sent as samples.)

The Book Test was the first I participated in and I had 43 Correct Titles. I expect to do better this time. F. W. L.

Worcester.

TEST EDITOR'S ANSWERS.

1—In a sense, of course, all contest pictures are "trick" pictures. The artist has endeavored to illustrate a title in such a way that you will not readily identify it. We shall, however, use no Test Drawing concealed within another picture.

2—Yes; the artist illustrates nothing except the TITLE.

3—Yes. Absolutely and unequivocally, yes.

4—No obsolete words or definitions. I do not follow you on "remote," but we are not going to tie the artist hand and foot.

5—Yes; that was the intention.

J. P. M., Taunton—It is not necessary to inform me. You are not expected to register or enroll. The way to begin is to begin. Mid-way in the Test I expect to be able to supply back pictures.

Mrs. D. S., Brockton—Glad to hear from you, but enrolment is unnecessary. Continue to cut and save the pictures.

Mrs. E. W. P., Westerly—Carbon copies of any description will not be accepted. Use the sort of tracing paper the children use in school.

Mrs. N. M. W., Amesbury—You are not too late; enrolment is unnecessary. Cut and save the pictures. The Enrolment Blanks I have spoken of were blanks used in a recent Membership Competition. Do not worry your head about them. They do not concern you in any way. Any reader of the Boston American, residing in New England or Canada, is eligible to the Famous Titles Test.

A. B., Chicopee Falls—We are glad to have you with us. It was not even necessary to inform me that you are taking part. The entertainment is open to every reader.

Mrs. R. S., Calais—You are not too late. Save every picture from now on and look for an announcement midway in the Test that back pictures are available. My remark that our "party is now complete" was based upon the foolish supposition that no one would care to jump in after Drawing No. 4 had been printed. My mistake.

F. L. W., Hopedale—I find it there.

A. P., Fall River—Note some of the replies above. You are not too late.

F. S., Pawtucket—The Membership Competition was a "special" contest, put on at the close of the Book Title Test. Those who had taken part in that Test were invited to compete for 219 special awards, valued at $5,000, which will be paid in a few weeks to those who sent in the largest numbers of New Contestants. The top prize will be $1,000, just as in one of the Title Tests. Just at present the lists of New Contestants they sent in are merely "names." Their value cannot be determined until the Famous Titles Test is ended and we can ascertain how many of those named on these lists actually have taken part in the present Test. If the Membership Competition should be repeated you will have your chance.

E. A. K., Worcester—The Correct Titles of the 60 Book Test Drawings will be printed all over again as part of the story of that Test which will appear in a few days. Responsibility for the delay belongs to two of the leaders in the Test who have been tardy in getting their photographs to us.

GETS IT REGARDLESS.

M. E. P., Worcester—The Famous Titles Test and the Membership Competition have no such connection as you suggest. The winner of the Membership Competition may decide not to send in a set of Famous Titles Test pictures; or he may come out of the Title Test with only a dozen Correct Titles; nevertheless, he will receive his Membership Competition $1,000. On the other hand, the winner of the Famous Titles Test $1,000 may be someone who turned her pretty nose up at the mere thought of asking any one to join the Test. That was her privilege and she will have the Famous Titles Test $1,000, regardless.

L. W., Burlington—The Lists of Titles are not to be sent in with the Test Drawings. They are numbered for your convenience. Cut them out and save them. You may want to go over them, from time to time, in connection with the pictures. But do not send us the Lists of Titles.

Test Drawing No. 11 will be printed in Monday's Boston American.

Rules of the Titles Test

The Boston American Famous Titles Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by this newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day for sixty days consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Boston American.

All employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of sixty pictures, each representing a famous title, to be printed one each day, in the Boston American, the first picture on Wednesday, March 1, 1922.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every title must be written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American; or on a page of some book form of itself, accompanied by the picture furnished by the Boston American, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, that is, do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Famous Titles Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed it is absolutely necessary that the packages be fully prepaid at postal rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first-class matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Famous Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The list appearing will contain, among others, the correct title.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Famous Titles Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible, through the columns of the Boston American. If participants desire personal replies they should enclose stamped and self-addressed envelopes.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

BIG MUSICAL WEEK FOR BOSTON

Handel and Haydn Gives Concert Tomorrow; Steinert Concert Thursday

The fourth concert of the season by the Handel and Haydn Society will consist of a revival of Dvorak's "Stabat Mater," which splendid religious oratorio will be performed by this historic organization in Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

The soloists at this performance will include Helen Stanley, the former leading soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, who has been particularly successful in concerts of late; Kathryn Meisle, a young American contralto, who has not yet been heard in Boston, but of whom many enthusiastic things have been said; Arthur Hackett, the noted tenor, who is well known here, and Clarence Whitehill.

Wagner Program for Pension Fund.

A program, consisting entirely of excerpts from the music dramas of Wagner, will be played at the forty-first Pension Fund Concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the proceeds to be devoted to the fund for retired musicians of the orchestra. The concert is to be in Symphony Hall Sunday afternoon, March 26, at 3:30.

Heifetz.

Jascha Heifetz, the great Russian violinist, will give a concert in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 2, at 3:30. This will be his last appearance at the L. H. Mudgett concerts, and any holding tickets for the concert postponed from February may use them on this date only.

Schumann-Heink.

Madam Ernestine Schumann-Heink, one of the greatest contraltos of all times, will come to Boston to give her only concert here this season, when she sings in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 9, at 3:30.

Philharmonic and Mengelberg

The fifth Steinert concert at Symphony Hall next Thursday evening, March 16, will present for his first appearance in Boston the Hollander, Willem Mengelberg, with the combined forces of the Philharmonic Society and the defunct National Symphony Orchestra of New York.

Next Friday evening, March 17, Miss Edith Woodman, soprano, will give a song recital in Steinert Hall. Mrs. Charles A. White will be the accompanist. Mr. George Brown, violoncellist, will play the 'cello obligato to Jean Hure's "Elegie" (words by de Bredenbec).

Extra Symphony Concert.

Next Monday evening, March 13, at Symphony Hall at 8:15, the fourth concert of the newly instituted series of five by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be given.

Dulcy Coming.

One of the promised comedies of the season that is being awaited with considerable interest is "Dulcy," which is to be made known at the Hollis Street Theatre a week from Monday.

Butt-Rumford.

Clara Butt, the famous English contralto, who is now known as Dame Clara Butt, an honor recently bestowed on her by King George V., has returned to America in a tour of the world, together with her husband, Kennerly Rumford, who is a baritone of similar fame. They will give a concert in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, March 19, at 3:30.

Ricalde Concert.

Raymond Ricalde, a young Spanish tenor, will give a concert in Jordan Hall tonight. He will have the assistance of Miss Mae Shea, soprano, and Frederick Duncan, baritone. Mary S. Crocker will be at the piano.

Lappas, Greek Tenor.

Ulysses Lappas, the remarkable Greek tenor, whose name is mentioned more and more as on a par with the immortal Caruso, has been induced to favor Boston for one concert engagement, at Symphony Hall, Sunday evening, March 19th.

Associated with him for his first appearance in Boston will be the young Armenian nightingale, Mlle. Nevarthe Shaghoian, a dramatic soprano who has won high laurels on the operatic and concert stage in Europe, Asia Minor and Africa.

The London String Quartet.

The London String Quartet will open its Beethoven cycle week at Jordan Hall on Monday evening next, and will continue every evening through the week, playing three final quartets, composed in 1825 and 1826, on Saturday afternoon, March 18.

Anna Case.

Anna Case, the soprano who is remembered as one of the finest artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company during many past seasons, will come to Boston and give a concert of her own in Symphony Hall on Tuesday evening, March 28.

Adolph Bolm Ballet.

The list of officers of the Boston Branch of the Society of American Friends of Musicians in France, together with the special executive committee for the event, and the roster of guarantors, embracing the most prominent names in social and musical circles in this city, is sufficient guarantee of the rare treat that will be afforded by the appearance at the Shubert Theatre on Monday afternoon, March 27, of the Adolph Bolm Ballet Intime, with Carlos Salzedo conducting the special orchestra.
